RAIL WORKERS ACCEPT SLASH OF 10 PER CENT

Nearly 2,000,000 Will Be Affected by Wage Cut for Year.

200 CARRIERS EXPECT TO SAVE $215,000,000

Agreement That Ends Long Negotiation Applies to All Employes.

Chicago, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The unionized forces on United States railways today accepted a 10 per cent wage reduction for the year beginning February 1, making an unprecedented decision in the expressed hope of stimulating the revival of business.

Negotiations that started January 15 ended this afternoon as the representatives of nearly 2,000,000 rail workers agreed to the proposal of the employers and the representatives of more than 200 railroads promised an earnest and sympathetic effort to maintain and increase employment.

Basic rates remain the same, but a flat 10 per cent will be deducted from each railroad worker's pay check from tomorrow until January 31, 1933, when the agreement automatically terminates. The railroads expect to save about $215,000,000, making the reduction to unorganized employes as well as the brotherhood and union men.

Expected to Help Business.

It was a momentous occasion, widely heralded as a possible spur to renewed business activity, as the men whose wages are protected by contract capitulated to the arguments of their employers. In addition to the immediate importance as a relief measure to the stricken railway industry, it marked an entirely new phase in the relationship between railway capital and labor.

For the first time, on a Nation-wide scale, presidents of railroads and heads of labor organizations sat at a conference table and proceeded amicably and unhurriedly to work out a solution to their problems. At no time during the 17 days they were in session or were deliberating their next move, was there any animosity between the two groups. There were no threats, no references to strikes and lawyers were admitted to the conference room only at the final session to help word the articles of agreement.

The labor delegation tried to have a definite standard set for the stabilization of employment, it sought to bargain for a 6½ per cent deduction and it made a half-hearted attempt to start a joint study of the six-hour day. But in the end the unions bowed to what they recognized as "the urgent needs of the railroad industry and the demands of the public welfare" and accepted the full 10 per cent cut.

What Railroads Pledge.

The concessions granted the workers were substantially those that had

Hotel Requests Cyr To Find New Office

Self-Styled Governor of Louisiana Told He Is Not Wanted.

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 31 (U.P.).—Management of the Heidelberg Hotel tonight "respectfully" asked "Gov." Paul N. Cyr to move his "executive offices" from the building. Cyr, leader of the "out" forces in Louisiana's war of the governors, had maintained his "gubernatorial" headquarters there for two days.

The note was signed by Roy L. Heidelberg, manager of the hotel. It said: "I respectfully request you to move your office from the hotel, thereby correcting an erroneous impression that is sure to prevail about Hotel Heidelberg and myself politically."

It was pointed out that Heidelberg had supported Governor Designate O. K. Allen, administration candidate during the recent primary election, and had already recognized Alvin O. King as governor of Louisiana, in the note.

$75,000,000 Treasury Bills on Sale Thursday

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mellon announced yesterday that the Treasury would sell $75,000,000 of Treasury bills to the highest bidder on Thursday.

The bills, which will be dated February 8, will mature in 93 days when they will be redeemed at face value. The proceeds of the same will be used to retire a like amount of bills which mature on February 8.

3 Swear Biggs Told of Part In Old Slaying

The mystery which has shrouded the murder of Barney McBride, wealthy half-breed Indian oil operator, was lifted last night, according to police, in a signed statement, sworn to by three persons, that Temple Biggs, under arrest in the renewed investigation, had received $1,500 to help the murderers dispose of the body.

Sheriff W. Curtis Hopkins announced last night he had obtained a statement that Biggs had told three persons he was an eye witness to the murder. The motive for the murder, according to the statement, was the theft of from $20,000 to $25,000 which McBride had won at a gambling house in Prince Georges County on the night of August 10, 1922.

The statement made by Mr. and Mrs. William Pumphrey and Leo Hazel attributes to Biggs the story that McBride had frequently visited the gaming house and on the night of his death he won upward of $20,000. Several men present made plans

PRESSURE BY WETS ON PRESIDENT SEEN

Action of Jersey G. O. P. in Withholding Pledge Is Held First Step.

(Associated Press.)

Up and down the political seaboard the presidential waves are mounting with squall warnings apparently not far in the offing.

Failure of the New Jersey Republican committee to come out immediately for renomination of Herbert Hoover last week was interpreted here as the first of expected moves from the wet States to bring pressure on the President to swing their way.

Democratic observers are closely watching Alfred E. Smith, whose formal entry into the New Hampshire March primary in opposition to Gov Roosevelt of New York, has been predicted.

The League for Independent political action, headed by John Dewey, of Columbia University, issued a call yesterday for a third party and outlined a broad program of "progressive principles."

Norman Thomas, 1928 Socialist candidate for President, condemned both parties in a statement issued here and called for direct Federal aid for unemployment.

Declarations Saturday for Smith by Gov. Ely and Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, were regarded as the forerunners of an open contest between Smith and Roosevelt, who nominated him as the 1928 Democratic presidential candidate.

The Roosevelt drive is being pushed in important sectors, including Massachusetts, and the opposition is apparently swinging to Smith as the foremost possibility to block the governor's push. Roosevelt's name was entered in Pennsylvania Saturday.

It had been expected that Gov. Ritchie of Maryland would test

Train Mail Robbers Get Loot of $12,500

Pittsburgh, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Revelation of the theft of $12,500 from a mail pouch on a Pennsylvania Railroad train was made today by postal inspectors.

The money was taken Tuesday night from a baggage car on a Turtle Creek branch train as it proceeded between Hawkins and Roup. The pouch was opened with a key. The cash had been shipped by the First National Bank of Export. It was consigned to the Federal Reserve Bank branch here.

MORGAN PROFIT $10,883,626 ON FOREIGN BONDS

Senate Finance Group Says Investors Lost $2,000,000,000.

$115,000,000 REALIZED BY NEW YORK FIRMS

Losses on South American Issues Are Estimated at $1,100,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

Gross profits for J. P. Morgan & Co. of $10,883,626 from the sale of foreign bonds in the United States from 1919 to 1932 were reported yesterday by the Senate finance committee.

A statement of the Morgan profits was made public by the committee as an aftermath of its inquiry into the flotation of foreign securities in this country.

It brought the total profits since the war from this source, it was testified before the committee, by about a dozen New York banking houses to approximately $115,000,000.

Other Houses Gain.

In addition, other banking and financial houses all over the country reaped profits many times larger from the sale of the securities. On these, it has been testified, American investors lost untold hundreds of millions of dollars.

The Morgan company listed gross profits on a $100,000,000 loan to France in 1920 as $599,504, but the spread on this issue, or the difference between what the purchasers paid and France got, was 6 per cent, or $6,000,000. The balance went to others participating in the loan.

The statement filed with the committee by Thomas W. Lamont, Morgan partner, showed the firm's expenses on the sales were $811,722, leaving a net profit, including overhead expenses, of $10,071,903.

Gross profits of $10,313,919 were made from the sale of $1,807,578,000 of governmental bonds and $569,706 from the flotation of $68,000,000 of foreign industrial loans.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Report.

The committee also made public yesterday documents placed in the record by Senator Johnson (Republican), California, which were partially checked by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the Commerce Department. They estimated the total foreign securities sold to the American public from 1914 to 1931 at $15,000,000,000.

These documents figured the American investing public had lost more than $2,000,000,000 on these issues from defaults and depreciation and that the bankers who sold them had made nearly $1,000,000,000 in commissions.

Losses from South American bonds were placed at $1,100,000,000; from European government securities, at almost $800,000,000 and from European industrial issues at $464,000,000.

It was estimated that more than $2,400,000,000 of European government and government guaranteed issues are still outstanding.

American loans abroad were shown to have totaled more than $1,000,000,000 each year from 1924 to 1330 inclusive, with the exception of 1929.

Two Are Killed as Nazis And Communists Clash

Dortmund, Germany, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Two persons were killed and a third was critically wounded in a political fight between Nazis (Fascists) and Communists here today.

Berlin, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Members of the new "Iron Front" organization, representing parties sworn to uphold the German republic, packed the large Sports Palace for a meeting today.

Latest War Bulletins

Tokyo (Monday), Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Efforts to establish a neutral zone in Shanghai were reported to have been made today. It was authoritatively said, however, that Japan could not agree to give up defense of its sector against Chinese to a third power. The spokesman contended that this would be tantamount to withdrawal of Japanese subjects from that area, as the Japanese would be aroused by its occupation by the forces of another nation.

Nanking (Monday), Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Informed quarters here today expressed a feeling that the impending arrival of American and British troops at Shanghai might avert a Chinese declaration of war on Japan. It was felt that the arrival of American and British troops might have a quieting effect and prepare the way for a settlement of the Shanghai dispute. Consequently the decision to declare war might never be implemented.

Tokyo (Monday), Feb. 1 (A.P.).—L. M. Karakhan, Soviet Russian acting commissar for foreign affairs, informed Japanese Ambassador Hirota today that Russia might be compelled to protest against the entry of Japanese troops into Harbin, Manchuria. In authoritative circles here it was stated the advance on Harbin will be continued.

Paris, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—France has joined with the United States and Great Britain in representations to Japan that the International Settlement at Shanghai be respected, it was officially announced tonight. A French armored cruiser now at Saigon, French Indo-China, and other naval units in Far Eastern waters will sail soon for Shanghai to protect French residents. Foreign reports that France was adopting a pro-Japanese attitude in the Far East in exchange for Japan's support of the French policy at the Geneva arms conference opening Tuesday were officially denied.

CHINESE AT NANKING SWELLED BY 30,000

Crack Division Is Ready to Defend City Against Possible Attack.

Nanking (Monday), Feb. 1 (A.P.). Thirty thousand national guardsmen, the finest troops in all China, streamed into Nanking today from Honan Province.

This crack division, equipped with German automatic rifles and clad in smart green uniforms, will be stationed here to defend the city in case of a Japanese attack, it was announced, although there were reports it might be destined for service in Shanghai.

The Mayor of Nanking was assured by the Japanese consul that although seven ships of war have been concentrated in the Yangtze River, no offensive would be opened against the city. He expressed hope the Chinese troops would refrain from any hostile action in order to avoid anything similar to what has happened in Shanghai.

Breast-high sandbag barricades, erected in various parts of the city yesterday, were removed to avoid possible misunderstanding.

The foreign office protested to the American and British governments that the Japanese had used the Shanghai International Settlement as

Fog Delays Search For 8 Aboard Plane

Missing Air Liner Believed to Have Crashed; Hope Is Abandoned.

Los Angeles, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Wet, foggy weather handicapped the search today for the missing Century Pacific air liner which, with its pilot and seven passengers, disappeared between Bakersfield and Los Angeles late Friday and is now believed to have crashed in the rugged terrain surrounding Lockwood Valley.

Ground parties penetrated the district and a few airplanes combatted the fog, but the major air survey was suspended due to low visibility. The valley is 20 miles southeast of Lebec.

Hope has been abandoned for the lives of those aboard the plane, including Frank Dewar, chief deputy sheriff of Los Angeles, and three women.

Participation of the Army Air Corps in the search was officially interrupted at noon, when Col. H. H. Arnold ordered eighteen planes, ten pursuit ships and eight bombers, to return to March Field, at Riverside, from the Grand Central Airport here and the Alhambra Flying Field.

Sweden's Tariff Hoist Hits at U. S. Articles

Stockholm, Sweden, Jan. 31 (A.P.). The Riksdag approved a government proposal tonight to increase tariffs on many "luxury articles," effective tomorrow.

American industry will be chiefly affected by an increase in duty on exposed films, the new schedule raising the duty from 80 krone ($21.41) on 100 kilograms (220 pounds) to 1,500 krone ($402). Finance Minister Hamrin, who introduced the bill, said it was only a temporary measure to help balance the budget.

NEW INSTRUCTIONS DISPATCHED FORBES

France and Italy Will Join America and Britain in Stand on Issue.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States followed up its military and naval gesture toward Japan yesterday by making additional diplomatic representations over the activities of Japanese civilian reserves in Shanghai, it was learned at the State Department here yesterday. Secretary Stimson dispatched more explicit instructions to American Ambassador Forbes in view of the impending crisis in and about the International Settlement.

The United States is not alone in its attitude of grave concern over the trend of events in Shanghai. Great Britain has given categoric assurance of her close cooperation with the United States and similar steps, though in a lesser degree, will shortly be taken by France and Italy.

Secretary Stimson's representations to the government at Tokyo have resulted in an impressive diplomatic mobilization of the former allies, but this time in the cause of peace in the Orient.

The State Department has advised the "utmost forebearance" in dealing with the critical situation there now and has urged its representatives to exhaust "every effort to remove by cancellation any friction that may develop."

Secretary Stimson also announced that he had expressed his approval to the League of Nations of the appointment at Shanghai of a neutral commission of inquiry. This was proposed by the league council in emergency session Saturday.

Instructions were cabled to the French and Italian Embasies yesterday from their respective foreign offices, and attaches spent most of the day decoding the cables for presentation to Secretary Stimson today. French Ambassador Claudel will present the reply of the Laval government personally, but Italian Ambassador de Martino left for New York last night and will be represented by

Gunmen Get $55,000 In Gold Bullion Plant

Attleboro, Mass., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A night watchman told police that six gunmen entered the Horton-Angel Co. plant, where he is employed, early today and after binding him carried off gold bullion, wire and rolled stock. Officials of the company estimated the loss at between $55,000 and $60,000.

The watchman, Patrick J. Walsh, said the men entered the plant, which furnishes gold materials to jewelry concerns, about midnight. Walsh said he managed to free himself shortly after they left.

FOUR AMERICAN VESSELS REACH FIGHTING SCENE

Martial Law Is Ordered in Shanghai After Bloody Battles.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS ALARM RESIDENTS

French Mount MachineGuns; Serious Engagement in Hongkew Area.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Shanghai, Monday, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Four American destroyers steamed into Shanghai's harbor today to lift the anxiety of foreigners frightened by fighting between forces of China and Japan.

Negotiations by the American and British consuls general to bring peace between Japanese bluejackets and Chinese soldiery had broken down. But a lull in gunfire in the northern part of the city, near the International Settlement, somewhat eased the tension in the foreign colony.

U. S. News Heartening.

So, too, did the news from Manila that United States foot soldiers, Marines and more warships are on the way to join the Marines and ships now protecting American lives and property.

The American flotilla of four fighting craft broke through fog banks at the mouth of the Yangtze at 10 a. m. and rode up the river to Shanghai within an hour. Three went to prearranged positions overlooking the city. The fourth was to go on to Hankow, miles upstream, to protect American lives and property there.

More Seriously Concerned.

The vessels came to find the International Settlement more seriously concerned in the situation than at any time since the hostilities broke out Friday.

Martial law for the protection of the foreign residents was scheduled to take effect at 10 o'clock tonight, restricting the movement of persons in the Settlement.

Vicious developments had alarmed the public. Long peace parleys ended with the negotiators declaring "the truce will continue." But no arrangement was made for the negotiators to reconvene. It was feared the slightest aggressive move on the part of either belligerent would upset the delicate equilibrium.

Sanguinary Battles.

Yesterday was a bloody day. There were outbreaks of rifle fire in the downtown area of Hongkew and in the French Concession, with a loss of many Chinese lives and fewer Japanese.

Japanese forces were reported to have caught 28 Chinese and executed 20 in the yard of the Chinese Christian Church in Hongkew, Japanese-occupied area of the International Settlement.

Fifty patients with infectious diseases were moved out of the Settlement's isolation hospital, around which the fighting had raged. They were taken across the Settlement to a hospital in the French Concession.

Mount Machine Guns.

French authorities mounted machine guns at important street intersections and closed many streets with barbed wire, seeking thereby to prevent riots. They refused, Chinese newspapers said, to let Japanese troops enter the French section to

Harvard Professors Ask Japanese Trade Boycott

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 31 (U.P.).—Harvard professors have sent President Hoover a petition asking termination of all commercial relations between this country and Japan if it should appear "that the Japanese action has violated the nine-power treaty or the Kellogg pact," it was announced tonight.

The petition, signed by sixteen prominent professors, also urged that the United States "prohibit the export to Japan of arms and ammunition and other commodities which might be used for military purposes." The petition was circulated by Chinese students at Harvard.

U. S. Envoy and Staff En Route to Nanking

Peiping, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Nelson T. Johnson, American minister to China, left for Nanking today with his wife and his staff. He did not announce whether he intended to go to Honanfu; to which the seat of the Chinese government is being hurriedly moved.

Outlying sections of North China reported tonight that business was going on as usual, railways were operating and there were no disorders anywhere. Chinese authorities in the northern sections had forbidden demonstrations against the Japanese.

1,560 MEN DEPART TO AID AMERICANS AFTER PRESIDENT DECIDES ON MOVE

Hoover Issues Directions Following Unexpected White House Parley; Taylor to Take Charge.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE ACT TO SEND VESSELS TO HELP

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover actively assumed his role of commander in chief of the Army and the Navy yesterday, and by his direction last night, eight additional United States warships and 1,560 fighting men were on their way to protect Americans in turbulent Shanghai.

In a formal statement, issued by the White House after President Hoover had called an unexpected conference of his chief military, naval and diplomatic advisers, it was announced that 1,000 American infantrymen—members of the Thirty-first Regiment—were being sent from Manila, capital of the Philippines, to Shanghai.

Sail on Transport Chaumont.

The infantrymen and part of the Marines sailed at midnight on the Navy transport Chaumont.

This marks the first time in 32 years, excluding the World War period, that regular American soldiers have been sent oveseas in such an emergency, the last occasion having been the Boxer Rebellion in China.

With the Thirty-first Infantry, which saw service in Siberia under Maj. Gen. William S. Graves, now retired, is an additional force of 560 Marines, who will reinforce some 1,200 of their comrades already on the scene.

Four Warships Reach Scene.

In addition the heavy cruiser U. S. S. Houston and seven destroyers were dispatched from Manila to Shanghai, where, for several days, there has been spectacular fighting between the Japanese and Chinese forces.

The Houston is the flagship of Admiral Montgomery Taylor, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet. Because of his high rank, this Government had been reluctant to send him to the Chinese metropolis. The fact that he is now on his way indicates the gravity of the situation. Once arrived, he will take charge.

With the arrival of the Houston and the seven destroyers which left yesterday and last night, virtually the entire Asiatic fleet will be massed at Shanghai.

President Hoover's action in directing additional men and ships to Shanghai came as the result of an appeal from Consul General Cunningham, in Shanghai, for further protection of American citizens in the International Settlement.

The White House announcement was issued after this Government had been officially informed that Great Britain was rushing three large cruisers from Hong Kong to Shanghai, together with a battalion of infantry and a battery of artillery.

3,600 Americans In Shanghai.

There are 3,600 American citizens in Shanghai, and twice that many British citizens.

Military men here are amazed that there have been no serious casualties among these citizens. To judge from cable accounts of the fighting, both Chinese and Japanese have been firing recklessly within the International Settlement.

Thus far, Russia, which has large numbers of her nationals in Shanghai, has not shown any great desire to assist the United States and Great Britain.

France, which also has large numbers of nationals there, last night announced she was sending a warship from Saigon, Indo China, and other naval units in Far Eastern waters to

White House Statement Upon Protection Action

The following White House statement was issued last night:

"A conference was held by the President today with the Secretaries of State, War and Navy, Undersecretary of State Castle, Chief of Staff Gen. MacArthur and Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Pratt. The request of American Consul General Cunningham and our naval officers at Shanghai for still further protection of American citizens in the International Settlement at Shanghai was considered.

"Directions have been given to send to Shanghai the Thirty-first Regiment of about 1,000 men now at Manila together with 400 Marines on the transport Chaumont, leaving tomorrow. The cruiser Houston and six destroyers left Manila this morning for Shanghai.

"With these additions to the Marines already there, the total American forces in the settlement will number to about 2,800. As soon as conditions permit the troops will be returned to Manila."

3 DESTROYERS QUIT MANILA FOR CHINA

Six Other Vessels Ready to Proceed to Shanghai to Protect Nationals.

Manila, Philippine Islands, Monday, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Three destroyers steamed out of Manila Harbor shortly after 9 a. m. today (8 p. m. Sunday, E. S. T.), as the advance guard of nine ships of the Asiatic fleet ordered to Shanghai to protect American lives and property perilled by the Sino-Japanese fighting.

Four other destroyers and the 10,000-ton cruiser Houston are scheduled to sail at 1 p. m. (Midnight Sunday E. S. T.). The transport Chaumont with a thousand soldiers of the Thirty-first Infantry will follow the Asiatic fleet squadron tomorrow.

The Thirty-first Infantry, comprising 1,000 men and 56 officers, began hurried packing of their field equipment. They are taking no artillery, the troops, quartered in the old walled city, are commanded by Col. Lorenzo D. Gasser, veteran of the service in the Philippines and France.

The yacht Isabel was added unexpectedly to the flotilla. It is usually

Montgomery Civic Leader Praises Post's Essay Test

"The Washington Post in inaugurating The Post Washington Essay Contest is doing a fine service in citizenship building," Frederick P. Lee, president of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, stated yesterday in commending the essay contest in which The Washington Post is rallying the youth of the city and vicinity behind the George Washington Bicentennial banner.

"George Washington was not only a fine soldier, an excellent executive and a constant inspiration to his countrymen but he was in every sense of the word, a good citizen," continued Mr. Lee. "His example is a splendid one in public service. Not only did he serve the state after the Republic was organized and before that as commander in chief of the Continental Army but in his young manhood he was a member of the House of Burgesses, representing his district in this early legislative body; he served Alexandria in a number of civic capacities and was to be found on all committees of his day which made for the betterment of his fellow men.

"Our young people can not learn too early that a citizen must give of himself in some way to repay for the blessings and privileges of freedom. The boy or girl who learns this in youth will not depart from it when the time comes to take on the burden of active citizenship.

"In Mongomery County we esteem it a high privilege that our students in public, private and parochial schools have been given the opportunity to contest for the 108 cash

U. S. FLEET IS READY TO "RETAKE" HAWAII

65 Vessels Are to Compete With Theoretical Enemy in Maneuvers.

Naval Base, San Pedro, Calif., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The main striking force of the American Navy—the United States battle fleet—puts to sea sometime after midnight tonight in full fighting trim.

Sixty-five ships, embracing all arms of the Navy, together with Army and Marine transports, representing an expeditionary force, are under orders to "recapture" the Hawaiian Islands from a theoretical enemy for the 1932 joint Army-Navy maneuvers.

Two great war game problems, mapped out by the war plans divisions of the Army and Navy a year ago, are scheduled before return of the fleet to its base here next month. The first is "recapture of the Hawaiian Islands" and the second will be "invasion of the Pacific Coast."

Keyed to Unusual Alertness.

The 27,000 officers and men of the battle fleet are keyed to an unusual alertness for the spectacular maneuvers. The mobilization hour tenseness incident to these annual battle exercises is electrified with the knowledge that other ships of the Navy are actually speeding to a real war zone to protect American interests in China.

Nine great battleships, 2 mammoth aircraft carriers, 4 scout cruisers, 30-odd destroyers, 6 submarines, together with the fleet train of mine sweepers, hospital ship, supply ships and tankers, as well as the repair ship and two transports, form the fleet which Admiral Richard H. Leigh, commander of the battle force, takes out to sea.

The main battle force moves from the naval base here, while from San Diego destroyer base the destroyers, scout cruisers and submarines, with transport of United States Marines, will get under way, and from San Francisco, simultaneously will steam the Army transport St. Mihiel, laden with infantrymen, artillerymen and the other units of the Army's expedition.

Each Unit Under Orders.

Each unit is under sealed, secret mobilization orders, to be opened when at sea, to provide a rendezvous for the whole force at the earliest possible time somewhere in the Pacific.

Some twenty-three hundred miles the force will move across the Pacific to recapture the Hawaiian Islands.

Meanwhile Maj. Gen. B. H. Wells, commanding Army forces in Hawaii, and Rear Admiral George T. Pettingill, Naval commander there, are preparing to repulse the attack. Their forces, representing the "Black" enemy, comprise the defense units regularly stationed in the islands. They include Army troops, aviation units, coast defense forces, and the naval submarines, and the mine layers.

This first war game of the exercises will take ten days or more. A week or two later the second exercise will be held. For this the fast arm of the Navy—the scouting fleet—will steam through the Panama Canal from its Atlantic bases, under orders to protect the Pacific Coast from an invasion by the battle fleet.

3 U. S. SHIPS LEAVE MANILA FOR CHINA

headquarters of Rear Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, commander of the fleet, when he is in port. Its officers announced it would sail either tonight or tomorrow.

The flotilla of the Asiatic fleet, with the transport, carry a force of more than 2,000 blue jackets, Marines and soldiers. The Marines were divided—300 going aboard the flagship Houston and the remainder on the Chaumont.

The Houston is faster than the fleet of destroyers, and all of the craft, aside from the Chaumont and the yacht Isabel, are expected to arrive in Shanghai late Wednesday.

The order to prepare for sailing was given by Admiral Taylor shortly after midnight last night upon receipt of instructions from Washington, D. C.

Admiral Taylor is believed here to be the senior officer of all international forces in the vicinity of Shanghai. This may mean that the admiral, who fought with Dewey in the battle of Manila Bay, may be in charge of negotiations after his ships reach the battle-torn zone.

The arrival of the ships will place the Houston, 14 destroyers and seven gunboats of the Yangtze River patrol at Admiral Taylor's disposal for the protection of American life and interests in China.

Two destroyers were already at Shanghai and another at Nanking. The river patrol boats are permanently quartered in on the Yangtze.

Only twelve submarines, various auxiliary craft, naval planes and the Chaumont remain at winter headquarters, aside from three destroyers which are undergoing their annual overhauling.

Receipt of the order from Washington before midnight was followed by a conference between Admiral Taylor and other high officers aboard the Yacht Isabel in Manila Harbor.

Later, the Houston, flagship of the fleet, moved across the bay from Cavite, where she had been undergoing minor repairs, indicating that she was ready to sail in considerably less time than had been previously announced.

The destroyers which will follow in the wake of the Houston are the Peary, Pillsbury, Ford, Whipple, Barker, Edwards and Smith-Thompson.

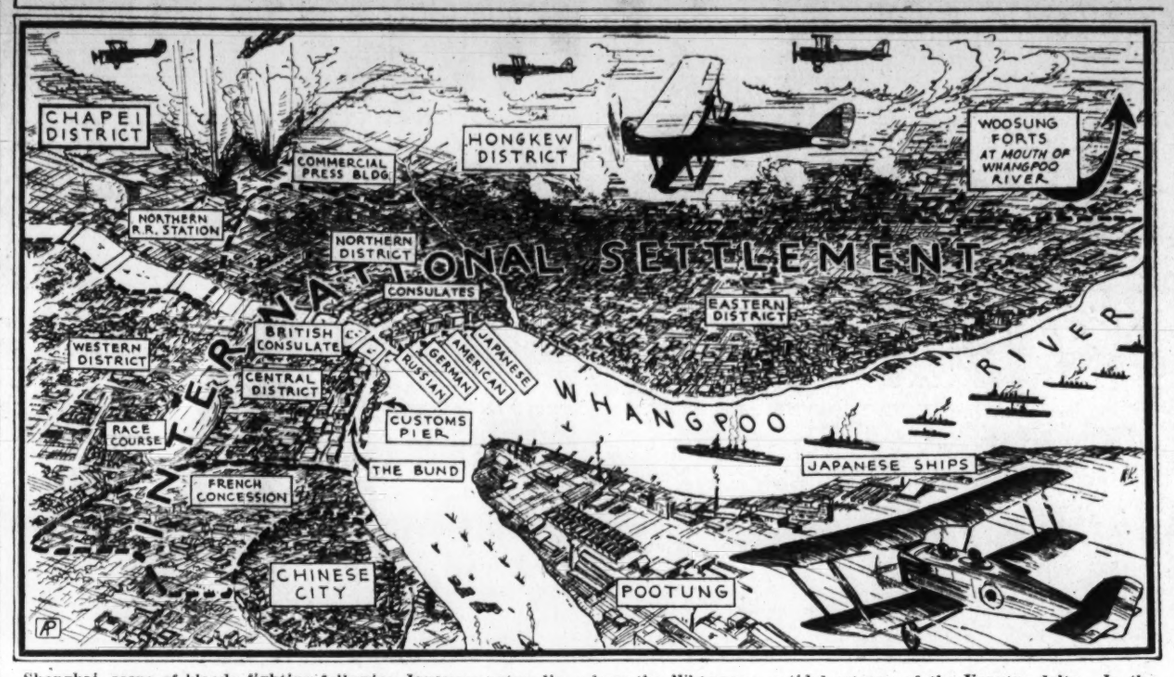
Sailors were given shore liberty last night as usual, but their holiday was over at 8 o'clock this morning. Several hundred crowded into small boats in high spirits shortly after dawn as the rumor that the order to sail was soon to be issued passed around.

Yacht of Fleet's Chief Will Leave for Shanghai

The yacht Isabel, which is scheduled to leave Manila for Shanghai, is the yacht of Rear Admiral Taylor, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet. It has a complement of about 80 men and 8 officers. It carries several 3-inch guns.

Until about two years ago it was the flagship of the fleet of United States gunboats plying the Yangtze River patrol. The Government took over the yacht during the World War and it was assigned to the yacht patrol at Brest, France.

BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF SHANGHAI, WITH POINTS OF WORST FIGHTING



Shanghai, scene of bloody fighting following Japanese entry, lies along the Whangpoo, a tidal estuary of the Yangtze delta. In the left foreground is the race track, where U. S. Marines and British and French soldiers mobilized for defense of the International Settlement. The Americans guarded the northern border of the foreign section, along Soochow Creek. The Japanese landing parties, assembling in the eastern section, circled the Chapel district and tried to pinch the Chinese back against the settlement's limits. The Northern Railway Station was taken and retaken and it and the Commercial Press Building were destroyed by fire. Later the Japanese pushed into the northern district of the International Settlement and pushed across Soochow Creek to the grounds of the British consulate. The Pootung district, across the river, is the locale of Japanese cloth mills.

CHINA RENEWS PLEA FOR LEAGUE'S HELP

Delegates Reach Geneva for Arms Parley Opening Tomorrow.

Geneva, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—China renewed its plea to the League of Nations to take "effective measures" to prevent Japanese aggression and preserve peace as delegates of powers great and small arrived for the world conference on arms limitation opening Tuesday.

W. W. Yen, Chinese spokesman said China reserved the right to claim suitable reparations for damage done by Japan at Shanghai. Those who were about to attack the manifold perplexities connected with the problem of limiting and reducing armaments were concerned over the armed conflict there.

Joseph Paul-Boncour, president of the league council, was at Paris. It was hoped that some report would be available at the next council meeting Tuesday from the hastily formed commission of league powers set up to investigate the Japanese invasion of Shanghai.

The American delegation to the arms conference was completed by the arrival of Hugh S. Gibson and Hugh R. Wilson from Berne. Mr. Gibson is Ambassador to Belgium, and Mrs. Wilson is Minister to Switzerland. J. H. Thomas, head of the British delegation, called on Arthur Henderson, British president of the conference and held over teacups what was described as a feast of reconciliation. Their meeting was seen in some quarters as indicating that perhaps the breach between Henderson, former British foreign minister, and the British government, from which he retired along with other staunch labor members when the cabinet of Prime Minister MacDonald was reorganized, might be healed.

Disarmament Sessions Slated Throughout U. S.

The opening of the disarmament conference in Geneva tomorrow will be marked by disarmament demonstrations throughout the United States, according to the Women's International League, under whose auspices the observance has been arranged. Mass meetings, services in churches, exercises in schools will be held in more than 100 cities and towns. A feature of the observance will be the ringing of church bells at 11 o'clock tomorrow, when the conference convenes.

Resolutions urging United States leadership in the disarmament conference will be presented at every observance and brought to Washington for presentation to President Hoover next Saturday. Following the presentation at the White House, a disarmament luncheon will be held at the Carlton.

Among the cities which will participate in the observance are Boston, Providence, New Haven, Syracuse, Brooklyn, Baltimore, Richmond, Jacksonville, New Orleans, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Topeka, Fargo, St. Paul, Denver, Salt Lake City, Reno, San Francisco, Portland, Oreg.; Tacoma, Santa Barbara, Tulsa, El Paso and San Antonio.

Gratification Expressed Over French Cooperation

(Associated Press.)

News of French action in joining America and Great Britain in their joint moves in the Far Eastern situation was received last night without public comment in official circles, but distinct gratification was expressed generally.

Press dispatches telling of the French move were immediately communicated to the White House and State Department. They followed persistent reports from Europe that France would cooperate only with the League of Nations in its peace efforts.

Collier Is Improved; Others Reported Ill

(Associated Press.)

The condition of Representative James W. Collier, of Mississippi, chairman of the House ways and means committee, who collapsed in his office Saturday, was reported better yesterday.

The sick list of the House includes Representative McDuffie, of Alabama, the Democratic whip; Representative Warren, of North Carolina, chairman of the House accounts committee; Representative Quin, of Mississippi, chairman of the House military committee, and Representative McMillan, of South Carolina, all Democrats.

reinforce American and British forces.

Not since the World War days, when Woodrow Wilson was in the White House, has there been a conference quite like that which took place yesterday. No announcement of it had been made in advance, and not even Theodore Joslin, the President's secretary, knew about it until advised by reporters. Later he was summoned to the White House to issue the formal statement.

The first man to arrive was Stanley K. Hornbeck, chief of the Far Eastern Division of the State Department. Under his arm he carried numerous papers and a huge map of China.

He was taken to the Lincoln study on the second floor of the Executive Mansion, where the President awaited him.

Then came the others who were to take part in the conference—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of Naval operations, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of the Army's general staff.

Conferees Are Silent.

None of those who took part in the conference would talk when they emerged from the White House. They had joined the President at 2 o'clock. It was after 4 when they left. White House policemen were under orders to bar all photographers.

Shortly thereafter, Secretary Joslin called newspapermen into his office and handed them the formal statement. This statement was in conflict with one later issued by the Navy Department.

The White House statement said 400 Marines were being sent from Manila to Shanghai. In his report to the Navy Department, Admiral Taylor said he was taking along 322 Marines stationed in Manila and 240 Marines who had been embarked for home on the Chaumont.

The statements also conflicted with regard to the number of destroyers ordered to Shanghai, the White House giving the number as six and Admiral Taylor as seven.

Admiral Taylor received his orders to proceed to Shanghai long before the White House conference took place. The decision to send the Army regulars, however, was reached at the conference.

Would Send Everything.

Admiral Pratt, in a statement Saturday, said that "we will send everything from Manila to China if it becomes necessary to evacuate American citizens or to protect them in the International Settlement."

There now remain in Manila two destroyers, twelve submarines, an aircraft tender with twelve planes, the submarine tenders Beaver and Canopus, and the destroyer tender Blackhawk.

These last three vessels have been ordered to be in readiness to sail for China, if necesary, for the evacuation of American citizens.

Admiral Taylor, in accordance with instructions sent him by the Navy Department, has ordered his men to exercise the "utmost forbearance" in dealing with Chinese and Japanese in Shanghai.

What the American Government fears is a spread of Bolshevik activity or a wave of antiforeign feeling that might produce another Boxer uprising.

The Thirty-first is in command of Col. Lorenzo D. Gasser, a native of Ohio. He took over the outfit this summer, after having served with the general staff here in Washington.

Expected to Be Brigaded.

The Thirty-first is expected to be brigaded with the Fourth Regiment of Marines, which has been in Shanghai since 1927 when civil war imperiled the lives of American citizens.

The United States now has half of the Fifteenth Infantry at Tientsin, China. American troops have been maintained there ever since the Boxer uprising against foreigners in 1900. The duty of the Fifteenth is to guard the railroad.

Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham notified the State Department yesterday that a complaint had been lodged with the Japanese consul general as a result of the bombing of the Methodist Episcopal Church South and the invasion by armed Japanese of the American Law School.

His report follows:

"Firing continued intermittently all day and the night of January 29.

"On January 30 Japanese airplanes bombed the Chinese Press Building on the Paoshan road, the North Railway Station and other places in the vicinity.

"A bomb was dropped in the French Concession near the former Walled City.

"A bomb dropped January 29 through the roof of a three-story building of property of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. At the time the bomb was dropped a Japanese airplane was overhead, and the consensus of opinion was that the bomb came from the airplane. No Americans or Chinese were injured by the explosion of the bomb. The Methodist Episcopal Church South has title to a compound containing Soochow University Law School, Middle School and other buildings.

Entered Law School.

"About midnight of the 29th a crowd of Japanese vigilantes wearing armbands, together with armed Japanese marines, entered the American Law School, which is the law school of the Soochow University, an American Missionary institution. This school is on the Quinsan road in the International Settlement. They were ostensibly searching for arms. Some damage was done to furniture and fixtures. This school and the Soochow University Middle School were then sealed by Japanese military. Other similar instances are reported, some causing a considerable damage."

The American Consul General at Nanking has suggested to the commander of the destroyer Simpson that one destroyer be stationed at Wuhu, where 50 Americans reside with others in the interior, and one additional ship at Nanking, where resident Americans number approximately 180.

RAILROAD WORKERS ACCEPT WAGE CUT

previously been described by their spokesmen as unsatisfactory. The railroads pledged their "earnest and sympathetic" efforts to keep up present forces and increase them if possible, with each road negotiating with its men for that purpose. They agreed to refer to a joint commission the subjects of retirement insurance, elective workmen's compensation and dismissal wages. They promised to establish regional employment bureaus in New York, Chicago and Washington.

Two things undoubtedly had a vital bearing on the outcome, although neither was a recognized factor in the negotiations. The first was the possibility of a larger permanent reduction, raised by the railroads in the formal notices already served by the railroads asking for a 15 per cent reduction. The second was the possibility of strengthening materially the amicable relations between the men and the railroads.

The 15 per cent reduction notices were filed late in December as a precautionary measure so that the process of forcing a change in pay could get a quick start in case the negotiations on the voluntary cut failed. One of the conditions attached to labor's acceptance of the voluntary reduction today was that the roads withdraw the 15 per cent notices and discontinue further proceedings thereunder.

Robertson's Interpretation.

David B. Robertson, a former fireman who rose to the head of his own brotherhood and then to the leadership of the entire railway labor structure, made it clear that in signing away part of their pay at this time the workers were not accepting the theory that such reductions "are to be regarded ordinarily as the appropriate means to promote prosperity."

"We can not believe," he said, "that the public welfare is advanced by reducing the purchasing powr of labor.

"But with a profound sense of our responsibility to the workers whom we represent and to our country, we have weighed the urgent needs of the railroad industry and the demands of the public welfare in this present unparalleled situation against the individual sacrifices requested of the railroad employes.

"In the hope that our action may improve the health of our industry, may improve the cooperative relations of management and employes, may stimulate a revival of business, and may advance the general welfare we have decided to accept the proposal."

Union Officials Take Cut.

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, announced tonight that sixteen officers, including himself and 110 general chairmen of the brotherhood have decided to take a voluntary 10 per cent reduction in salaries.

The reduction will continue, Whitney said, as long as the organization members receive reduced pay from the railroads on which they are employed. The brotherhood officials and chairmen are working on contract, it was explained, and are in no way obligated to accept salary cuts. Brotherhood dues are expected to be reduced by the officials' action.

BRITAIN TO INCREASE FORCES AT SHANGHAI

More Troops Are Ordered to War Zone on Plea for Reinforcements.

London, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The British government today ordered additional troops rushed to Shanghai.

A battalion of infantry and a battery of artillery will leave Hongkong at once on a warship. These troops are being sent in response to a request for reinforcements from Brig. Gen. George Fleming, British commander in the International Settlement.

Already the British have in Shanghai a battalion of the Scots Fusiliers, a battalion of Lincolns and a battalion of Wiltshires.

The naval forces on duty there consist of the cruiser Cornwall, the sloop Sandwich and two gunboats. The cruiser Kent is expected to arrive from Batavia shortly and the cruiser Suffolk was due from Hongkong today.

A foreign office communique announcing the naval movements said the decision to send reinforcements was made at a meeting at No. 10 Downing street participated in by Prime Minister MacDonald, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty; Sir George Milne, chief of the imperial general staff, and Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent undersecretary for foreign affairs.

During the day Ray Atherton, American Charge d'Affaires, conferred with Mr. MacDonald a number of times at the prime minister's Downing street residence. Sir John Simon was called from his sick bed to participate in the principal conference.

The foreign office said that the British government was urging the Japanese and Chinese governments to accept a scheme for establishing a neutral zone between the two armies at Shanghai which would be occupied by neutral troops.

Sandringham, England, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—King's messengers arrived here several times today with urgent messages for King George dealing with the Sino-Japanese situation at Shanghai. The king also was kept in close touch with developments by telephone and telegram.

ANGLO-AMERICAN PROPOSAL FOR SHANGHAI PEACE FAILS

guard Tungwen College, Japanese institution on the western border.

All Japanese residents of other quarters of the city were moved into Hongkew, where they were under the direct protection of strong patrols of Japanese sailors and marines.

Japanese military displays included maneuvers over the International Settlement by seventeen airplanes.

A wave of apprehension swept down the entire lower section of the Yangtze River valley. Reports from various river ports as far west as Hankow told of feverish preparations by Japanese communities against attacks by these Chinese. The Japanese concession boundaries at Hankow were strengthened and defense works were put up by the Japanese at Kiukiang.

Chinese sniping activities were blamed by the Japanese for a heavy exchange of firing during Sunday in widely separated areas of Shanghai.

Scenes of complete confusion were enacted in Hongkew and along the important Nanking road when, without warning, they were spattered with fire of rifles and machine guns.

The day's first serious troubles occurred within the Hongkew waterfront area just across Soochow Creek the sgyscraper business district. A sniper's shot was the signal for a fierce burst of fire from uniformed Japanese patrols, and panic-stricken crowds sought safety in wild flight.

Within a few moments after the sniper's bullet cut the air, squads of steel-helmeted Japanese sailors and marines, their bayonets fixed, swarmed into the area, driving the Chinese before them.

The dead and wounded were removed in ambulances. Many foreigners in the streets were exposed to grave danger, and the grounds of the Catholic general hospital were swept by bullets.

Numerous shots were fired in the vicinity of the Astor Hotel and of the British consulate at the very time when the conference aimed at peace was going on within the consular offices.

A serious outbreak occurred in the east Hongkew district near the wharves of Japanese steamship interests. Heavy casualties were suffered here by both the Chinese and Japanese.

A few moments later there was gunfire in the French concession, followed in turn by the killing of a Chinese within a block of the fashionable Cathay Hotel, situated at the corner of Nanking road and the famous Shanghai Bund.

Most of those killed in these affrays were bystanders caught by stray bullets.

Japanese marines and sailors spent the day searching the Hongkew district for Chinese snipers. Streets were kept clear, the majority of the Chinese having been evacuated during the night of lawlessness that came to an end with dawn Saturday.

The streets of Hongkew were patroled by Japanese volunteers in civilian clothes, armed with swords, pistols, baseball bats, clubs and lead pipes.

Settlement officials revealed that special committees had been formed of local residents to work out plans by which the population and the resources of the settlement would be placed on virtually a military basis.

The committees will seek to mobilize all available man power, placing each resident where he is most needed. This service will be voluntary.

Another committee will deal with the problems of food, fuel and transport, and a third will have general responsibility for the safety of members of the colony. Plans were being made for billeting and for possible evacuation.

Little could be learned about the details of the negotiations for peace.

Coast Town Reported Attacked by Japanese

Canton, China (Monday), Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Chinese newspapers said today that Japanese marines had landed at Swatow, on the coast, and fired on Chinese, but there was no confirmation.

NAVY BUILDING BILL WINS NEW BACKING

eFar East Crisis Focuses Congress' Attention on Military Needs.

(Associated Press.)

Out of the Sino-Japanese crisis may come approval by Congress of a $600,000,000 naval construction bill and dismissal by the Democratic House of efforts to economize by curtailing Army and Navy expenditures.

Senator Hale, of Maine, chairman of the Senate naval committee, plans in a speech on the floor this week to urge passage of the legislation. Although approved by the House naval committee, the measure has been shelved pending the outcome of the Geneva general arms conference.

Should the Far East situation become still more acute, many members indicated that thy would be anxious to see the huge construction plan pushed through at once.

Drastic curtailment of officer and enlisted personnel recommended by the House appropriations military subcommittee in the annual War Department supply bill to be submitted to the House Wednesday was viewed by legislators with some concern as American troops were ordered to Shanghai.

A conference between Secretary Hurley and Speaker Garner Saturday over the appropriation slashes forecast a bitter battle in the House. Chairman Byrns of the appropriations committee and Representative Collins (Democrat), Mississippi, head of the subcommittee that recommended curtailment, expect to follow through in their fight for economy.

While agreeing to curtailments where possible in their departments, Secretaries Adams and Hurley are opposed to drastic measures that they feel might impair the national defense. Adams indorsed the $600,000,000 naval construction program before the House naval committee.

Meanwhile, the House naval appropriations subcommittee will begin hearings this week on the naval supply bill. Estimates for this department already have been cut about $40,000,000 by the budget at President Hoover's behest.

The adoption of a permanent, uniform Government policy on military pensions and veterans' benefits as a part of the program to cut Government expenses was urged yesterday by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

a base of operations against the Chinese.

Despite assurance from the Japanese authorities that no attack would be made, Nanking was restive. An incident shortly after midnight illustrated this tenseness. Lights went out all over the city—and immediately there was a great crop of reports that Japanese airman were on the way from Shanghai to raid Nanking.

This apprehension was allayed when the military authorities announced they had turned off the lights while experimenting with a newly installed system of alarm signals to be used in the event of trouble.

Several Chinese cultural organizations cabled to the chairman of the committee on intellectual cooperation of the League of Nations protesting destruction of various Chinese institutions at Shanghai by the Japanese.

In addition to the seven Japanese vessels lying off Nanking, there are two Chinese warships, one British and one American.

The first group of government leaders en route from Nanking to Honanfu, the new capital far removed from the menace of the Japanese military, was expected to arrive there tonight. The group was headed by former President Chiang Kai-Shek.

Plans were to complete the government evacuation of Nanking by Wednesday. The administration of the Tientsin-Pukow Railroad has been moved from the opposite bank of the Yangtze to Hsuchow in Kiangsu, 200 miles to the north. Officials said this action was taken to "avoid the possibility of bombardment by Japanese warships."

CUSTOMIZED CLOTHES

FINAL REDUCTIONS

As we continue our 1932 winter clearance into February we call immediate attention to the extremely low prices at which our stock of Hickey-Freeman customized clothes, and fine haberdashery and hats is offered.

These prices are final reductions, and it is our belief that they will not be duplicated here, or elsewhere, during the next five years.

SUCCESS AT GENEVA URGED BY CHURCHES

Canon Stokes and Bishop McDowell Speak at Special Prayers.

Canon Anson Phelps Stokes and Bishop William F. McDowell were the principal speakers yesterday at two special services of intercession for the success of the Geneva conference for disarmament.

Speaking at the Washington Cathedral, Canon Stokes said: "President Hoover can lead the way in the effort toward disarmament, but his efforts will be unsuccessful unless there is a great body of intelligent public opinion behind him."

Addressing a similar service at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, Bishop McDowell said: "Such a meeting as this one now coming should be chiefly creative and constructive. The life of the nations must go on for humanty's sake. It can not go on as it has been going. The process of creating a new international order is our present ordeal. It is involving all existing forms and orders in such strain that many things are breaking under the pressure."

"There is a crisis in the world today," Canon Stokes continued. "Are we turning away from war, which with its aftermath is the prime cause of our present economic depression and unemployment situation. The World War, with its dislocation of industry, overproduction, enormous expenditures on armaments, war debts and reparations, and not the fall of silver, not prohibition, nor stock exchange gambling, nor even high tariffs, was the major cause of our present economic trouble. All honor, then, to the President of the United States and to many high officers of our Army and Navy, who, rightly loyal to their useful branches of the service, are working earnestly to develop a sentiment for peace and to reduce armaments.

"War must be recognized as intrinsically an uneconomic, unsatisfactory, cruel and un-Christian method of settling disputes, never justified for aggression and never justified under any circumstances between nations, except as the lesser of two evils in those rare cases, which we hope may be gradually eliminated, where the invasion of a nation or the defense of civilization is at stake."

"Our people must realize that over $4,000,000,000 are expended yearly by the national governments of the world, over three-quarters of their total expenditures, in paying for wars and military forces, past, present and future. A horizontal cut by mutual agreement of all nations of 25 per cent in a few years would actually save the world one thousand million dollars annually for constructive work in the interest of the masses of our people," Canon Stokes said.

"While we pray we must remember that overcoming age-old world-wide mental habits is not a thing that can be done in a moment. Changing humanity's ideas about force, getting governments to think differently about their relations, furnishing a whole world with a new and workable philosophy of living together is a gigantic task in statesmanship. We are in no danger of having anything extreme or fanatical done in the way of disarmament. Our perils lie the other way," Bishop McDowell explained.

Seizure of American Denied.

Shanghai (Monday), Feb. 1 (A.P.).—Local newspapers said today the Japanese Consulate denied knowledge of Japanese forces having arrested an American named Kay Johnson on a charge of sniping. The United States Consulate was noncommittal.

JAPAN ASKS NATIONS TO INFLUENCE CHINA

Envoys of U. S., Britain and France Urged to Oppose Warlike Operations.

Tokyo, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa today asked the American, British and French ambassadors to solicit the support of their governments for measures to persuade the Chinese to abandon warlike operations at Shanghai.

The foreign minister called in the ambassadors after receiving from the military intelligence service alarming reports that Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek, former President of China, was effecting a heavy concentration of his troops in the Shanghai area.

After his conferences with the envoys, M. Yoshizawa told the foreign newspaper correspondents that unless the Shanghai situtaion was relieved quickly "the Japanese army probably will be called."

The foreign minister emphasized that Japanese blue jackets now in Shanghai are in danger of annihilation as they are facing 30,000 crack Chinese troops and reports have been received that Marshal Chiang is rushing four squadrons of airplanes into the area for a major offensive.

The American, British and French ambassadors were summoned. It was explained, for the purpose of dissipating misapprehensions and misunderstandings abroad concerning Japan's position in Shanghai.

M. Yoshizawa said the government considered it apparent such misunderstandings existed because separate representations have been made to Tokyo by Washington, London and Paris. These representations, he added, were made verbally and therefore were not identic. He did not consider them to be protests.

The foreign minister conferred for an hour and a half with Sir Francis Lindley, British Ambassador, for about the same length of time with W. Cameron Forbes, the American Ambassador, and for slightly more than an hour with Count de Marte, the Paris representative.

Receiving foreign correspondents immediately thereafter, M. Yoshizawa said the ambassadors had agreed to transmit his request that the three governments attempt to persuade China against belligerent operations.

JAIL VISITOR'S COAT IS USED IN ESCAPE

Man Indicted in Kidnaping Plot Flees After His Brother's Call.

Chicago, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Albert Russell, 32, indicted in connection with a Midwest kidnaping syndicate, walked out of the Cook County Jail today in an overcoat and hat worn there by his brother on a visit.

The brother, Stanley Russell, 28, strolled back to the confessed kidnaper's cell, while Albert escaped. Jail guards said the two men looked much alike and were dressed in the same kind of clothing except for the overcoat and hat.

Stanley Russell, Mrs. Albert Russell, wife of the prisoner, and her 3-year-old daughter called at the jail this afternoon, presented a letter signed by Frank A. Wright, assistant to Sheriff William D. Meyering, and were allowed to see Russell.

They talked together for half an hour in a steel "bullpen" near the jail entrance. The jail ordinarily is closed to all callers on Sunday and visiting rooms in which prisoners talk to visitors through wire netting were not available.

Stanley Russell tossed his overcoat and hat on a chair as he entered the conference room. Albert picked up the garments when the visit ended and walked out with his wife and daughter. The brother walked nonchalantly back toward Albert's cell, and the escape was not discovered until he had arrived there.

Russell and five others indicted in the case were facing prosecution under the death penalty provided for kidnapers in this State. The others were Attorney Ward C. Swalwell, John Pingeree, William Thomas, Edward Finen and Diamond Louis Alterie.

Investigator Pat Roche, of the State's attorney's office, who apprehended them, said they tortured or frightened a dozen or more victims in the Midwest into paying them thousands of dollars ransom. Their capture was brought about by Mrs. Max Gecht, wife of one victim.

DIED

ANDERSON—On Sunday, January 31, 1932, at the residence of her son-in-law, Peter A. Smith, 50 Shady Side avenue, Capitol Heights, Md., EMILY FRANCES, wife of the late John Henry Anderson, and mother of Elizabeth Anderson Smith.

List of U. S. Army and Navy Forces in China or on Way

(Associated Press.)

Here is a line-up of the naval and military forces of the United States either now in China or going.

Marines—1,264 at Shanghai; 566 boarding the cruiser Houston for Shanghai; 433 at Peiping.

Army—700 infantrymen at Tientsin; 1,000 boarding the transport Chaumont for Shanghai.

Navy—Cruiser Houston en route to Shanghai, 611 aboard.

Destroyers:

At Shanghai, two—242 aboard; en route, four—460 aboard; leaving Manila, seven—847 aboard.

At Nanking, one—121 aboard.

In south China waters within 400 miles of Shanghai, three—363 aboard. At Manila, two—242 aboard.

On the Yangtze River are seven small gunboats, 600 to 1,500 miles above Shanghai, with 329 aboard. Two gunboats with 146 aboard are at Canton, 700 miles from Shanghai. Twenty-four other ships and craft, including air and submarine, with a total personnel of 2,715, are at Manila. One gunboat with 157 aboard is at Hsinho, 600 miles north of Shanghai.

Chief of U. S. Asiatic Fleet Once Again Uses Initiative

Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor Takes Marines Aboard Flagship When Ordered to Shanghai in Another of Quick Decisions for Which He Is Noted.

(Associated Press.)

Quick thinking men, who are willing to shoulder full responsibility, are needed in the Navy—that's how Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor became commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet.

His superior officer, Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, simply told Taylor yesterday to "proceed with all available destroyers" to Shanghai to protect American lives.

Nothing was said about reinforcements of Marines. Taylor took the responsibility in ordering them on board his flagship, the Cruiser Houston, and fixed the sailing time a few hours later.

Then he radioed Pratt what he had done.

Sixty-two-year-old Montgomery Meigs Taylor, greatnephew of America's twelfth President—Fighting Zachary Taylor—is noted for those quick decisions.

That's what his brother officers like about him. They say he is one of the best men available for his present difficult task—showing force without antagonizing.

Admiral Pratt and Secretary Adams have entrusted Taylor with the widest latitude. They have relied entirely upon his excellent judgment in the Far East crisis. Last Thursday he took it upon himself to dispatch four destroyers, which arrived at Shanghai today.

As the flotilla of destroyers steams away from Manilla, Taylor leaves behind him the scene of one of the Navy's most historic naval battles in which he took part, the battle of Manilla. As a young lieutenant Taylor served with Admiral Dewey on the famed Olympia.

For his World War service he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his fine command of the battleship Florida.

Like his brother, Col. John R. M. Taylor, U. S. A., retired, he has never married. When he has leisure time he reads, history, mostly.

But he can always find time for some golf. He shoots a snappy game of around 75. Back in the days when he was in the Naval Academy he played in the back field on the first team to represent that service school.

Husky, ruddy-faced, tall and strong, Taylor's active figure belies his age. His bushy mustache sets him apart in a crowd.

Officers and men swear by him. For one thing, he never gets excited.

U. S. SENDS INSTRUCTIONS TO FORBES ON CHINESE CRISIS

his charge d'affaires, Count de Marchetti.

The response of the British government to Secretary Stimson's initiative was spontaneous and unreserved. Orders were sent to the British fleet at Hongkong under Admiral Kelly after a cabinet meeting, and another warship, in addition to the three 8-inch-gun cruiser already on the spot, was soon on its way to Shanghai. Great Britain now has there, it is estimated, a force of 3,000 men, including the battalion of infantry and the battery of artillery recently included in sailing orders.

Prime Minister MacDonald suddenly interrupted his week-end holiday, a sacrosanct tradition never disturbed except under the gravest emergency, and hurried to London to confer with the members of his cabinet and with Ray Atherton, the Charge d'Affaires of the American Embassy in London who is carrying on since the departure of Gen. Charles G. Dawes.

Secretary Stimson held a long transatlantic telephone conversation with Mr. Atherton before and after the historic White House conference of President Hoover's Cabinet of national defense. In this way the British Prime Minister was kept informed of the steps taken by this government in the Shanghai crisis.

Concern of the American Government over the turn of events in China and especially in Shanghai was first conveyed to the British Ambassador in an informal conversation here last Wednesday. Sir Ronald Lindsay was a caller at the State Department and transmitted to his foreign office the expressions of Secretary Stimson.

Joint Action Announced.

The British Ambassador was again closeted with the American Secretary of State late that afternoon and not until the next day, did it become known that the United States and Great Britain had taken joint action in asserting the rights of all the neutral nations in the danger zone. Secretary Stimson announced after his conference with the British Ambassador that he had made known to the French and Italian governments the details of the Anglo-American demarche and the latter two governments could take such action as they deemed best.

The interest of France in the Shanghai situation is almost as considerable as Great Britain's. France has an Asiatic empire in French Indo-China perilously near the Chinese border and has in addition a protectorate over Annam.

The French concession in Shanghai is one of the wealthiest in the International Settlement and French Far Eastern steamship companies, oil companies and commercial enterprises rank immediately after the British, American and Japanese there. Mobilization of the French colonial troops in Indo China has been reported without confirmation on several occasions, but the recent turn of events at the mouth of the Yangtze will in all probability precipitate decisive action now.

Italian Trade Gaining.

The Italian Far Eastern economic interests are comparatively insignificant in comparison with the long-established commercial traditions of the United States, France and Great Britain there, but under Premier Mussolini Italian Far Eastern trade has had a tremendous impetus.

An Italian steamship company has been carrying in Italian bottoms a very considerable percentage of Oriental products to European and American markets. For this reason the reply of Premier Mussolini to the Anglo-American manifesto is being eagerly awaited here.

At the time Secretary Stimson took the decisive step to coordinate world opinion over the consequences of the Shanghai situation, Great Britain assured the United States through the British Ambassador that both France and Italy would be sounded out for corroborative action. The imminence of the general disarmament conference which opens in Geneva tomorrow prevented a more speedy reply to the British and American move, from Paris and Rome, it was explained here but the responses are now here and will be made public today.

Mrs. Judd's Health Is Reported Worse

Continuance of Trial of Alleged Slayer Now Held in Balance.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Immediate continuance of Winnie Ruth Judd's trial for the murder of Agnes Anne Leroi hinged today on improvement in the physical condition of the slender, feverish woman within the next 12 hours.

From a "largely imaginary" ailment which sent puzzled physicians scurrying to her cell yesterday in answer to hurry calls from the Mariposa County Jail, Mrs. Judd's illness advanced today to what County Physician J. D. Maudlin described as "an acute coryza."

Her newly developed symptoms, said Dr. Maudlin, coupled with her already tubercular condition, were serious enough to cause him to recommend to Superior Judge Howard C. Speakman that she not be taken into the courtroom tomorrow unless she shows improvement overnight.

Yangtze Valley Fears Sino-Japanese Clashes

Shanghai (Monday), Feb. 1 (A.P.). A wave of apprehension that Sino-Japanese disorders were imminent swept through the lower Yangtze Valley today. From Hankow eastward came reports that the Japanese communities in various river ports were feverishly preparing defenses against possible clashes.

The Japanese concession boundaries at Hankow were strengthened, and additional works were put up by the Japanese at Kiukiang.

INTERNATIONAL LAW BROKEN, SAYS CHINA

Telegram to Legation Here States Wanton Attacks Made on Shanghai.

(United Press.)

An official telegram from the Chinese ministry of foreign affairs to the Chinese Legation charges the Japanese troops at Shanghai conducted wanton attacks "in an unwarranted manner and without regard to any principles of international law."

The Chinese official version of recent developments at Shanghai as reported in a telegram from the ministry of foreign affairs at Nanking, dated January 30 and made public there yesterday, was as follows:

Japan, on the pretext of certain Japanese monks being beaten, presented four demands to the municipal government of Greater Shanghai, including the punishment of culprits, indemnification of the sufferers and prohibition of anti-Japanese movements.

Reply Satisfactory.

"Anxious not to disturb the commercial relations of Shanghai, the mayor of Greater Shanghai municipal government made, at noon of January 28, a reply recognized by the Japanese consul general to be satisfactory.

"To our great surprise the admiral of the first Japanese squadron demanded at midnight of the Greater Shanghai municipal government to withdraw the Chinese troops from Chapei and its neighborhood, and give the place to the Japanese troops for the purpose of defense.

"In the meantime, the admiral dispatched land units to attack the Chinese troops, which continued on January 29, and set Chapei to conflagration by bombs from the Japanese airplanes.

"As a consequence, numerous civilians—inhabitants of this region—were killed; and many administrative, communication, and educational organizations, as well as important commercial buildings were destroyed. For self-defense and protection the Chinese troops were forced to resist.

Fighting Again Resumed.

"On the same date at 8 o'clock p. m., on the initiative of the Japanese consul general, both sides agreed to cease fighting, but very shortly afterward fighting again resumed. Today (January 30), at 1 o'clock a. m., the Japanese troops violently attacked with their armored cars and field guns, but they were repulsed.

"Up to the present, fighting has been continuing with increasing intensity, and the Japanese have been conducting their wanton attacks in an unwarranted manner and without regard to any principles of international law."

Japanese embassy officials last night expressed no alarm at the action of the United States in dispatching additional troops and destroyers to Shanghai. They interpreted the action as designed to protect American nationals and was similar to that being taken by Great Britain and France.

Troops' Order to China Written on Scratch Pad

(Associated Press.)

The first order in 32 years sending regular American Army troops to China was written yesterday on a scratch pad.

Leaving the White House conference, where the decision was reached to send the soldiers, Secretary Hurley and Gen. Douglas MacArthur went to the former's office.

Drafting their orders quickly, they handed them to Maj. Gen. Van H. Moseley, deputy chief of staff.

He, in turn, sat down at a typewriter in his absent stenographer's office, and using one finger at a time carefully typed out the instructions.

THREE ACCUSE BIGGS IN M'BRIDE MURDER

to rob him and attempted to get him drunk. McBride was stabbed, according to the story, and another beat him over the head with a club. A burlap bag was tied about his head to stop the bleeding and the money was taken from his pocket.

The body was then loaded on a truck and hauled to the culvert where it was found the next morning, where it had been thrown. Biggs is quoted as saying that McBride's body "fell like a big hog," into the ditch.

Biggs has denied knowing Mrs. Pumphrey, but yesterday she picked him from a crowd of about twenty other prisoners at the jail. After being identified by the woman, however, he spoke to her, and seemed to know her very well, the sheriff said. The sheriff also quoted the woman as saying that Biggs had profesed to be "haunted by the ghost of McBride."

Biggs still denies knowledge of the murder, but does not yet know of the statement. He will probably be told of it today after police have been able to gather further evidence. While Mr. Pumphrey and his wife said Biggs told them of the murder last October, Mr. Hazel said that Biggs had often talked of it to him.

Three witnesses against Biggs live on Wheeler road near the District line, not far from Biggs' Camp Spring farm. Mr. Hazel and Biggs have worked together for some time digging wells.

McBride was the owner of rich oil lands and came to Washington in August, 1922, to negotiate their lease to the Government. He lived in a house on lower Third street northwest, but did not return there on the third night of his residence in Washington. The next morning his body was found in a culvert near Meadows, Md. A gunny sack had been pulled over his head and tied around the neck, he had been stabbed in the throat, and his skull had been battered in. A quantity of money and an expensive diamond ring were missing from his person.

Department of Justice agents, Washington police and Prince Georges County authorities worked on the case for many months, but without results. The investigation was reopened several weeks ago when Deputy Sheriff Tom Garrison, who was a constable at the time of the murder, said a woman had given him new evidence. After this evidence had been verified by others, who said they had heard Biggs' confession, the man was arrested.

U. S. Protest Reported For Egyptian Incident

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The United States was reported to have protested to the Egyptian government today because of the tone of comment in the vernacular press regarding an incident Wednesday when a cafe, supposedly operated by "American missionaries," was attacked by a crowd of incensed Moslems.

It was understood the American Minister asked for a strict inquiry and punishment of the real culprits, adding that the press dealt with the American University in such a manner as to affect its standing and credit.

CHINESE ARE DRIVEN BACK NEAR HARBIN

Their Losses Placed at 400 and Japan's at 21 by Dispatches.

Tokyo, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A savage engagement resulting in heavy casualties was fought near Harbin, Manchuria, today between Japanese forces and Chinese soldiers attached to Gen. Ting Chao, commander of the Chinese Eastern Railway guards.

News dispatches said 400 Chinese were killed in a conflict lasting several hours and listed the Japanese losses at 21 killed and 38 wounded. The Chinese were said to have been driven back.

After a preliminary artillery bombardment in which a number of shells struck a Japanese military train, the Chinese attacked the railway station at Chuang Chen, south of Harbin, and conducted a ferocious bayonet charge against the Japanese defenders. They were repulsed and a lull in hostilities ensued.

A Japanese detachment under the command of Gen. Jiro Tamon, hero of the march on Tsitsihar, is expected to arrive at Harbin tomorrow over the Chinese eastern line to protect their nationals from the inroads of Gen. Ting's troops and from a repetition of recent sanguinary rioting.

Officials of the railroad, jointly owned and operated by China and Russia, were reported to have agreed to use of the branch of the line between Changchun and Harbin for transportation of Japanese troops to the north, and the manager has gone to Changchun to make arrangements.

The board of directors previously refused to permit Japanese troop movements over the line, but the Soviet government pronounced its approval providing Chinese authorities in Peiping and Nanking agreed. Whether this permission was obtained was not revealed.

Allen Goes on Trial Today in Norristown

Norristown, Pa., Jan. 31 (U.P.).—Edward H. B. Allen, young society man and steeplechase rider, will go to trial on a charge of first-degree murder tomorrow for the "honor" killing of Francis A. Donaldson 3d, his sister's sweetheart.

Though the grand jury indictment charges murder in the first degree, the United Press was authoritatively informed that District Attorney Stewart Nase does not anticipate a conviction on that charge. Nase considers, according to his friends, that if he gains a voluntary manslaughter conviction he will have been victorious.

DIRECT RELIEF ISSUE TO COME UP TODAY

Democrats Map Substitute; Banking Legislation Also Faces Early Action.

(Associated Press.)

Over the economic relief drive on Capitol Hill last night hovered new and controversial phases.

Banking legislation, with particular emphasis on relief to depositors in closed institutions, is the next goal of the biparty combination, which established the Reconstruction Corporation that goes into operation this week.

Today, however, Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, is to bring up the issue of direct Federal appropriations to the unemployed. This legislation encompassed in the La Follette-Costigan $375,000,000 bill is opposed by President Hoover.

Both parties are divided on the question of giving Federal funds to assist the States and cities in relief work, and Democrats are drafting a substitute measure under direction of a committee headed by Senator Walsh, of Montana.

Pending completion of this, the Democrats are prepared to ask, with probable Republican support, recommittal to committees of the La Follette-Costigan measure.

Increase in Taxation.

Another angle of the nonpartisan emergency program urged by President Hoover—increase in taxation to balance the budget—comes before the House ways and means committee again this week.

Both Democrats and Republicans are looking for new and richer fields of taxation and the committee will hold hearings on proposals to levy Federal taxes on electric energy, household gas, gasoline and oil importations.

Neither the tax bill nor the banking revision measure will be in shape for floor consideration for several days.

Senators Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, and Walcott (Republican), of Connecticut, will confer this week with Treasury and Federal Reserve experts in whipping the banking legislation into form. It is the former's bill which is the basis for action.

Due to Reach Senate Soon.

Senate leaders expect the bill to be brought to the floor before the end of the week, and it has promise of complete right of way.

Meanwhile the Norris bill restraining Federal courts in the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes is to be reported formally to the Senate, and a move to take it up is expected.

Norman Thomas, 1928 Socialist presidential nominee, issued a statement here yesterday demanding direct Federal aid for the unemployed and said "The situation ought to be faced realistically and courageously."

"Only out of income taxes can prompt relief come, and only Congress can lay an equitable Nation-wide tax," he said. "Available figures indicate that at most not more than 10 to 15 per cent of the unemployed can get even the most inadequate aid out of all existing public and private charity funds. The La Follette-Costigan bill should be followed at once by the $5,000,000,000 public works bill."

JOHN Q. TILSON.

JOHN QUILLIN TILSON, the long, lanky Republican who represents the Third Congressional District of Connecticut, would fit perfectly into a movie as a typical Yankee, and, without make-up and despite klieg lights, defy detection as a man who was born south of the Mason and Dixon line and lived in his native Tennessee long enough to go to college there.

There is even something about him reminiscent of the nickname of his State, whether the weather-beaten appearance was acquired in New England, which seems to have an affinity for the adjective rugged, or under the hot, semitropical suns in the course of his soldiering in the service of the Nation.

Very likely when he was courting Miss Marguerite North in New Haven, where he attended Yale University, young Mr. Tilson probably took pains to see that his then more than plentiful hair was all in order, but it is doubtful if the man ever aspired to be a dandy.

There have been made pretty romances in story and on the stage about the Yankee soldier who went South and fell captive to the charm of the beautiful Southern belle. But Mr. Tilson went to Yale from Carson College, in Tennessee, and New Haven still is his home. Whether Miss North was responsible must here be conjectural, but his wooing culminated in their wedding. Still slim, active and straight, despite his 66 years, he must have made a handsome enough picture in his National Guard uniform.

He was a second lieutenant in Company C, Sixth United States Volunteer Infantry, in the Spanish-American War; he was Lieut. Col. Tilson, of the Second Connecticut Infantry in the fracas on the Mexican border in 1916, and his friends and admirers affectionately address him as Colonel now.

In 1904 he was elected a representative in the Connecticut General Assembly from New Haven, was reelected in 1906 and was Speaker of the House in 1907, a post he gave up to become representative at large from Connecticut in the House of Representatives for two terms. In 1914 he was elected again to the House as the representative of the Third District and he has been a member of the House since, occupying the post of floor leader of his party until the present Congress, the first in which his party did not control the House since they took control of it from the Democrats in the election preceding the setting of the sun on the administration of President Wilson.

Great Men Called Chief Need Today

Dr. Fulton Sheen, Catholic Radio-Hour Speaker, Hits Mediocrity.

"The world today is suffering from a terrible nemesis of mediocrity," according to the Rev. Dr. Fulton Sheen, of the Catholic University of America. "We are dying of ordinariness; we are perishing from our pettiness. The world's greatest need is great men."

Speaking in a national broadcast in Catholic Radio Hour, sponsored by the National Council of Catholic Men on the subject, "The World's Greatest Need," Dr. Sheen continued: "The world's greatest need is some one who will understand that there is no greater conquest than victory over oneself; some one who will realize that real worth is achieved, not so much by activity, as by silence; some one who will seek first the Kingdom of God and His justice, and put into actual practice the law that it is only by dying to the life of the body that we ever live to the life of the spirit.

"The world needs some one who will brave the taunts of a Good Friday to win the joy of an Easter Sunday; who will, like a lightning flash, burn away the bonds of feeble interest which tie down our energies to the world; who, with a fearless voice, like John the Baptist, will arouse our enfeebled nature out of the sleek dream of unheroic repose; who will gain victories, not by stepping down from the cross and compromising with the world, but who will suffer in order to conquer the world. In a word, what we need are saints, for saints are the truly great men."

PROF. HOOVER SEES END OF METAL AGE

President's Brother Predicts That Pinch Will Be Felt Within Century.

Stanford University, Calif., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—An end to the age of metals is foreseen by Prof. Theodore J. Hoover, dean of the Stanford School of Engineering and brother of the President.

Envisioning a startling change from the current complaints about overproduction of many commodities, including those from underground, Dean Hoover said today a dearth of metals would come upon the world, first probably becoming apparent with respect to gold and tin.

"Substitutes will be found," he said, "for each metal and mineral in turn as it becomes scarce, but a program for a dwindling mineral supply is inevitable. My guess is that the first signs of this pinch will become evident to a thoughtful person within a century, if they are not even now discernible."

Billion Tons Annually.

Dean Hoover said the world was using its supply of minerals and metals at the annual rate of 1,000,000 tons, or 1,000 pounds for each man, woman and child on the face of the globe.

Despite this rate of consumption, he stated, "the price at which these minerals and metals can be sold is very close to the margin of profit."

Progress in the art of recovering metals from ore "keeps just about even with the decrease in ores of easy treatment," Dean Hoover said.

Mountains of Bauxite.

"There are in this country whole mountain ranges of rocks which contain 25 per cent aluminum. Now 25 per cent would seem a very high grade ore when we remember that we are profitably treating copper ores which assay less than 1 per cent.

"But this 25 per cent aluminum ore in billions of tons in these mountains has no value whatever because we have no process by which we can extract it at a profit at the present price of aluminum.

"The mining industry is a hazardous, poorly paid business, working on a wasting asset. Every ton of ore taken out of a deposit leaves it one poorer.

"The day will come when there will be no taxes at all on mines; in fact, the day will come when a bonus will be paid on every ton of ore mined, so avid will be the human race for metals."

Patrolman Arrests Sons In Shooting of Grandson

Philadelphia, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Patrolman John Haas arrested his two young sons today for shooting his grandson. Aroused from sleep by a pistol shot, he found Melvin Chittum, 4, screaming on the floor with a bullet wound in his shoulder and his two sons, Robert, 9, and James, 10, trembling nearby.

After hurrying Melvin to a hospital he took his boys to the police station.

Physician Found Dead; New York Clew Hunted

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A roomer found Dr. E. G. Grichlow, 35, West Indian Negro physician, dead in bed early today, and tonight twelve hours later, the police were without a clew to his slayer. A ring from a gas stove lay on the crumpled bed clothes nearby and the police said it was the weapon used in fracturing his skull. Part of the third finger of his left hand had been torn off

TELEVISION MERGER IS CONTEMPLATED

DeForest Radio Wants to Absorb Rest of Jenkins Company Stock.

Absorption of remaining stock of the Jenkins Television Corporation by the DeForest Radio Co. is contemplated and stockholders of both companies have been asked to approve such acquisition, it was learned yesterday.

If this plan is carried out, the present DeForest Co. will operate under the corporate name of DeForest-Jenkins Radio and Television Corporation. Although both companies have been operating as separate entities, DeForest owns a controlling interest in Jenkins. The majority stock was acquired several years ago. C. Francis Jenkins, of 5502 Sixteenth street, northwest, television inventor, is minority stock owner in the DeForest Co.

Mr. Jenkins views the contemplated transaction favorably, believing it will supply the necessary impetus to develop television. Leslie S. Gordon, president of the DeForest Co., revealed that his company has been obliged to finance the Jenkins Corporation recently, resulting in a growing indebtedness. This indebtedness would be cancelled by absorption of the Jenkins assets and the subsequent activities of an enlarged organization, Mr. Gordon explained.

Mr. Gordon points out that the commercial development of television has been slower and more costly than was originally contemplated. The valuation of Mr. Jenkins' patents has been set at $2,000,000.

Smedley Butler Warns U. S. of Danger in War

Coatesville, Pa., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A warning against America's being "put in the middle" in the Sino-Japanese dispute was given here today by Gen Smedley D. Butler, fiery retired Marine. Speaking to 3,000 persons jammed into a Y. M. C. A. auditorium, Gen. Butler said he favored this country's protesting Japan's action in Shanghai, but advised the country to "keep her feet on the ground."

"Remember," he asserted, "if it suits the purpose of the Japanese to kill Americans, that's exactly what they'll do. And the softer we are the more they will kill. Right now we are interested in the safety of Americans in China. If American lives are lost, look out for trouble."

LET US HAVE LIGHT

By H. G. WELLS

ONE of the least obtrusive and yet one of the greatest, biologically speaking, of all the great changes in human life that have occurred since 1800 A. D., has been the immense development of artificial lighting. Quietly, steadily, a little more every year, the evening lights have been turned up. To any one from Stuart or Georgian times who might return to contemporary life, nothing would seem more remarkable than the nighttime brightness not only of interiors but of streets and roads. And it is a change still in progress. What we have is only an earnest of the lighting still to come.

• • • •

Man is a daylight animal. So were his ancestors, and so are all the primates. We are creatures that see with an unparalleled and exquisite precision in a good light. But we are in darkness and groping at a stage of illumination when most other mammals can still see effectively. So while the carnivores prowl and the herbivores creep to their drinking places, the gorilla squats with his back to the tree in which his family nests, and man goes into his cave or camp or clearing with a fire to keep off inimical beasts. From twilight to dawn, except when the full moon comes with its magic and excitement, or when he talks and wrangles or indulges in some mystical singsong or dance, savage man is out of action. Dawn rouses him, and sunset dismisses him.

• • • •

THIS daylight phase of human life lasted almost to our own times. Man was busy from dawn to sunset—"for the night cometh when no man can work." The torch, the fire, and the dim oil lamp remained the chief illuminants until the coming of the candle. When one thinks of the crabbed, uncertain lettering of the manuscripts, and the chill small flame of the lamp, one begins to realize the heroism of the student burning "the midnight oil." (How many men like Pepys laid down their pens and put their books aside in early middle age because of blindness?) "Wax Candles," says the Encyclopaedia Britannica, "are probably of Phoenician origin," and candles massed on a candelabrum, were the typical illuminant of temples and palaces (the golden candlesticks of Solomon's Temple, e.g.). The eighteenth century saw the candle at the zenith of its career. Massed candles could give churches, palaces, and public gatherings a soft brilliance that seemed at times dazzling against the background of the circumambient night. But even the roads and lanes about the palace itself were black or had their blackness made visible by swinging oil lamps or transitory linkmen.

• • • •

A new phase arrived at the very beginning of the nineteenth century with the use of coal gas. The lighting of streets and houses became brighter. There was a simultaneous advance in gas and lamp lighting. Lamp wicks were improved, and better burners devised. At first the gaslight was a naked flame owing all its illuminating power to the incandescence of its own constituents, but later the burning of the gas was used to heat lime to incandescence. The "limelight" has survived as a proverb for the conspicuous, long after its theatrical use has disappeared. Presently petroleum, paraffin, and the mineral oils and fats came to the help of the lamp and candle in their struggle against gas. The gas was enriched by various admixtures. All through the nineteenth century the standard of nocturnal brightness was rising. Lighthouses also were spreading and multiplying about the world and calling continually for brighter lamps. Nineteenth-century London and Paris had already developed a night glare beyond the utmost dreams of Babylon or Rome.

• • • •

THEN came the electric light. Its first form was the spitting arc light fluctuating with its violent flushings, and then the incandescent filament lamp. Jablokoff's arc light (1876) was the first practical arc light. Edison's inventiveness made incandescent lamps a business possibility four or five years later than this, and 30,000 of them were alight in 1882. At first the filaments were of carbon, and then came the far more efficient tungsten filament. Steadily electric light rivalled and then surpassed all the combustion lights.

Gas made a gallant struggle as an illuminant against its newer rival. Auer von Welsbach, while trying to improve the electric lamp filament, hit upon the modern "gas mantle." This is a mantle of cotton or pumice dipped in nitrate of thorium and cerium and burnt. The thorium and cerium salts are reduced to their oxides, thoria and ceria, which become brightly incandescent in the gas flame.

• • • •

Man has now at his disposal a great and increasing variety of electric-light sources, which continually become cheaper, more powerful and more manageable. He has gaseous vapor lamps in which the current passes through a glass tube of attenuated gas; this tube can be bent to form designs and letterings, it can be as long as 20 feet; its decorative possibilities are immense; such are the Neon tubes whose ruddy orange brightness is a familiar note now at night in every city in the world. This Neon light has great penetrating power in a fog. And there are little incandescent lamps, scarcely larger than pin heads, with which man can explore a hollow tooth, and powerful ones for searchlights that search the sky. He can tint and temper these lights in the most various ways. He can make them stimulating, or he can make them restful and tranquillizing. And he has now the utmost freedom in grouping them. Before the electric light came, every light on earth was burning upward; it had to stand on a base; it had to be fed regularly and jealously guarded from other inflammable material. From all these limitations the designer is now released. Now man can put lights under the bedclothes or in his mouth, upside down and where he will.

• • • •

AT the present time, white light of the Neon type, extraordinarily cheap, since it consumes practically no current, is becoming available. Neither lamp manufacturers nor power companies hail its advent with delight, and its application therefore is being delayed, but sooner or later it must come into use.

Upon all this "conquest of darkness" there follows a vast revolution and extension of the possibilities of architecture, housing and living generally. A room at night can be lit more delightfully than was possible even with sunshine in the days before electricity.

Your Electric Rates Are REDUCED

The New HOUSEHOLD ELECTRIC RATES FOR 1932 ARE:
(Schedule A)

THE FIRST 50 KILOWATT HOURS ..... 3.9c per K.W.H.
THE NEXT 50 KILOWATT HOURS ..... 3.8c per K.W.H.
ALL OVER 100 KILOWATT HOURS USED IN ONE MONTH .... 3.0c per K.W.H.

These substantial reductions in the rates for household electric energy present a wonderful opportunity for an even greater use of electric appliances in their manifold application for convenience and comfort in the modern home. They benefit you by permitting more liberal use of "Matchless Service" than ever before, without increasing the amount of your monthly electric bills.

Corresponding reductions have also been made in other schedules affecting various kinds and uses of commercial and industrial electric service which will result in marked savings to consumers under these schedules.

We take this opportunity to express our greatful thanks for the continued support of the public in our efforts to maintain and supply a dependable service at an unusually low cost to the consumer.

CUSTOMS AID BILL APPROVAL IS SEEN

Civil Service Status Sought for Deputy Revenue Collectors.

Favorable report on the Hull bill to give civil service status to deputy internal revenue collectors was forecast yesterday.

The bill was introduced by Representative Morton D. Hull (Republican), of Illinois, and was advocated at hearings before the ways and means committee of the House by a delegation of deputy collectors under the sponsorship of Luther C. Steward, president, and Miss Gertrude M. McNally, secretary-treasurer, of tht National Federation of Federal Employes.

To forestall any criticism that the measure was simply a move to keep Republican appointees in jobs to which they were appointed under Republican administrations, representatives of the employes produced figures to show that several hundred persons appointed in the administration of President Wilson still are in the service and are supporting the measure.

695 Still in Service.

In the 64 collection districts throughout the country, the figures show, there are 695 deputy collectors still in the service who were appointed under the administration of President Wilson.

In addition to these, there are 649 clerks appointed in the Wilson administration of whom 409 have been transferred to the classified service. Many others have left the service to accept better paying jobs.

That the ways and means committee, however, is not inclined to look on the bill as a partisan one was indicated by Representative Charles R. Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia, who ranks next to Chairman Collier, who indicated he wanted to make certain that the measure would protect the status of those now in the service by giving them classified status.

Needed Changes Acceptable.

Representative Hull said that he believed the bill would protect incumbents under the Civil Service Commission rules; but that if better phraseology to make its purpose certain were needed, such phraseology would be entirely acceptable.

Chairman Collier said he believed that an amendment of three words could eliminate whatever doubt might exist.

In addition to Mr. Hull and Mr. Steward those who appeared before the ways and means committee to advocate passage of the bill included J. P. Coogan, supervisor of accounts and collections of the Internal Revenue Service; W. E. Brown, assistant internal revenue collector at Philadelphia, Pa.; Frank P. Benson, deputy collector, Baltimore, Md.; Charles V. Gilbert, chief of field division, Eighteenth Ohio District; W. S. Stevenson, chief field deputy, Twenty-third District, Pennsylvania; Fred M. Cook, chief field deputy, Detroit, Mich.; Charles L. Wiegand, vice president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, and others.

WANT DEPUTY COLLECTORS PLACED IN CIVIL SERVICE

Luther C. Steward, president, and Miss Gertrude M. McNally, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Federal Employes, who headed a delegation of deputy collectors of internal revenue, conferring with Representative M. D. Hull, of Illinois, in behalf of the latter's bill, which provides for the placing of deputy collectors under the Civil Service. Left to right, front row—Fred M. Cook, Detroit; Charles Gilbert, Cleveland; Secretary-Treasurer McNally, W. E. Brown, Philadelphia; John P. Coogan, Baltimore. Second row, left to right—W. R. Stevenson, Pittsburgh; Charles I. Wiegand, Baltimore; Earl R. Hoage, Denver; President Steward. Back row—J. J. Wallen, New York; P. M. Siemer, Baltimore; F. T. Benson, Baltimore, and Edmund Jones, New York.

FLOOD VICTIMS FACE MENACE OF HUNGER

Relief Workers in Kentucky Fight to Prevent Spread of Disease.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Flood waters receded from inundated lowlands in eastern Kentucky today, but several cities were faced with the problem of furnishing supplies to families who returned to their homes to find their food washed away and damaged.

The Red Cross and emergency relief agencies cared for hundreds of refugees over the week-end. The plight of the homeless was made more serious by bitter cold weather which followed the floods caused by steady 24 to 48 hour rains. The temperature dropped to 22 here early today and freezing weather extended over the State.

The situation at Harlan, Pineville, Middlesboro and Pikesville was typical of most towns in eastern Kentucky today. Receding waters left deposits of mud and debris. Utilities companies were busy repairing power lines and communications.

Fire Fought in Boats.

Barbourville, its streets flooded with water, had an exciting night when a department store caught fire and firemen were forced to go to the blaze in boats. They could carry only chemicals to fight the flames, so could only confine their efforts to saving nearby buildings. The fire loss was $30,000.

Members of Transylvania College's Basket Ball Team which played Union College last night, left their bus on the highway near Barbourville and were taken in rowboats and motorboats to the gymnasium where the game was played.

The State Health Department instructed county health officers and members of its staff to take every precaution against spread of disease following the floods. Chemicals to purify polluted drinking water were sent into the flood zone.

Ohio River Still Rising.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 31 (A.P.). Swollen rivers in the interior of West Virginia tonight apparently had reached their crest but the Ohio River on the border is still rising. The rate of rise has lessened, however.

Streets in the river front section of Point Pleasant are under a foot of water and basements are flooded. The Ohio there reached 38.1 feet. Observers predicted a crest of 42 feet. Parts of the business section would be flooded should the stream attain a 43-foot level.

The Ohio at Wheeling rose 4 feet to 20 in the last 24 hours. Flood stage there is 33 feet. River men expect it to mount to 26 feet by tomorrow night.

INTENSE COLD GRIPS GREAT PART OF U. S.

Snow and Suffering Reported in West; East Is Clear and South Warm.

Kansas City, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Winter gripped most of the Nation tonight. A high wind carried a cold wave to the North Atlantic seaboard while a fresh snowfall blocked roads in the Pacific Northwest.

Wet, foggy weather hambered the search for an airplane missing with eight passengers in California. A wind ripped loose a few signs and sent hats sailing in New York.

Snow fell in the Sierra Mountains of California. It reached 16 inches at Tahoe City. A heavy snow fall in upper New York State. Jamestown, N. Y., had a 4-inch fall in a storm which residents described as a "mild blizzard." The mercury ranged from 17 to 22 and zero was expected by morning.

Clear in Mountain Area.

Conditions between the coasts varied. Salt Lake City thermometers reached 40, four degrees above normal. Snow was forecast for Idaho and northern Utah. The Rocky Mountain region generally was cold and clear.

Zero temperatures held forth in upper States of the Middle West. More moderate conditions applied to the South. Extreme cold forecast for the South failed to materalize, although the weather was chilly. Richmond had its coldest snap of the winter at 28, with 20 forecast.

Miami's temperature dropped 15 degrees, but reached 73 during the day. Thousands went bathing. A clear sunshine prevailed everywhere except in southern Florida, where there was some threat of rain.

Suffering Attends Wave.

Suffering attended the cold wave elsewhere. Ranchers made provisions to care for range stock. Relief workers carried aid to the needy, both on farms and in the cities.

Flurries of snow forced cancellation of the final flight in the professional ski-jumping championships at Big Pines, Calif.

Snow, rain and fog interrupted air mail schedules on the West Coast. A heavy mantle of white fell at Reno. Highways about Spokane were covered by a fall of from 12 to 16 inches. A generally heavy snow was reported in northern Idaho.

Temperatures ranged from 4 above to 18 below in Iowa. A minimum of one-half degree below zero was recorded at the Government station at Chicago municipal airport at 6 a. m., the lowest for the city since January 23, 1930.

3 SHOOT UP VILLAGE IN DRY ARREST ROW

Brother of Prisoner Wounded in Kentucky Gun Fight; Officer Also Shot.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Enraged because their brother was arrested on a liquor charge, three men started "shooting up the town" at Crofton today. In a pistol battle that followed, one of the brothers was critically wounded and an officer shot.

Prohibition Agent J. S. Payne and County Patrolman Nelson Clark arrested Smith Hawkins at Madisonville last night and seized 93 gallons of whisky found in his automobile. Hawkins was brought here and placed in the Christian County Jail.

County Patrolman Clark then went to his home at Crofton. Early today three brothers of the arrested man, Grover, Charles and Forest Hawkins, started firing pistols in the streets of Crofton. The country patrolman did not hear the shots, but Town Marshal Ed Hankins investigated.

The three Hawkins brothers opened fire on Marshal Hankins, one shot wounding him slightly in the side. Returning the fire, the officer critically wounded Charles Hawkins. Marshal Hankins, out of ammunition, ran to a nearby hotel and was followed by Grover Hawkins, who threatened him.

With the assistance of two citizens, Ames Tiddell and Roy Thomas, the officer seized Grover and placed him under arrest. Meanwhile Forrest Hawkins had placed his wounded brother, Charles, in an automobile. He took him to the hospital at Madisonville, then fled.

At the Madison Hospital tonight attendants said Charles had slight chance to recover. Sheriff Barrett Brown said he had learned the three figuring in the gunplay had created a disturbance after their brother was arrested on the liquor charge, and probably began firing in Crofton in hopes Patrolman Clark, who aided in making the arrest, would come out to arrest them and thus be in range of their guns.

Chief of Police Is Slain With Own Gun in Arrest

Princeton, W. Va., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—J. W. Mosby, 54, chief of police at Matoaka, was shot to death with his own pistol in a poolroom there last night after being beaten insensible.

Ile Mills, 32, a miner, surrendered on a murder charge. His brother, James, 28, wanted as a witness, has offered to give himself up. The shooting capped an argument following the arrest of a brother of the Mills after a fight.

Akron's Designer Back From Abroad, Is Silent

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Dr. Karl Arnstein, of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Works, who designed the Akron, arrived today on the Hamburg, after two months in Europe. He declined to comment on the controversy over the airworthiness of the Akron.

"This is all new to me," he said. "I know nothing about it, and naturally I am in no position to make any statement about it." Dr. Arnstein was accompanied by George Sherry, assistant to the president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Works.

CHICAGO'S NEW TAX LAW TO PAY DEBTS

Cermak Promises Economy Expending Funds; Unpaid Employes to Benefit.

Chicago, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Chicago—the city of the empty treasury and the unpaid school teachers—has started a financial comeback.

A path has been opened toward millions of dollars in new revenue. And not one of those dollars, city and county officials have declared, will be wasted.

City officials, from Mayor Anton Cermak to members of the city council, agreed tonight that the twin factors of economy and improved taxation have brought into sight the end of payless paydays for public employes.

"We are practically assured now of getting enough money to run the city and county and to pay our debts," Mayor Cermak said. "Success and solvency are ours if we continue to practice economy—and that's what we're going to do."

Differences Reconciled.

Chicago's financial saviour, civic leaders agreed, has been the State Legislature. Downstate legislators and those from the metropolitan area brought their widely different interests together to pass a bill for reorganization of Cook County's taxing machinery.

Under it, archaic statutes would be replaced with efficient ones, collection laws strengthened, and inequitable assessments discontinued.

Another item placed on the city's credit side was a ruling by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki making possible the collection of about $300,000,000 annually on hiterto untaxed personal property. Judge Jarecki ruled that previous assessments were "grossly fraudulent and unfair" and declared he believed political influence often had decided the size of assessments.

Property owners had been making those charges for years—and using them as a basis to refuse payment of taxes.

Excuses Are Inacceptable.

The new laws make excuses inacceptable in lieu of cash tax payments. Taxes for one year could be funded. Cash then would be available for overdue salaries and payment of interest on the city's bonded debt.

Although looking optimistically to the future, city officials were frank in admitting that Chicago's present financial condition is bad. Eighteen thousand school teachers and other school employes have six months in salaries due them. Checks for two weeks' services were in the mails for them tonight, but many of these were reported deep in debt and in actual want. Widows of policemen and other employes who died in city's service have not received their pension payments, and contractors who did city work are unpaid. Hundreds of employes have been laid off.

But all that will be remedied soon, city and county officials said. The program for financial stability, in the words of Mayor Cermak, "is just going into effect, but its just as sure as taxes themselves."

SIX PRACTICES USED BY ADVERTISERS HIT

Affiliate Better Business Bureau Group Reports Methods Unfair.

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Six advertising practices are described as "uneconomic, unfair and against the public interest" in a report of the committee on unfair advertising and selling practices of the Affiliated Better Business Bureaus, Inc., made public today.

Asserting that its recommendations are intended to eliminate advertising that (a) "has the capacity or tendency to undermine public confidence in advertising announcements or other selling representations generally," and (b) "has the effect of injuring unfairly the sales or the good will of a competitive product or service," the report condemns the following:

1. "Misleading advertising—any untrue, deceptive or misleading statement, representation or illustration.

2. "Unfair competitive claims—any statement, representation or implication which might be reasonably construed to lead to a false or incorrect conclusion in regard to goods, prices, service or advertising of any competitor or of another industry.

(3) "Disparagement of competitors—any statement, representation or insinuation which disparages or attacks the goods, etc., of any competitor.

(4) "Underselling claims — any statement or representation which lays the claim to a policy or continuing practice of generally underselling competitors.

(5) "'Bait' offers—the use of, participation in, publishing or broadcasting of 'bait' offers of merchandise wherein the prospective customer is denied a fair opportunity to purchase.

(6) "Deceptive statements accompanying cut prices—any statements referring to cut prices on trade-marked merchandise or other in such manner as to lead the public to believe all other merchandise sold by advertiser is similarly low priced, when such is not the case."

strength with the New York governor in the Pennsylvania primary with its rich prize of delegates. However, should Mr. Smith go in, it is believed Mr. Ritchie will not. A decision must be made before March 7.

Republican antiprohibitionists, particularly in the East and southern New England States, are urging Mr. Hoover to adopt a moist plank for his campaign stand. He has given no indication, however, of any plan to dictate a new stand by the party on this controversial issue.

The New Jersey Republicans decided to wait until the middle of February before enrolling behind Hoover or declaring for an uninstructed delegation to the convention. This State was one of the first in 1928 to swing to Hoover.

Meanwhile, the President is without formidable opposition. The Northwest independents opposing him have failed thus far to entice Senator Johnson, of California, into the contest. The group is now seriously weighing a third party movement.

The League for Independent Political Action named no candidate yesterday in its third party call. The program outlined by Dewey included increased income taxes, cuts in the tariff rates, appropriation of $250,000,000 annually for unemployed during the emergency, appropriation of $5,000,000,000 for public works and a constitutional convention on prohibition.

Druggists Guarantee the New Vick "Colds-Control" Plan

Backed By Makers of Vicks VapoRub In the Confidence That Plan Will Reduce the Number, Severity and Duration of Colds.

TO CUT COSTS OF COLDS

Here is good news to those who catch cold easily. The makers of Vicks VapoRub—family standby in millions of homes—have developed a plan for better "Control-of-Colds." It is a practical plan—workable in every home. And so confident are Vick Chemists that this Plan will reduce the number, severity and duration of colds, that they have authorized every druggist in the United States to make the following guaranteed trial offer:

Your Druggist's Proposition.

Get a bottle of the new Vick discovery— Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—based on a new idea for "preventing" colds. Use it with Vicks VapoRub—the modern way of "treating" colds—as directed below in the Vick Plan. Unless you are delighted with results—(a reduction of your "Colds-Tax" in money, loss of time and health)—your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

Here, briefly, is the Vick Plan:

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

Watch yourself whenever you have been exposed to anything that you know is apt to give you a cold—such as—

Contact with others having fresh colds—crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on a Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking, which reduce body resistance—after a hard day when you are over-tired.

Then—if you feel that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages, Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so if needed. This will prevent many colds by stopping them before they get beyond the nose and throat—where most colds start.

2.—After a Cold Starts.

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long.

If the air-passages are badly clogged with mucus, melt some VapoRub in a bowl of hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drop—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment, and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets digestion—especially of children.

Tomorrow Comes Today, Clocks, False, Reveal

By JOHN J. DALY

WHEN it is noon in Washington it is 1 a. m. tomorrow in Shanghai. Children, digging holes in the ground, if they dug far enough, would have a chance to look into the future.

When it is noon in Shanghai it is still dark in the Land of the Midnight Sun, where the national anthem is "We Won't Go Home Because It Isn't Morning."

Time, the wanderer, is hard to catch up with, traveling in his seven-league boots. In Checkoslovakia the people are getting out of bed, starting on a day's work, while the cabaret crowd basks under the burning mazdas of Broadway.

Even in this country, the people of California are enjoying their first snooze while the inhabitants of Bar Harbor and Kennebunkport are enjoying their first cocktail.

• • • •

WITH all the means of modern transportation and point-to-point wireless communication, man begins to realize what a time he has living on the globe. A news dispatch telling of the disturbances in China gets to the American reading public one day before it is sent; so the battle doesn't get started until it is over.

That gives some idea of the difference in time betwen Washington and Shanghai, for tomorrow in China is still today in the New Country, and tomorrow, though it never comes, is yesterday in China.

With modern contrivances for telling time, for measuring split seconds and for synchronizing this, that and the other, time goes pacing steadfastly along at the same rate maintained since he began his march. No matter what schemes are devised, no matter what else goes down as the world proceeds—Time's up.

• • • •

IT is like the Polish servant girl timing three-minute eggs for her Connecticut employer about to make a dash for the 8:10 into New York. Her clock said 4:30.

"How do you ever tell time by that?" the man asked.

"Oh," said the girl "that's easy. When the hour hand points to 4 and the minute hand gets to 30 minutes after 12, it's ten minutes to 8, the eggs are done and you have five minutes to put on your hat and coat and run for the train."

Time, tides and trains wait for no man, and no matter how much is saved nobody has enough time—all because time, the restless, never stands still long enough to make yesterday in Shanghai today in Washington.

FOREIGN ENTANGLEMENTS.

On the eve of defaulting payment of its debt installment to the United States, the British government is actively at work endeavoring to draw the United States into a policy of "cooperation" and "joint action" at Shanghai. If this endeavor should succeed, and if war should follow Japan's insanity in China, the United States would find itself once more financing Great Britain.

The British press is suddenly filled with demands for joint action by the United States and Great Britain in the Far Eastern crisis. British writers who have just finished vitriolic articles maligning the United States for refusing to cancel the last war's debts are now effusively proclaiming that an Anglo-American alliance is the only hope of the world. They are paving the way for the assumption by America of the next war's debts.

At any moment there may be an exchange of fire between American and Japanese forces at Shanghai. Japanese attacks upon American life and property will surely meet with resistance and punishment.

The United States is fully capable of protecting the lives and property of its citizens anywhere in the world. No assistance is necessary or acceptable from Great Britain or any other power.

Cooperation by the small mixed forces in the International Settlement of Shanghai is necessary and desirable. If hostilities should spread outside of that settlement, involving the United States with either Japan or China, the United States should act alone, and not in cooperation with any other government. Military cooperation with any other power would inevitably lead to an alliance in which the United States would be compelled to do most of the fighting, furnish all the money and supplies, and assume all the debts.

War between China and Japan need not draw the United States into combat. The nine-power treaty would be trampled under foot in such a war, provoked by Japan; but "during war the laws are silent," and the United States could find means short of war for obtaining satisfaction from Japan for violation of the treaty. Already Japan's credit and commerce are dwindling. The Japanese people undoubtedly support the military element in attacking China, but the Japanese nation can not carry on a great and prolonged war. The United States will not go to war to defend China against Japan, but America could and would make it very difficult for Japan to win such a war.

The suggestion that the United States should set up an economic boycott against Japan is so silly as to be worthy of the theorists who bungle international relations through the League of Nations. An economic boycott is merely cowardly war. When the time comes to apply a boycott the time has come for war; not by silk importers, but by the United States Navy and the United States Army, set in motion by a declaration of war.

Participation by the United States in any scheme devised by the League of Nations to check war in the Far East would be a blunder involving the United States in the machinations of European nations. Who knows what secret treaties are in existence, such as those which Mr. Balfour surreptitiously carried in his pocket when he hurried to the United States in 1917 to urge the United States to lend money to the allies? There are rumors of a secret understanding between France and Japan, and between Japan and Soviet Russia. Great Britain and Japan were allies less than ten years ago. "Europe," said Washington in his farewell address, "has a set of primary interests, which to us have none, or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics, or the ordinary combinations and collusions of her friendships or enmities. Our detached and distant situation invites and enables us to pursue a different course."

A collision between Japan and the United States resulting from Japanese outrages in the Orient may be impending. A war of that nature could only result in the expiation by Japan of injury inflicted upon the United States. It would be the height of folly for the United States, in dealing with such a situation, to join with other powers, whose secret and public interests are foreign to American interests. When America strips for war, let it be solely in defense of American rights.

NOMINATIONS HELD UP.

About a year ago the Senate confirmed the nomination of Dr. George Otis Smith as chairman of the Federal Power Commission. After Dr. Smith was sworn in and took up his executive duties he incurred the displeasure of the insurgents, and they sought to have his nomination returned for further consideration. President Hoover refused. The Senate was induced to vote to reconsider the nomination, and to carry its fight to the courts. But the court held that the Senate was not at liberty to change its mind after it had notified the President of a nominee's confirmation and he had taken the oath of office.

Now the Senate is following different tactics. When a nominee is confirmed some senator objects to an order giving the President immediate notification of that act. As a result the official confirmation is not completed until two additional executive sessions have been held and the right under the Senate rules to reconsider the name has expired.

The practical effect of this procedure has been very noticeable in the case of the directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Three directors were confirmed last Thursday, but they can not be sworn in and commence their urgent duties because the Senate is reserving the right to reconsider their qualifications. Hence, organization of this great relief body is being held up.

This procedure adds nothing to the prestige of the Senate. It leaves that august body in the position of not knowing its own mind. The votes for confirmation of Charles G. Dawes, Harvey C. Couch and Jesse H. Jones were overwhelmingly in their favor. It is inconceivable that the Senate could reverse its position. Yet final action must await until two more executive sessions have been held. A project vital to the welfare of the whole United States must be held in abeyance to gratify the whims of a few obstructionists. When the Senate overcomes its chagrin at having its rules set aside by the courts it is to be hoped that it will adopt a more reasonable procedure in dealing with nominations.

THE TOLL OF THE MOTOR.

If more than 30,000 Americans were killed all at once and nearly a million injured, something would be done about it, no matter what the cause. But that is the annual toll of automobiles in the United States. Fatalities and injuries happen every day in the year to make up that appalling total. The endless recitals of a pedestrian killed, of passengers injured in collisions, have become such a commonplace that these accidents receive but scant attention.

Deaths caused by automobiles are steadily increasing. The number of fatalities was larger by more than 3 per cent last year, though the automobile mileage was considerably less than in 1930. Statistics gathered by the Travelers Insurance Co. show that highway accidents are worse than war. During the eighteen months that the A. E. F. participated in the World War 50,510 Americans were killed in action or died of wounds, while 182,674 were wounded in action. In comparison with these casualties, during the eighteen months ended December 31, 1931, 53,650 persons were killed by automobiles in this country and 1,576,840 injured.

An analysis of the causes of automobile accidents shows that nine out of every ten that resulted in a fatality were due to errors of drivers and pedestrians. Forty-two per cent of the deaths last year were caused by automobiles colliding with persons on foot, yet there were ten such accidents to one fatality. Collisions between automobiles numbered over 400,000, but were responsible for only 25 per cent of the deaths, while 12 per cent were caused by automobiles striking fixed objects. Greater speed is charged with the upward trend of deaths and with the greater severity of nonfatal injuries last year, when one death resulted in every 25 accidents, while during the previous year there was only one in 26.

It is illuminating to note the classification of causes of road accidents. In nearly 120,000 cases trouble resulted from drivers who did not have the right of way. Exceeding the speed limit was responsible for more than 10 per cent of all accidents, while drivers on the wrong side of the road, those who drove off the road, and left turns, caused an average of about 9 per cent each. Cutting in, improper signaling and skidding caused from 5 to 6 per cent of accidents.

The other side of the picture classifies the responsibility of the victims. Here it is shown that one of the largest percentages of fatalities occurs among children playing in the streets. That the fault is by no means always that of the drivers is indicated by figures which show that pedestrians crossing at intersections against signal lights account for 40,000 accidents and over 800 deaths, while the toll of those crossing streets between intersections is twice that number. Over 1,600 persons were killed as they stepped from behind parked cars into the path of traffic.

Nearly three-fourths of the motor vehicle accidents throughout the country last year were due to the failure of operators to exercise a proper sense of personal responsibility. For such derelictions increasingly severe punishment is probably the only remedy. However, the large number of fatalities and nearly 300,000 nonfatal accidents to pedestrians, more than half of them caused by their own carelessness, show that they must share in culpability.

SUBMARINE HAZARDS.

As all hope for the crew of the British submarine M-2 expires, one recalls recent optimistic assertions that a major tragedy beneath the sea was no longer possible. Those enthusiastic forecasts were based upon the many safety devices that have been developed in recent years. But the M-2 was equipped with some of the most up-to-date safety appliances, and they were of no value whatever in the hour of tragedy.

Various rescue devices have proved successful in experiments. Escape compartments, lifting apparatus, mechanical "lungs" and other means by which entombed men can make their way to the surface have been brought to a high state of efficiency. Numerous devices for communicating with submersibles at the bottom of the sea have been invented. But it is easier to demonstrate the worth of these devices in experiments under ideal conditions than to use them in case of sudden disaster.

The M-2 disappeared beneath the waves to a mysterious grave. The cause of the tragedy may never be known. But it is certain that safety equipment in this emergency was useless. Grave misgivings as to the practicability of telescope rescue tubes, diving bells, &c., arise from this experience.

Diving beneath the sea is still a dangerous business. It is doubtful whether any sort of equipment can eliminate the inherent hazards of submarine operations. The perfecting of safety devices should by no means be discouraged, but the prospects are that they can only mitigate the dangers attaching to undersea navigation.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

From the Minneapolis Journal.

Most thoughtful persons look with regret upon the passing of the old-fashioned home, with its community of interests, its interlocking family life. Modern life is centrifugal. Parents and children fly off at the tangent of individual interests, and the home has become little more than a lodging house. Economic conditions, social pressure, the demands of present-day education, the lure of commercialized amusement, the growing individualism of our social philosophy, have all combined to make the family life of the past impossible.

So far have we gone that some of our social philosophers would have us look forward to the complete disappearance of home life, and the herding of families in vast caravansaries, beehives of swarming parents and children, eating at a common restaurant, sharing a common parlor, common playgrounds and recreation rooms, and living a life as private and cultural as that of a school of sardines.

For our own part, we suspect that age-old instincts will not be denied, and that the pendulum is far more likely to swing back to a fuller recognition of common interests and mutual purposes in the family life. After all, there are no folks like our own folks. No one will have such patience with our follies, such interest in our plans, such sympathy for our troubles, as the members of our own family.

No doubt, many of the economic functions of the old-fashioned home have been permanently superseded. The baking and brewing the weaving and sewing, the washing and much of the cooking can be better done outside. The formal processes of education are likewise better in the hands of trained experts. But there is one thing which a true home can furnish, and there is no substitute. That is a background, moral, social, cultural.

Every individual needs the consciousness of moral support with which to face the world. He must needs have his roots deep in some earth. The man who goes to his office, the child who goes to school, the woman who works for her club, will be the more truly individual for the knowledge of a common sympathy and understanding in the home from which they set out.

Nowhere can the social ease, the savoir faire, the give and take, which make of human intercourse a fine art, be so readily and naturally acquired as in a well-ordered home life.

Above all, it is the home that can furnish an all-enveloping atmosphere of comfort and beauty, of good books, good pictures, tasteful furnishings, such as no education can afford. Happy the child whose earliest years are spent in such surroundings, whose taste is formed and whose mental life is awakened in such fashion. He will find himself, in school and college, in society, in the life of the world, far sooner and more easily than another.

It may be that the emancipated woman, when she has grown weary of her new freedom, will come once more to realize that there is no higher calling, no finer art, no worthier ambition than to be the maker and inspirer of such a home. It need by no means absorb all her energies, or limit in any way her self-expression along whatever lines of individual gifts she may possess, but it will add depth and beauty to her life, and greatly enrich the world.

POST HASTE.

Whether Japan's heavy purchases of American cotton are to be utilized for explosives or summer uniforms, China fears she will not collect any duty on the finished product.

"Grave issue faces the league." Nothing new. It has been in danger of burial for several months.

That teeth gnashing you hear comes from the Democrats of the House, because in two months they haven't been able to get anything of their own started.

Of course, if enough Chinamen congregate at Shanghai feeling that way about it they can crowd the invading Japs right back into the Whangpoo River.

At what point in the depreciation of her securities is Japan likely to consider it a world boycott and demand general redress?

After the builders, the experts and the men who fly the Akron testify that the airship is the best one ever built, what more will a House committee be able to tell by looking at it?

If the state of the Treasury is such that no remodeling is to be undertaken, couldn't the State and Treasury Buildings have their faces washed in honor of George Washington's year?

"France will be guided in the Shanghai situation by the league." That's only fair reciprocity.

The East has to stand a little cold weather so they can have the winter Olympic sports at Lake Placid.

But then we have the Florida strawberry huckster, even if he does have to wear a fur coat.

A consolidated Army and Navy Department would probably insist on making all planes and tanks amphibian and would get busy on a combination railroad train and ship. It could be done, doubtless, but at some loss of efficiency.

Behind present official complacency can't you visualize those black beards wagging in Moscow over what, how and when they can attend to Japan?

At least the beleagured American colony in Shanghai and the Marines could not have a more fearless and cool-headed commander in charge than Col. Hooker. At Vera Cruz in 1914 and many times before and after he has shown his right to wear an eagle.

Senator Lewis will broadcast impressions of the Shanghai situation tonight. Chicago experience will enable him to picture the fighting in vivid terms.

All of a sudden the League of Nations wanted to send its investigating committee to China by Zeppelin or airplane, but discovered the elderly delegates were not as airminded as all that. They stop at airing their views. PAUL HUDSON.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I'M NOT GRUMBLING ANY MORE.

I'm not grumbling any more!
Rain has spoiled my picnic day.
All my plans have gone astray.
I've lost money; I've had woes.
How I'll finish no one knows.
Sheriff soon may close my door,
But I'm not grumbling any more!

I'm not grumbling any more!
Seems to me I'm all tired out
Carrying my cares about;
Sick of frowning all the while,
I've made up my mind to smile.
Yes, it's raining. Let 'er pour!
But I'm not grumbling any more.

I'm not grumbling any more!
I'm just going to grin and bear
My particular round of care.
Other folks have troubles, too;
Mine are neither strange nor new.
Sure I'm battered, bruised and sore!
But I'm not grumbling any more.

The Best Insurance Against Bad Eggs Is a Premium Paid for Good Ones.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE income tax is a class tax, paid by 2 per cent of the population—an injustice tactfully ignored by popular publicists and statesmen, who get their support from the other 98 per cent.

Class taxes violate the Constitution. Knowing this to be true, sponsors of the income tax devised a plan to violate the spirit of the law while carefully observing the letter.

They knew the tax would be condemned by the Supreme Court unless it appeared to burden men of all classes in equal proportion. They knew it would be condemned by the public and by Congress unless it excused the great majority.

Exemptions solved the problem. Because the rich man is allowed the same exemption given a poor one, there is no apparent discrimination against him. Yet the exemptions that lessen the rich man's tax by an infinitesimal fraction serve to exempt the poor man from any share in the tax.

Nobody worries about injustice, however, so long as its effects are limited to other people; and those of us who are poor, being long accustomed to injustices of other kinds, need do no more than concede the wrongness of it as a lip service to fair play and hope for the privilege of sharing it.

But since the legality of exemptions is established, why not use them to accomplish good?

Why not make one exemption—that allowed for minor children—a thing to strive for, and thus forge it into a weapon to combat the evils of birth control?

The present exemption of $400 for each child under 18 is little more than a benevolent gesture. Who can feed and clothe a child, pay its doctor's and dentist's bills and educate it on $400 a year? It is done with much less, but it isn't done adequately.

Allowing an exemption of $2,000 for each child would affect tax payments less than one-tenth of 1 per cent. The loss in money would be little noticed, while the gain in decent citizenship would be incalculable.

Do you know that deaths from abortions total 15,000 a year?

Do you know that birth control is now the rule rather than the exception among decent middle-class people to whom the $2,000 exemption would mean most?

If the future America is to be stocked with the breed that made the Nation great, something must be done to make children an asset instead of a liability.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

A Candidate Scores Heavily.
Kansas City Times.

The press of other events recently has left the country with scant time for attention to the contest which former Senator France, of Maryland, has been waging for the Republican nomination. Yet the country may recall that the former senator is definitely in the race, and has been doing most of the running all by himself. And not without results; for the progressive Republicans of North Dakota now have indorsed him as their candidate. The former senator has one distinction as a candidate for high office. He was the first to announce, from either party That put him far in the lead at the very outset. Initiative, a quick sensing of public duty and a readiness to respond to the country's call, all of these should be rewarded. The progressive Republicans of North Dakota doubtless believe in it.

Roosevelt on the First Ballot?
Houston Post-Dispatch.

In declaring that Roosevelt will be nominated by acclamation on the first ballot without question, Big Jim Farley, "cauliflower king" of New York pugilism and a moving spirit of the Roosevelt boom, voices the characteristic optimism of a prize fighter just before the battle. Such confidence is admirable, but Democratic leaders generally seem unable to share it.

Little doubt is entertained that Roosevelt will command a majority of the convention votes. But with the most high-powered political field glasses, they can not as yet espy a two-thirds majority, which is necessary to nominate under time-honored Democratic rules.

Wasted by Congress.
Minneapolis Journal.

Speaking of the cost of government—and who is not, nowadays?—the Public Printer at Washington presents facts that speak for themselves, in his annual report to Congress. Let them so speak:

"During the last ten years, 10,508,405 copies ordered by the various Departments and establishments of the Government for official use or free distribution, have failed of that purpose and have been sold as waste paper. In the same period, 7,470,935 copies of publications available for sale by the superintendent of documents have likewise become obsolete or otherwise unsalable. These useless publications, mostly pamphlets, added to the 5,925,499 returned by depositary libraries, make the total waste of publications during the last ten years amount to 23,899,839 copies, the printing and handling of which cost the Government much more than a million dollars."

And this is not all. Thousands of publications annually allotted to members of Congress, regardless of their special needs, are waste. A few years ago 2,000,000 such publications were sold as waste paper. They had never been removed from their wrappers. And the Public Printer believes there are more tons of such matter stored in and about the Capitol.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Southern Democrat Says Party's Young People Have No Use for Has-Beens.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In reply to the so-called "Virginia Democrat" in his reply to Dr. Barton's question, "What will Dixie do in 1932?" I must say he is not a good Democrat or he would resent Tammany Hall trying to rule the party. He would also resent Mr. Raskob's insult in not asking a Southern Democrat to speak at the Jackson day dinner.

The Democrats, in appealing to the young voter this year, are not very encouraging. Young people like victory. They like winners, not losers, and to see the party every time they meet have for their speakers three defeated candidates isn't very appealing. Patriotic Americans, too, resent the denunciation of their President, and these three speakers had nothing to offer the American people but to abuse the President.

To the rear with Cox, Smith and Davis. What the Democratic party needs is a blood transfusion. Let the men in office head the party, not the has beens.

The South will vote as it chooses when the time comes, and, believe me, it will vote for the defense of the Constitution.

Defenseless and Pacifist China a Lesson to America; Security Insurance Necessary.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The sad lesson of unprepared China overrun by war-clad Japan is at least doing some good as far as America is concerned. Easy going men and women are being stirred to think, and thoughtful citizens are getting rid of any doubts as to the necessity for preparedness. In view of the reckless arrogance of Japan, trust in any dream of future safety, unarmed, is not possible in any state of mind short of the most sodden pacifism. Asia is not the only seat of war-minded nationalism. Competent observers have been warning us that certain European nations might even now be at each other's throats but for the still more or less forbidding memory of World War ravages. Certainly the situation justifies the discreet militarism of Washington and Hamilton and even of the peace-loving Jefferson in contemplation of our dealings with the world at large.

Most welcome is the spirit which calls for ships and men in sufficient strength to insure us against the possibility of humiliation by any mercenary power that threatens world peace either now or hereafter.

Speaks Up for Rural Mail Carriers, the Only Link With the Outside World.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a letter recently printed in this column, Miss Alice Dinsmoor called attention to the proposed reduction of salaries of rural mail carriers, and her words struck a responsive chord in me. Some years ago, although an invalid myself, circumstances forced me to find a small home in nearby Virginia, where I might give my husband the care he needed.

My one medium of contact with the outside world was the rural mail carrier, and he never once failed us, no matter what the weather. All that Miss Dinsmoor says he did for her our carrier did for us, and more, for he was the only member of the community who came near us. Many a time when the weather was bad, mindful of my difficulty, he would get out of his ancient "one-horse shay," and walk as far as the porch with our mail, and always with a cheerful smile and friendly greeting. I, too, hope with all my heart that the effort to cut down the salaries of rural mail carriers will fail.

Cutting Down Army and Navy Is Foolhardy in View of Present Dangers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Following closely the trend of events in the Japanese-Chinese war maneuvers, I think the average citizen realizes the foolhardiness of cutting down our Army and Navy. No peace conferences are half as essential to our welfare as manpower and shippower. Mussolini of Italy has the right idea: Preparedness and equipment preserve a nation and nations.

Americans had better have a little less of peace conferences and more manpower and large ships.

Difference Between "Gent" and Gentleman Defined in Brief.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I enjoyed reading the editorial on "Gent and Gentleman" which you recently clipped from the Boston Transcript. There seems to be some puzzlement as to why the diminutive "gent" for "gentleman" should be objectionable to people of refinement. If it is proper to call an omnibus a "bus" or to use the world "zoo" in reference to a zoological park, why should "gent" be tabu in good society? Of course the word ought to be in good standing, but to attempt to prove it is fruitless except as a mild diversion for those with a flair for nice verbal distinctions. Says the Transcript writer: "'Gent apparently began to take on a meaning all its own when it was applied in a jocular way to persons who pretended to a gentility that was pinchbeck—snobs, parvenus, social climbers, and the like.'" This is possible. But some years ago a writer, whose identity I fail to recall, approached finality with the brief but illuminating declaration: "Gents wear pants." Always since then I have been careful to avoid calling a gentleman a gent.

French Ambassador and Mme. Claudel Are Back in Capital Following Visit Of Several Days in New York

THE FRENCH AMBASSADOR and Mme. Claudel returned yesterday from New York, where they have been for several days. Saturday evening they were the guests of honor at the dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Pierre C. Cartier at their home on East Ninety-sixth street.

Other guests were M. Charles de Ferry de Fontnouvelle, the French consul general; Justice Edward R. Finch and Mrs. Finch; Mr. and Mrs. Harnand Behn, Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady, Mrs. Charles E. F. McCann, Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan, Mr. Ormond G. Smith, Mr. William Skinner and Mr. Maurice Leon.

After dinner the French Ambassador pinned the insignia of Knight of the Legion of Honor on Mr. Garvan, a distinction recently conferred by the French government on the New York lawyer, sportsman, former alien property custodian and member of many clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. Cartier and their guests later attended the performance of "Rigoletto" at the Metropolitan, for the benefit of the French Hospital, of which Mr. Cartier is treasurer.

The Belgian Ambassador and Mme. May will entertain at dinner on Thursday, February 18, in the embassy.

The Chilean Ambassador, Senor Don Manuel Cruchaga Tocornal, entertained at a small tea yesterday afternoon at the embassy for Miss Jane Thorpe, daughter of Col. and Mrs. George C. Thorpe.

The Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen have been invited to attend a Dutch ice carnival at Carmel, N. Y., which will open on February 12 and will continue to Sunday noon, February 14.

There will be a reproduction of a Holland village, with its canals, shops serving Dutch food, and the guests in Dutch costume. It will be built on the lake of the Gypsy Trail Club at Carmel.

Forty-five flags used five years ago in The Hague during the celebration that marked Queen Wilhelmina's wedding anniversary have arrived and will be used as a major part of the decorative scheme. Flags portraying the royal coats of arms of the Dutch provinces are en route. Dutch costumes, including wooden shoes, Isle of Marken hats for the men and lace caps for the women, smocks and other articles of dress also are being imported.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gunnison, of Scarsdale, N. Y., are to be in charge of a booth for skates, wooden shoes, ice sticks and Dutch sleds. Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Page, of Scarsdale, will be in charge of another booth serving Dutch pea soup. Mr. and Mrs. Lester C. Burdette, of New York, will take care of the booth serving Scotch kale and sausage. Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Wobber, of New York, will sell Dutch pottery. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pell will be in charge of the booth serving egg brandy, Mr. and Mrs. David Traitel, of New York, will be in charge of transportation consisting of a Dutch sleigh drawn by horses for travel from booth to booth on the lake. The chef of the Netherland's Club in New York will supervise the preparation of all the Dutch foods.

There will be a skating rink and a Dutch band will play there. Dutch winter sports will form a part of the program.

Representative and Mrs. A. M. Gasque have had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Matteson and Mrs. G. F. Dobson, who returned yesterday to their home in South Carolina.

Nourse, hostess, will be assisted by Mrs. Charles G. Ross, Mrs. Karl Fenning, Mrs. P. G. Anderson, Mrs. Harold G. Moulton, Mrs. Fay S. Holbrook and Mrs. J. K. Caldwell.

Following the tea, Dr. Cheyney, assistant to the director of the Washington labor office in Geneva, will speak on "The Contribution of the Labor Office to the Peace Movement."

The committee on international relations will be in charge of the program and Mrs. Otto L. Veerhoff will preside.

Costumes to Glitter At Bal Boheme.

Opportunity for unusual variety in costuming is offered by the title of this year's Bal Boheme on February 8, which is to be "The Ball of the Seven Seas." Mrs. Fulton Lewis, wife of the president of the club, and her assisting committee have charge of the costumes for the men's floor committee.

Mrs. Lewis is also in charge of the costumes for the girl pages who will act as escorts for King Neptune and who will also be in attendance on the judges of the costumes worn at the ball. This group includes Mrs. Lewis Clephane, Mrs. Edna E. Hilton, Mrs. Alfred Schaublin, Miss Helen I. Burton, Miss Virginia Diedel, and Miss Anne B. Peebles.

Georgeous costuming will be a feature of the pageant, "Neptune's Review." Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest and Mr. Percy J. Burrell are codirectors of this pageant. The singers and dancers also who will take part in the program of the "Seaport Cabaret," which will be staged in the small ballroom under the direction of Miss Marjorie Lowe, will be in costume.

Mrs. Joseph Lang has returned from a visit in New York with her sister-in-law, Miss Fannie Lang.

Mrs. Paul Myron Lineberger has gone to New York to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Schmiegel.

Mrs. J. A. Harbin is passing several weeks in Baltimore.

Miss Janet Richards will give her usual weekly talk on "Affairs Political and International" this morning at 11 o'clock at the Willard Hotel. Home politics and policies, both congressional and administrative, will also be considered.

Mrs. George Barnett gave an informal supper at her home at 1622 Rhode Island avenue northwest last night in honor of Miss Jane Thorpe, daughter of Col. and Mrs. George Thorpe.

Mrs. Frank W. Mondell will be assisted by Mrs. James J. Davis in receiving the members and guests of the League of Republican Women this afternoon from 3 to 3:30 o'clock in the small ballroom of the Willard Hotel.

The meeting of the league will follow at 3:30 p. m. Senator Davis will address the gathering on "Congressional Appropriations."

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Chiswell entertained a party at the Club Chantecler on Saturday evening.

Lenton Concert Slated by a Capella Chorus.

The A Capella Choir of Washington, which last year gave such a successful concert at The Willard in Lent, will be heard in its second annual public Lenten concert, under the direction of Mrs. Ruby Smith Stahl, on the evening of Friday, March 11, at a quarter of 9 o'clock in the Mayflower ballroom.

Although the event is still a number of weeks away, many boxes are already subscribed for, by prominent hostesses of the Capital City.

Mr. Benjamin J. Blays was host to a party of young people at the Club Chantecler supper dance on Saturday evening in compliment to his fiancee, Miss Elsie Tuckerman.

Mr. W. Smiley was host to a party at the Club Chantecler supper dance on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Shubert Reed of Huntington, N. Y., are guests at the Dodge during their brief sojourn in the Capital.

Mrs. Joseph McCormick, of East Providence, R. I., is passing a few days at the Dodge and is accompanied by Mrs. J. Arnold Wright, of New Bedford, Mass.

Miss Alice Angus, of Bismarck, N. Dak., is at the Dodge for an indefinite stay.

Temple Body to Present Reba B. Cohen Today

Reba B. Cohen will be presented at 2 o'clock this afternoon by the Sisterhood of the Eighth Street Temple in her initial appearance in Washington as a raconteur. The presentation will be at the Eighth Street Temple.

The presentation will be two of her original character sketches entitled: "Something To Do," a peace sketch apropos of the Geneva Disarmament Conference, and "The Life of Sarah Abel," demonstrating a woman may have a career and marriage. Both sketches will be given in costume.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ALTHOUGH two or three weeks have passed since Cardinal O'Connell described crooners as "whiners, singing imbecile slush," his criticism seems to be about as live a topic of discussion now as it was then. His remarks were originally made at a meeting of the Holy Name Society, in Boston, and seems to gather momentum as time goes on.

For the benefit of those who may have missed it at the time, there is reprinted here what the cardinal was quoted as saying:

"Whining and crying as the male crooner does, there is no man in America who would not feel disgusted. Oftentimes you go to the radio to find something interesting. I often do when I am tired—and you hear that beleating and whining, with disgusting words, the meaning of which is a low-down source of sexual influence.

"The man who whines that way—well, he just isn't a man. There is no man who would lower himself to such art as that. A love song is a beautiful thing in itself, because it typifies human affection of the heart.

"But listen again with this new idea in your head and see if you do not get a sensation of revolting disgust at a man whining a degenerate song, which is unworthy of any American man. But that is what the people have been hearing.

"Instead of hearing good music over the radio we have to put up with verse after verse of this unmoral slush. There is no other words for it.

"It is a sensuous, effeminate, sort of paganism, with which men of your age may not be influenced, but think of the boys and girls who are brought up with that idea of music."

SOMEONE of Cardinal O'Connell's standing might also do the radio listeners a great service by taking a shot at other trashy musical offerings.

We tuned in, at intervals, one night recently, hoping to hear some good music. The show was going full blast on all stations but everywhere it was the same kind of a jungle din.

It wasn't until 11 o'clock when Ludwig Laurier finally came on with his little six-piece slumber archestra that we heard any music which, in our humble opinion, was fit to listen to.

It didn't last long, however, because Laurier, after being thrown off the air a couple of times, has now been throttled down to a half an hour.

Joseph P. Tumulty, formerly secretary to President Wilson will be a speaker on the program of Joseph D. Kaufman tomorrow night (WMAL, 7:30 o'clock).

THE Wellesley College Choir, under the direction of Maurice Kirkpatrick, will be heard in the first of a series of seven weekly broadcasts featuring the glee clubs and choirs of America's leading women's colleges (WMAL, 3:45 p. m., today).

The Wellesley group, numbering 80 members, functions as both glee club and choir, and includes sacred and secular music in its extensive repertoire. In conjunction with the Harvard University Choir and the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the choir took part in the successful revival of Handel's oratorio, "Saul," and has been heard annually in joint recitals with the glee clubs of Princeton, Yale and other men's colleges.

The choir will present "Adoremus Te" and "To Agni." In addition an old Scottish cradle song "O Can Ye Sew Cushions," "The Cobbler's Jib" and "Pastoral," a composition based on folk themes, will be offered.

An Edgar Wallace murder mystery, "The Silver Key," in two episodes, will be presented tomorrow and Wednesday nights during the Crime Club program (WMAL, 9:30).

The chairman's address formally opening the world disarmament conference at Geneva, which will be delivered by Arthur Henderson, former British foreign secretary, as the delegates of 56 nations convene for the first session will be broadcast by Station WMAL at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

An active campaign against Sunday radio advertising, especially when it originates in the United States either directly or through hook-ups with Canadian stations, is being carried on by the Canadian Lord's Day Alliance.

IN order that he may take full cognizance of the latest developments in the Sino-Japanese situation, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, will not prepare his address scheduled for WRC at 10 o'clock tonight, until just before the broadcast. Senator Lewis is a member of the foreign relations committee.

Senator Huey Long, originally scheduled to speak on this program, was called to New Orleans by sudden political developments in Louisiana.

A "shadow-by-shadow" description of the rousing of the groundhog at the Philadelphia Zoological Garden will be transmitted by Station WMAL tomorrow morning at 11:45 o'clock.

THERE are two L. W. Joys in radio—Leslie W. Joy, director of auditions, and Leonard W. Joy, orchestra director. There is also Alice Joy, contralto. They are not related * * * Bert Lahr, stage comedian, and Lew Brown and Ray Henderson, song writers, will appear tomorrow (WMAL, 8:45 p. m.) with Ed Sullivan * * * Col. Stoopnagle and Budd have a new program bringing them to the microphone every Monday and Wednesday (WMAL, 8:45 p. m.) * * * New entertainers will be heard in the San Felice Serenade making its bow (WJZ network, 7:30 p. m. tonight) * * * A ten-minute program for children is being inaugurated today by WJSV, 5 p. m. * * * A program commemorating the anniversary of the birth of Horace Greeley is scheduled for WRC, Wednesday, 4:15 p. m. * * * A British War Memorial Service will be participated in by two famous Canadian war troops on Wednesday, WEAF, but not WRC, 12:30 p. m. The Cameron Highlanders and the Black Watch Highlanders are the units.

IN the Trumpeters' program recently, an announcer said:

"A Democrat suggested as a good yell for the Democrats, 'Boom, Boom, Crash!' (First year, 'Boom;' second year, 'Boom,' and third year, 'Crash')."

"If you are a Republican," the announcer added, "you can give it the other way around."

Jane Claire INTERPRETS the MODE

"Bleu de perse" is the lovely color for both the wool and fur dyed to match it, of this chic coat from Bruyere. At the left, a dressy version of the tailleur from Bernard et Cie.

New York, Jan. 31.—Our friend the 'ansom M'sieur Heim just wrote to warn us of an impending change in silhouette. One wonders just where or how the silhoutte can change, remembering with something akin to horror the low waistline of six and seven years ago—if you don't remember, look at a fashion magazine of that date!

Be of good cheer, it isn't in that direction! It's up and above the normal waistline that the silhouette threatens to change, to give the figure a slim line just below the bust. Sometimes there will be a belt at the normal waistline as usual, sometimes the belt will be slightly lower, but the slimmer line will be above the belt just the same.

Another paragraph in this letter from gay Paree, now no longer gay, mentions the new in furs for spring; in little capes, boleros, cravats of fur, or fur and cloth. In the past few years women had little to choose from in the way of a neckpiece—a scarf consisting of one or two skins, but 'twas always a fox scarf. Now Miladi can have an almost limitless variety in her neckpieces, in both their style and their fur.

And sh-h-h-h-, here's a real hint, an authentic tip on the spring styles from their source itself! That coat dresses will be very, very popular, due, perhaps, to the popularity of these very same fur pieces in such variety. And the Maison Heim is going to have some of these coat dresses in new wools and the even newer silks that make an effort to resemble wools, with capelets and coatees and scarves of their own material, but trimmed with flat furs so that they seem to almost be separate fur pieces, even though they are actually a part of the coat dress.

French Pronounciation.

"Heim" famous furriers and more lately, Couturier of Paris, is pronounced just like the English abbreviation of "I am," which is, "I'am."

And "cravat" is pronounced in fashion language, "crah-VAT."

'Nif monsieur "I'm" or any one else caught me telling you how to make a truly stylish and flattering dinner dress, of the informal type that is an afternoon dress as well, from 2½ yards of material, well-l-l-l, hope he dosen't! 'Nif he ever dreamed that this dress could be six dresses, the Dah-ray way, each dress as different and distinctive as it could be, and each one acquiring this difference by a set of sleeves and a wee collar or vestee on a guimpe, well, he would make one himself for this spring collection!

How would you like six new dresses in place of the one you thought of allowing yourself? Maybe, even, you have a frock that can be made over into this six-in-one dress—better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for this week's leaflet! It tells you how to make the dress, and has five whole sets of sleeve and vestees to be worn with the dress. You'll love the idea, and the dress, well——!

Heard about the coats with matching fur—fur dyed to match the coat—green, red, blue? Well, at least once in a lifetime one simply has to indulge! And it isn't so extravagant either, when you remember that you can always remove the fur and substitute one of the well-known and undyed furs. Choosing a model like the one I selected to sketch for you today, from Bruyere in Paris, is assurance of more than just one season's wear, regardless of the fur coloring. This model was lovely, too, with its "Bleu de Perse" coloring of wool, and the fur dyes to match! This is a deep blue, slightly purple, you know.

* * * *

And the tiny sketch is another Bernard et Cie. suit, which illustrates the meaning of the "dressy tailleur" which you are going to hear and read so much about this spring!

Au revoir.

CONTRACT Bridge in the bidding is an exchange of information between the partners and, in fact, between all the players at the table. The bids made, as well as the passes, are significant and the strong player always takes advantage of the information he has obtained in the bidding as a guide to the subsequent play.

The hand below, played recently in a New York club, is an excellent example of utilizing knowledge of suit distribution and the probable location of adverse honors to make a contract which seemed doomed to defeat.

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	2♡	2♠(1)	3♣(2)
3♣(3)	Pass(4)	4♠(5)	Pass(6)
Pass	Pass

1. North's Raise is conservative. Actually his hand contains 5 playing-tricks with spades as trump and hence two Raises.

2. East, not vulnerable, has a justifiable Overcall, as any loss might be offset by the honor count. Besides, he has an apparently safe escape in hearts.

3. South has more than sufficient strength for a Rebid.

4. West's pass is perhaps timid, but he fears to drive his opponents into a game declaration.

5. North now gives his second Raise, which he could have given on the first round of bidding.

6. Both East and West are misled by the bidding of North and South into feeling that there is a good chance of defeating the contract and hence it would be unwise to overbid to save the game.

West opened a small club and when South took stock of the hands it seemed that he must probably lose two clubs and two diamonds, as West's immediate Overcall of the Opening bid appeared to locate the diamond Ace in his hand. However, East's bid of clubs seemed to indicate at least a five-card suit and so South played the hand on this assumption. He permitted the first round of clubs to be won by East's King and East returned the suit, the trick being taken by the Ace in Dummy. A small diamond was immediately led from Dummy and when East played low, South played the eight and West won with the Ten. West was faced with a lack of desirable leads, but led the King of hearts, which South won with the Ace, and next led the King of diamonds, which West, of course, won. A heart was returned and trumped in the Dummy and the third round of diamonds led, establishing two good diamonds in the Dummy. The adverse trumps were drawn and a losing club discarded on Dummy's good diamond.

By accurate reading of the adverse holdings, South had reduced his losing tricks by one and thus made his contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question—What three kinds of tricks are used in evaluating the Declarer's hand?

FRANCES M'DONALD

DEFENDS LOVE-MAKING DOCTORS.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: Your high-handed denunciation of the physician mentioned in the case of one of your correspondents stirs me to retort. You tell this woman that she has a "first-rate husband and a third-rate doctor"—or words to that effect. On what do you base so arbitrary an indictment? Your stand seems to me to be that of the unenlightened, to say the least. You seem to be deciding this woman's problem from the standpoint of the moralist or the reformer. The scientist—the doctor—recognizes one of your moralistic considerations and ultimata. He recognizes need. He perceives frustration and the havoc that follows in its wake. He offers what restores the bloom to the face. You call it cheap love making. To the scientist it is not love making of any kind—cheap or otherwise. It is a prescription. It is administered to not one but many. The pity is that so many need such a prescription because of the crudity, the uncouth insensibility of the average mate selected by the average woman.

When men realize that women are not furniture, when they sense the woman's need of homage, praise and tribute, there will be fewer women relying upon the doctor, the minister and the postman for what is to woman as necessary as air and food. Many a man who would not think of stinting his wife on food starves her emotionally until she is a wreck of her girlhood self. And he is the man who rages if his wife strays ever so slightly from the family hearth. Let such be thankful that it is the doctor, to whom the woman is but another case. Let him thank his stars that it is not some gigolo. And in your judgments be less dogmatic. Morality means nothing where science is concerned. To science the stolid husband is the guilty one, rather than the physician who seeks to restore what neglect has destroyed.

MED.

So! That simplifies everything! If one can just be sufficiently scientific, one may enjoy unlimited privilege. But how about the very "unscientific" reaction of the woman when at last it dawns upon her that to her newly acquired hero she has been only a case of malnutrition, as it were? Let us all be "scientific" for a moment and follow this thing to a conclusion. Let us suppose the drooping rose has been restored to bloom by the scientific procedure which we in our crude and deplorable benightedness term love-making. The rose is in seventh heaven. And then what? Being only half rose and half woman, she begins to wonder. At least. And then what? Of course, science can send her a bill and tell her she is cured. But even science will admit that a woman might find that even worse than the worst a stolid husband ever perpetrated. And she just might begin to wilt all over again. In other words, we are going to be obstinate and repeat that in our humble opinion the doctor who makes love to his women patients is a third-rate doctor, and, beside him, the crudest husband that ever blundered his way to an altar is a king among men! That for such "science!"

Street Twins Give Chest 8 Weeks Pay

11-Year-Old Daughters of Director Contribute Their Allowances.

Sibyl and Sarah, 11-year-old twin daughters of Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, yesterday set a real example in Chest giving by contributing eight and one-third weeks' pay to the Chest.

The amount was not large. The twins receive an allowance of 30 cents a week spending money. Out of this each had saved $2.50. This they decided to give to the Chest and took it, without consulting anybody, to the Fillmore School, which they attend.

Finding that there were no Chest collections in the schools this year, they returned home and consulted Mrs. Street, who arranged for them to give through the Metropolitan unit. The Chest is $5 richer by reason of their sacrifice.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SAFE CANNED GOODS.

ABOUT twelve years ago the California canned fruit industry was about to be wiped out by reason of fear of botulinism. Some canned olives had become infected with the bacillus which causes this poisoning, and a fair number of people had lost their lives from eating them. The people became panicky. Not only did the general run of people stop eating ripe olives, but legislation against them was breaking out in various parts of the country.

The California canners took steps to protect their industry. Before safe practices were worked out there were several outbreaks due to eating many diffrent kinds of canned and bottled foods produced in different parts of the country.

Eventually the industry worked out safe practices and installed them. California went beyond the other States in creating a bureau charged with the responsibility of seeing that the safe practices were carried out in detail. Dr. K. F. Meyer, who has been connected with this work since its beginning, advises all other States in which there is a canning industry to follow the lead of California and thus to permit their products to have a reputation for safety. He says that there has been no outbreak of botulinus poisoning caused by eating foods commercially canned since 1925.

The same cannot be said, however, as to the security and safety of home canned products. The temperature to which these products are heated in canning is not high enough to kill this heat resisting bacillus. Products that are sour, or that are put up in vinegar or other sour juices are not dangerous.

For instance, canned tomatoes or canned orange juice is not dangerous even though the article to be canned is not of the best and the canning is poorly done. The very dangerous home-canned products are string beans and corn. These are made more dangerous by the custom of making a cold supper out of a can of string beans garnished with a salad dressing and served cold.

Dr. Meyer advises every housewife who is serving home canned vegetables that are not put up sour to examine every can closely for evidence of spoilage before using the contents and to examine the vegetable carefully when it is emptied from the can. And then, even more important, the contents should be boiled thoroughly before using. So great is the danger of botulinism from eating raw home canned string beans, corn, and some other nonsour vegetables, that Dr. Meyer advises housewives not to home can. His advice is that they preserve by drying, or that they pickle in 10 per cent salt brine, or in acidified or sour brines.

SINUS AND ANEMIA.

A. E. L. W. writes:

1. I have sinus trouble. One doctor advised me to go to a dry climate. Another says it will do no good. Would it help if I went out to Texas?

2. I am anemic, too. What foods should I eat? Is it serious?

REPLY.

1. The climate cure is about the best we have. It is expensive. If you go to Texas, go to the southwest part of the State, west and south of San Antonio. Go to the dry regions, but keep away from regions of dust storms.

2. The seriousness of anemia depends on the kind of anemia and the degree. The foods that supply iron are liver, tripe, juicy meats, yellow of egg, carrots and green vegetables.

SOME OLD-FASHIONED PLANTS.

MORE and more questions are reaching my desk about some of the really old varieties of plants which we so seldom see now. Some of those you ask me about (while I haven't the slightest idea where they may be obtained) I am glad to know they are not entirely forgotten, for they are so well suited to house use.

The hoya, or wax plant as it is commonly called, is most satisfactory for any sunny, inclosed porch, provided it is warm. The growers of the past who understood the plant all tell us to keep it warm in winter and rather dry unless it is making growth. In its growing season like other plants it requires considerable water.

The leaves of the hoya are of thick texture and its flowers are borne in drooping clusters. They are of a pearly flesh color, with a dark, star-shaped growth in the center which gives them a striking appearance. If you would succeed with this plant disturb its roots as little as possible. Never remove the little stems on which the flowers were produced, as next season's new flowers will appear there.

The hoya has one enemy, the mealy bug. You can easily get rid of this insect by constant spraying with cold water. The thing to do is to get rid of the first insect and not wait until they are in epidemic form.

The roots of the plant are very small, so keep it in a small pot until it is at least 3 or 4 years old.

The oleander was a decade ago known as "everybody's flower." This plant likes a shady soil and must have a great deal of water when making its strongest growth. You can hardly give it too much. While this plant is too large for apartment use it is well suited to an inclosed porch. The oleander likes a sandy soil and a great deal of fresh air.

We are hearing much of late about the jasmine parquil, or night-blooming jasmine, with the greenish yellow flowers. While not particularly fine as to color, it gives off a rich, rather heavy perfume when its flowers open. This plant soon develops into a bush specimen 4 or 5 feet in height. It demands a rich, sandy soil. When growing rapidly it must have a great deal of water. When growth ceases, water moderately. Cut it back well after each flowering period.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:40 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:15 p. m.

Astrological influences on February 1 are of such an uplifting nature that the proverbial "blue Monday" should be easily avoided. Difficulties of long standing will begin to fade away as possible solutions come to light, and financial prospects will brighten.

The child born on this February 1 will be able, with application, to do everything moderately well, but will be outstandingly clever in nothing. It will not lack self-confidence, and will have a lot to say for itself, and will not be afraid to say it. Its affectional nature will be deep, although it will be very undemonstrative.

Born February 1, you are of a serious nature, and your work makes the first charge on your thought and energy. The play part of your life is always pushed aside until duty's demands are all taken care of. You dwell in an atmosphere of intense earnestness and seriousness about all matters of practical concern or general interest. You do not accept difficulties, but seek to remove them in the first instance. If you be a man, you do things in a big and bold way. You are enterprising and progressive, and make no compromise with the obsolete or the inefficient in any form. You seek wealth only as a means to power and position. It is difficult to shake your optimism or complacency.

A marked degree of heartiness is found in your "make-up" and you are not diffident in the outward expression of your friendliness. It is characteristic of you to completely ignore those whom you consider unworthy of your notice—only a few, however, come under this class. You are very kindly disposed to all "under dogs" and unfortunates. You pride yourself on your sense of humor, and it is often found to be a godsend at times when it is better to laugh than cry. Your life will be sweetened and filled out through the entrance of romance and the companionship of a real pal of the opposite sex.

Successful People Born February 1.

2. Jonas G. Clark, merchant philanthropist.
3. Joseph Keppler, artist and caricaturist.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Washington, Sunday, Jan. 31—8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Fair and continued cold Monday; Tuesday increasing cloudiness with rising temperature; rain Tuesday night; gentle to moderate northwest and north, shifting to east winds.

For Maryland—Fair and continued cold Monday; Tuesday increasing cloudiness and warmer, followed by rain in east and central and rain or snow in extreme west portion Tuesday night; diminishing northwest and north, shifting to east winds.

For Virginia—Fair and continued cold Monday; Tuesday increasing cloudiness with rising temperature; rain Tuesday night; diminishing northwest and north, shifting to east winds.

The northeastern disturbance has become a storm of great magnitude and great intensity, Resolution Island, Hudson Strait, 28.52 inches, and Belle, N. F., 28.74 inches. The far western disturbance has also increased in intensity, and its center is moving south-southeastward over California, Red Bluff, 29.42 inches. The disturbance has caused rain in California and snow in the North Pacific States and portions of the plateau and northern Rocky Mountain regions and Nebraska. Pressure is relatively low and falling also from northern Alaska southeastward over the lower Mackenzie Valley. The area of high pressure of great magnitude is advancing slowly eastward over the western Canadian Provinces, Ontario, and the United States from the Rocky Mountain region eastward, Moorhead, Minn., 30.84 inches. The temperature has continued to fall in the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States, the upper Ohio Valley, and the lower lake region, and it has risen slightly from the southern plateau region eastward to the lower Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the east Gulf States. Abnormally cold weather still prevails from the North Pacific coast eastward to the lake region and the upper Ohio Valley.

General forecast for the Atlantic States, the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley and Tennessee—The weather will be generally fair Monday, but the western disturbance will cause much cloudiness Tuesday, and precipitation is probable in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the lower lake region Tuesday, and in the Middle Atlantic and portion of the South Atlantic States Tuesday night. The temperature will rise slowly in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the eastern lower lake region, Georgia, Florida Monday and Tuesday, and continued cold weather Monday in the eastern lower lake region and the Atlantic States will be followed by rising temperature Tuesday.

New Weather Observatory May Be on 'Mount Sinai'

Mountain Believed to Be One on Which Moses Received Commandments Likely to Be Chosen by Smithsonian for Sun Study Station.

A solar observatory to obtain knowledge of solar radiation measurements to aid in long range weather predictions may be established on Mount Sinai where, the Bible says, Moses received the Ten Commandments.

Unable to find a suitable station for exacting solar radiation measurements on the African continent, Alfred F. Moore, of the staff of the Smithsonian Institution, is on the way to investigate the possibilities of Mount St. Catherine, which rises 8,540 feet above sea level out of the Sinai Desert.

This mountain is about 12 miles south of Mount Sinai, and there is a tradition linking the Biblical story with Mount St. Catherine. It is believed that the survey may show the mountain to be the highest, dryest accessible spot in the Eastern Hemisphere.

The institution has just abandoned its station on Mount Brukkaros, in Southwest Africa, after making observations there for the past five years. Its abandonment was caused by haze and terrific winds, which were too great for the observations to be fully satisfactory. Through the interest of John A. Roebling, Moore has been seeking for a better station.

For years the astrophysical observatory of the Smithsonian, under Dr. Charles G. Abbot, has been measuring daily the amount of solar radiation in different parts of the Western Hemisphere at Washington, Table Mountain, in California, and Montezuma, Chile. This work is beginning to lead to important conclusions concerning variations in the earth's weather.

The Sinai Desert, through which Moore will have to pass in his survey, is the one through which, the Bible says, the Hebrew migrants passed. The peninsula is waterless and barren. Monks have inhabited the mountain for centuries, so that it is hoped that raiding robbers will not be too great a handicap.

Weeping Bride Keeps Royal Guests Waiting

Iver, Buckinghamshire, England, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Royal wedding guests waited fifteen minutes in the little country church here today for a bride who finally arrived in tears.

Capt. Roberts Doyne, of the Oxford and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry, the bridegroom, was there on time, and so were Princess Victoria, the king's sister, and Princess Alice, Countess Athlone. A quarter of an hour after the ceremony was to have begun Miss Verna Seymour, daughter of Lady Blanche Seymour, arrived weeping. She dried her tears, however, and went through the ceremony with a smile. No one tried to explain the incident.

SCHOOL DEDICATION SET AT FRANCONIA

Ceremonies Will Be Held at Institution in Fairfax Tomorrow Night.

The formal opening and dedication of the new school at Franconia, Va., in Fairfax County, will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The exercises will take place in the auditorium of the new building under the auspices of the Franconia Community League.

The program will open with an invocation by the Rev. C. A. Langston, rector of the Pohick Church. A flag presentation ceremony will be conducted by the Fairfax Chapter, Daughters of America, who have donated flags for use by the school. The flag will be accepted on behalf of the school by Superintendent of Schools Wilbert T. Woodson.

The remainder of the program will include solos by Mrs. Stephen Field, Mrs. Parker Richardson, Miss Greta Ludwig, Mrs. Effie Myers and Roland Wheeler. Recitations will be given by J. C. Marsh and Mrs. Norman Evens. The principal speaker will be the Rev. E. V. Register, of Alexandria. The school children will also present a short program.

Special invitations have been extended to the members of the county school board and other persons who assisted in obtaining the new school.

Benjamin B. Hampton Is Dead at Age of 57

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Benjamin B. Hampton, 57, founder and former editor of Hampton's Magazine, and more recently an author and producer of motion pictures, died in a hospital here tonight. Hampton, who maintained homes at Los Angeles, Calif., and Pawling, N. Y., had been in the hospital since December 5.

McLean Firemen Pick Beattie Again

Reports Show Members Total 170 and Debt Reduced $1,200.

The volunteer fire department at McLean, Va., reelected James H. Beattie chief at its annual meeting in the McLean engine house. Other officers elected were J. Clements Storm, first assistant chief; John H. Carper, second assistant chief; C. W. Triplett, first captain; Albert Gorham, second captain, and Jesse Dailey, Aubrey Dailey, Willard Dailey, Walter Kerns, Joseph Farver and J. L. Kefauver, lieutenants.

Theodore M. Corner was elected chief engineer; Hammond Dyer, electrician; John W. Preston and Lewis Magarity, assistant fire marshals; James King, Marvin Poole, Otto Voigt and James Magarity, nozzle captains; J. P. Freck, secretary, and Harry R. Farver, treasurer. John W. Preston, J. P. Freck, C. W. Triplett and J. L. Kefauver were reelected directors for terms of three years. The secretary reported that the department now has 170 members.

The financial report of the treasurer for the year showed the department has reduced its indebtedness approximately $1,200 in addition to interest payments. The total indebtedness is now $4,500, which includes $3,000 due on equipment and $1,500 on a note.

The department authorized its building committee to purchase the necessary materials to lay the foundation for the walls of the proposed addition to the rear of the engine house.

Trucks Set New Record For Hauling Live Stock

Chicago, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Motor trucks set a new high record of hauling live stock from farm direct to market in 1931, with 21,162,430 cattle, calves, hogs and sheep trucked to seventeen markets. Exactly one-third of the total receipts were transported by truck, a 25 per cent increase over 1930.

It is estimated that 3,000,000 tons of live stock rode to market by the gasoline route. It would have taken 342,000 single deck carloads to handle the trucked receipts. The estimated 1,175,000 truckloads that hauled the 21,000,000 head of stock had an average haul of 65 miles.

FIRE HALL ADDITION NEARS COMPLETION

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Construction of the new addition to the Clarendon Firemen's Hall to house the third piece of apparatus is under way and will be completed within the next two weeks, it was reported yesterday.

Work is being done under supervision of James W. Tucker, assistant chief and chairman of the building committee.

Reports that the department is preparing to purchase an ambulance and organize a rescue squad similar to that of the Jefferson District Fire Department have no foundation, it was learned.

It was stated that the new addition to the building will be used to house one of the pieces of equipment now in possession of the department, but had to be removed when the new ladder arrived.

President Louis C. Carl, of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, will represent the chamber at the eighth annual meeting of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce in Richmond, Va., Thursday.

The providing for an adequate approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge will be principal business before the Rosslyn Precinct Civic League tonight in the auditorium of the Woodrow Wilson School at Fort Myer Heights.

The Catholic Woman's Club, of St. Charles Catholic Church, of Clarendon, will hold its first benefit card party in St. Charles School, tonight.

West Virginia Society to Dance.

A feature of the entertainment program of the West Virginia State Society meeting and dance Wednesday evening at Meridian Mansions will be Uncle Josh's Old-Time Orchestra, under the leadership of E. S. H. Gans. Old-time music, both vocal and instrumental, will be played.

Boys Club Names Leaders for Year

Plans for 1932 Projects Are Made at Meeting of Georgetown Group.

New officers of the Georgetown Boys' Club have been elected and plans made for the ensuing year. Col. C. Nixon was elected chairman; Ford Young, vice chairman; Frank Kerf, secretary; Henry W. Draper, recording secretary; W. T. Weaver, treasurer, and Isaac Mendelson and B. Agee Bowles, councillors.

Plans were completed for a card party for the benefit of the Boys' Club, to be given at the Gordon Junior High School by a ladies' group from the Parent-Teacher and Progressive Citizens Association, at a date to be announced. New directors elected to the board of directors of the club are: The Rev. Charles T. Warner, E. A. Rule, Stephen Bonsal, the Rev. H. Bland Tucker, Isaac Birch, James Berrall, George C. Heon, Frank S. Bright, F. Trubee Davison, Representative Lewis W. Douglas, of Arizona, Mrs. J. B. Frye, Mrs. W. A. Hurley, Mrs. J. B. Compton, Mrs. S. C. Eschner, Mrs. B. L. Hillery and Mrs. G. E. Schultz.

The Georgetown Boys' Club was founded a year ago through the cooperation of the Boys' Club of Washington and the Washington Rotary Club. The Rotary Club underwrote the major part of the first year's cost and the remainder has been supplied by Georgetown citizens.

Col. Bugbee said he would like to be with his old regiment again. In Manchura and Siberia during the World War, he said, it showed itself to be one of the Army's "crack units."

French Favor Garrett If Edge Is Transferred

Paris, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The widely read newspaper Intransigeant, on the assumption that Ambassador Walter E. Edge would succeed Charles G. Dawes as American Ambassador to London, said Ambassador John W. Garrett, now at Rome, would be a welcome choice for the Paris post.

Mr. Garrett, for a long time a resident of France, has succeeded admirably at Rome, the newspaper said.

Not only that, when the size is right, the cigarette lasts longer, and smokes cooler. And that "right" size is exactly the standard Chesterfield size.

A detail? Of course—but a mighty important one, figured in extra coolness and comfort. It's by constant attention to just such details that Chesterfield sets cigarette standards.

ORCHESTRA SHARES HEMPEL'S TRIUMPH

National Symphony Is Led by Kindler; Soprano Receives Ovation.

Frieda Hempel, Viennese songbird, and the immortal "Beautiful Blue Danube Waltz Song," by Strauss, captured the audience at the National Symphony Orchestra concert in Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon and won for the singer an ovation that must have surprised even a practiced recipient of such applause.

The orchestra, improving concert by concert in ensemble work and professional assurance, was conducted by Hans Kindler, its organizer and trainer. In the "Peer Gynt Suite," by Grieg, all the more welcomed by the audience because of its familiarity, the orchestra played with veteran precision and an abiding beauty of tone.

Notable also was the orchestra's work in accompanying Mme. Hempel. There was no overshadowing of the singer. Instead, under Herr. Kindler's masterful baton the musicians lent additional grace of melody instrumental to the diva's songs.

Frieda Hempel, the operatic star, was revealed in her beautiful singing of one of the great arias for a soprano, "Diehheure Halle," from Wagner's "Tanhauser." Here the full beauty of her voice was displayed with its easy mastery of trills, cadenzas and the other adornments of a coloratura soprano. The audience grew even more enthusiastic than usual in applauding this aria, which the singer smilingly acknowledged again and again.

The orchestra excelled itself in its playing of Jarnefeldt's "Praeludium" and Borodin's Polovetzkian dances from "Prince Igor." Its ability to play Wagner had another chance to exhibit itself in its presentation of Wagner's "Lohengrin" Vorspiel, Nos. 1 and 3.

The concert was given under the management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

It was a very elegant party that was heaved by Mr. Harry W. Crull, managing director of the Fox Theater, for the preview of his company's production of "The Silent Witness," on last Saturday midnight—a little before and quite a bit after, yes if you are going to get technical about it!

And it was a very elegant picture that was viewed by the ladies and gentlemen of the press, too. Not, perhaps, one of the year's enormous epics, but an interesting film play in which great use has been made of the matter of tempo to whip up the spectator's temperature, pulse beat and blood pressure.

Further than that—and it is no part of this column's intention even on a day when news is scarce, to review the picture this far in advance of its Friday opening on F street—there are two personalities in whom Washington is keenly interested pivotally cast in this melodrama. I mean Lionel Atwill and Weldon Heyburn. Atwill delivers himself of an incisive and thoroughly effective performance, and Heyburn is by way of being a suave, handsome and physically impressive young man.

You will get a kick out of them both and Gretna Nissen, of course!

The guests of honor at the preview, as goes without saying, were Jimmie Dunn, appearing in person at the Fox this week, and Willard Singley, from the Fox Theater in Philadelphia, who works with him in his act.

Mr. Dunn had a pretty hard time fighting off his feminine admirers. Thanks to one of them, an esteemed and pulchritudinous contemporary, who had her heart set on getting an interview with the star of "Bad Girl," "Dance Team" and those others, I managed to acquire a comparatively new line on the kid myself—eavesdropper that I am.

In reply to her questions it was revealed that:

Jimmy gets up before breakfast.

His breakfast is a hearty meal—what with that clause in the contract, and everything, about 157 pounds—consisting of a nibble of toast and some lemon juice measured with an eye-dropper.

In literature, he prefers The Washington Post and "Deadwood Dick," which he learned to read under bedcovers with a flashlight so that his dad wouldn't whale the daylights out of him. I'm referring now to "Deadwood Dick," naturally.

His favorite hobby is women! Omigosh!

Or maybe it was horses, I forget just which.

Another who didn't do so badly in the eye of such public as was present was Maj. J. Franks, father of "Spanny" Franks, former Washington resident, now known, as you must have heard by this time, as "Weldon Heyburn." Yes, the fellow in the picture.

Maj. Franks has gone so Hollywood himself that he even calls his boy Weldon Heyburn. Of all people, you'd think he ought to know his son's right name! And is he proud of the kid!

Kate Smith isn't permitting any hay to grow under her feet these prosperous days. She is appearing at the RKO-Kenmore Theater in New York the first half of the present week, preliminary to taking up her headline duties at RKO-Keith's in this city on Saturday.

And speaking of RKO-Keith's, Eugene Spencer, assistant manager, loaned to Manager Hardie Meakin when the RKO-Capitol Theater in Trenton, N. J., burned down some months ago, is soon to return to his former assignment. The RKO-Capitol has been rebuilt and will be ready for formal dedication within the next fortnight.

And if you folks with a yen for the big tops want to know something, the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey Circus will play Washington on Monday and Tuesday, May 2 and 3. This will inaugurate the season of "The Greatest Show on Earth" under canvas, the Washington dates following immediately upon the season's opening at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Incidentally, this year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the importation to this country, by P. T. Barnum, of Jumbo, the biggest circus elephant ever exhibited. All right, then, go look it up!

Guthrie McClintic has just purchased "I Was Waiting For You," a comedy by Melville Baker, adapted from "Je t'attendais," by Jacques Natanson, one of the best and most prominent of the younger French dramatists.

"Je t'attendais" was one of the great successes of the Paris season when given at the Theater Michel in 1929 with an all-star cast including two of the older generation of French actors, Signoret and Dorziat, and two of the younger ones, Frefnay and Alice Cocea.

Melville Baker who made the adaptation is the one who adapted Molnar's "The Swan" some seasons ago for Gilbert Miller.

Mr. McClintic is enthusiastic about "I Was Waiting For You." Whether he makes the production in the spring or the autumn depends upon the availability of the cast he has in mind.

Maxine Doyle's pet attack of laryngitis that promises to develop into nothing more serious than double pneumonia, diptheria and maybe an added fillip of tonsilitis, is getting no better rapidly. She is still mistressing ceremonies at the Earle, but the pipes, as you may have noticed, seem to be a bit frozen!

Katharine Cornell announces that she will begin her spring tour in Rudolf Besier's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," in the Shubert Theater in Boston on Monday night, February 15, directly following the end of her year's engagement in the Empire Theater in New York City.

She closes her Manhattan season at a time when she still is selling out every performance, because she wishes to appear on the road in the Besier play. After Boston, she will be seen in Philadelphia, Chicago and possibly one or two other cities before she finishes her season on May 28. Assisting the star will be the same cast in every instance as that which now is acting with her in the Empire Theater in New York City.

Thanks again, Mr. Crull. And do you happen to have any of that caviar left?

Peru Would Lease Ore Mines to Pay Off Debt

Lima, Peru, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Private exploitation of the Marcona iron ore deposits, which are national reserves, providing those who take over the property assume payment of Peru's foreign debts, was proposed in congress today.

U. S. BONDS FIRMER DESPITE DULL SALES

Rise Attributed to Reports of Proposed Cut in Discount Rates.

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Hopes for improvement in bond prices were somewhat dimmed during the past week as the market dragged through dull sessions and the averages slowly ebbed.

Only the United States Government section exhibited strength in the latter part of the week, due, it was explained by dealers, to the growing belief in some quarters that the Federal Reserve Banks are preparing to inaugurate an easy money policy by lowering the rediscount rate. If and when this will be done, however, is considered problematical.

Railroad securities were particularly heavy because of the slowness of the Chicago negotiations on wage reductions. Earlier belief that the unions would compromise on a 10 per cent cut gave way to fear that the entire question may yet have to be thrown into arbitration.

Principal pressure was exerted against the low-priced carriers which had previously advanced from 10 to 40 or more points above their December low. Most of these, however, still retained the greater portion of their gains.

Japanese obligations received a sharp set-back when the forces of Nippon entered Shanghai and fighting took place with the Chinese in the native part of the city. Both Japanese government and corporate loans lost several points on Friday and Saturday. Fear of further complications in the Far East brought heavy selling, at times, in this list.

Utilities and industrials joined in the sagging movement most of the week. Foreign bonds were irregular. Argentine advanced sharply at one time, but later eased. Principal trading was done in the German Government 7s and 5½s, which lost some of their recent advances. British and French issues were soft.

THE THEATER YESTERDAY

"SPAIN, THE REPUBLIC." The second of five Sunday afternoon Travel Talks by E. M. Newman. At the National Theater. Reviewed by W. A. Whitney.

In spite of the lurid press accounts of the change in the government of Spain from monarchy to republic, any degree of realism still is lacking in the recital to those for whom the overthrow exists only on the printed page. Accordingly, it takes E. M. Newman to "add artistic verisimilitude to a bald and unconvincing narrative"—or have you never enjoyed "The Mikado?"

Arriving in Madrid 48 hours before the revolution last summer, Mr. Newman was able to gather at first hand a wealth of material from which in words and pictures he drew a vivid panorama of history in the making with mob excitement, unjustifiable arson and almost sacrilegious mutilation of works of art dramatically pictured.

Beautifully arranged, the travelogue started with the City of Barcelona in peaceful prerevolution days, yet not entirely without the ominous rumblings of the impending revolt. Through the transplanted wonders of the Spanish village to the shrine of Montserrat, the supposed repository of the Holy Grail; to Tarragona; to Valencia, where Spain's Le Cid was killed; to Jativa, the birthplace of the artist, Ribera; to Alicante and Elche, with its date palms went the description of Spain with its places of sacred and historic interest.

Malaga and its tortuous, rocky gorge, Granada and the Alhambra, Cadiz, Ronda and Seville were seen in order, visiting the scenes of interest. Because of the threats of riots, the customary Corpus Christi celebrations were omitted throughout Spain last year, save in Toledo, where, by rare good fortune, Mr. Newman was able to see and photograph this colorful religious pageant.

Not all the afternoon was devoted to buildings and places. Many interesting and curious glimpses of manners and customs were given, chief among which were the quaint ceremonies of a Galacian wedding and the colorful costumes of the Spanish hill peasantry.

But in spite of the many delights of Spain, rich in scenic and architectural beauty, it is the thrilling description of the political turmoil that stands as the high point of the afternoon, an unforgetable visualization of the travail of people in the throes of creating a new nation. Relatively bloodless, the revolution was not without its toll, especially to property.

Civil and royal properties guarded, the mobs vent their fury on defenseless convents, razing no less than twelve to ghostly hulks. Wanton destruction of statues and other examples of blind mob violence were vividly described and pictured, and stand in high relief against the quiet beauty of the country of an earlier date.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM WOMAN'S WEAKNESS?

Cumberland, Md.—"About two years ago my entire system was very much rundown. I had no ambition, felt all tired out and very nervous, hardly able to do my work. Suffering from woman's weakness no doubt caused this breakdown," said Mrs. Ethel Shoemaker, of 233 Paca St. "Mother urged me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I had taken only half a bottle when I noticed a great change, but kept on taking it until I was not only the picture of health but also was in perfect health.

FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travels, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do ot delay

Character Commands Confidence

(From the book "Standards of Business" by Elwood E. Rice)

IN thought, word and deed, Abraham Lincoln exemplified truth and fair dealing. His sterling character commanded the confidence of all who knew him.

So, in all lines of endeavor, character inspires confidence. In the world of finance, leading bankers agree that it is the basis of credit, while, in business, the character of a concern is your best warrant of the quality of its products or service.

When the Rice Leaders of the World Association was founded twenty years ago, character was made the first requisite for membership. Thus manufacturers are accepted into the Association only when they are known to adhere to standards that reflect business character. Such standards form the Association's Qualifications for Membership:

HONOR:	A recognized reputation for fair and honorable business dealings.
QUALITY:	An honest product, of quality truthfully represented.
STRENGTH:	A responsible and substantial financial standing.
SERVICE:	A recognized reputation for conducting business in prompt and efficient manner.

The message of the Rice Leaders of the World Association is one of confidence to the consuming public. Without reflecting upon concerns not included in its membership, it assures you that you can buy, sell or use members' products with faith in their honest value and true worth.

Several of the members listed below were in business when Lincoln was President. All are owned and operated by men whose nation-wide reputation for character and square dealing guarantees the quality of their merchandise.

Look for the Association's Emblem, which members use as an evidence of their business character and high standing. The confidence you have in one or more manufacturers who display this Character Mark justifies equal confidence in all members.

The current Japanese crisis brought about by the segregation of Japanese students in American schools was the topic of discussion at a special Cabinet meeting yesterday, as well as on the floor of the Senate. Senator Perkins said in a speech that a conflict with Japan was "inevitable."

It is reported from London that the differences between the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough have been settled privately.

Lieut. C. R. Miller and Lieut. R. C. Bulmer have been ordered to duty at the White House, as the new White House naval aids.

THE GROUND HOG BECOMES A GUEST STAR.

("Ground Hog's Performance to Be Broadcast Over Radio."—Headline.)

WELL, folks, here we are out here in the great open spaces ready to help you observe that historic American event known as Ground Hog Day.

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW. EVERYTHING IS READY. IT IS QUITE COLD HERE AND IF THE GROUND HOG HAS ANY SENSE HE WILL STAY IN HIS HOLE. BUT YOU CAN DEPEND ON IT, HE WILL COME OUT. HE OWES IT TO HIS PUBLIC. AND THIS YEAR THE GROUND HOG COMES TO YOU AS A RADIO GUEST STAR!

• • • •

The ground hog is appearing this winter, as you know, on the Zebra Cigarette hour with that silver-throated tenor Zip Nasby, Sam Linsky's Harmony Boys and Dicky Pons, the sentimental philosopher. It will not be hard to tell which is the ground hog as the other boys will be numbered.

• • • •

While we're waiting I might give you a brief outline of Ground Hog Day. It always comes on February 2, the idea being derived from Candelmas, a sixth century duke, who never could wait to see what next month's weather would be like and was always trying to outsmart it. He tried everything, but finally put all his trust in ground hogs.

• • • •

It was his belief that if the ground hog came out on February 2 and saw his shadow it meant six more weeks of heated taxicabs. If the hog did not see his shadow it meant that the Florida trip could be called off and the alcohol allowed to evaporate in the radiator.

• • • •

Well, I think we are about to get action. All the cub reporters are gathering around the hole. The photographers have just trooped up and are setting up their apparatus. One of the picture men has brought his own ground hog, just in case. He is an old-timer and knows his stuff.

• • • •

PRESIDENT HOOVER HAS ARRIVED AND WILL THROW OUT THE FIRST GROUND HOG.

• • • •

Chief Justice Hughes is here and will decide the issue in case of a tie.

• • • •

THERE COMES THE GROUND HOG NOW • • • NO, MY MISTAKE. THAT WAS ALFALFA BILL MURRAY IN A BEARSKIN COAT.

• • • •

Al Smith has just come in, and so has Gov. Ritchie. Here comes Franklin D. Roosevelt. Newton Baker is here, too. They're not much interested in the ground hog. Each one wants to keep the other from getting too much credit for anything that happens. Judge Landis has just arrived and wants to know what's going on. All he knew is that some pictures were to be taken.

• • • •

Jimmy Walker is here because of a report that if the ground hog sees his shadow it will mean six months more of Judge Seabury.

JUDGE DEAL LOOMS AS GRIFFITH ATTENDS MEETING

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

AROUND THE CIRCUIT.

"HACK WILSON'S Purchase Brings Visions of Pennant to Brooklyn," was last week's cheering headline.

Lest we forget, two pop flies hit in Wilson's direction by the Athletics brought visions of victory to the Cubs in the fourth game of the world series of 1929 until Martinsburg's most famous citizen performed a butterfly flutter in the sun's rays and permitted the balls to go for two cheap home runs.

"Silent Joe" Boley greased the ways for his departure from the Athletics by balking at the contract offered him for 1932, it seems. Boley ruffled the authority of the club officials when he expressed dissatisfaction with the 1932 terms and his sale to the Cleveland Indians was the instantaneous result.

Max Carey released the veterans, Rube Bressler and Adolph Luque unconditionally and gave Jack Quinn a salary boost on the strength of his 1931 record. Quinn admits to 46 summers, but the report still persists that his name and date of birth were included with the first Bible that came off the Gutenberg press.

Bud Thomas, star pitcher of The Post's Capital City League, is a victim of the major-minor league agreement which forbids the big leagues to sign a player directly from the sandlots. Thomas, scouted by the Nationals, must first serve a term with Chattanooga before being eligible for a tryout with the Washington Club.

Frank Watt, long a familiar pitcher on the Washington sandlots, was waiting for a job with the Capital police force when he decided to give his pitching arm one more tryout and was given a chance by the Phillies. He won five games and lost five in 1931, and is regarded as one of the regulars of the Phillies' staff as the team prepares to go into spring training at Winter Haven, Fla.

The Washington club's roster reveals that Carl Reynolds, the new outfielder, is the heaviest man on the team, weighing 194 to Fred Marberry's 190. Lynn Griffith, 6-foot-2 rookie pitcher is the tallest and Johnny Kerr, utility infielder, 5-feet-8, is the shortest. Reynolds, Sam West, Marberry, Lynn Griffith and Lloyd Brown claim domiciles in Texas.

Bucky Harris admits he guessed wrong on the Walker brothers, his pair of rookie outfielders, last season. Bucky retained Hub Walker and released Gerald shortly after the start of the 1931 campaign, but at the end of the season he recalled Gerald and gave Hub his walking papers. Gerald will fit into the Tigers' outfit very nicely, Harris believes.

Mrs. Babe Ruth has not yet been heard from in the Babe's salary controversy with Col. Ruppert. It was Mrs. Ruth, you remember, who told Babe not to be stubborn two years ago when the Bambino was holding out for $85,000. So the Babe signed for $80,000 for two years. Mrs. Ruth has not yet expressed herself as dissatisfied with Ruppert's $70,000 offer for 1932.

Frank Crosetti, the Yankee's importation from the Coast League, and Tony Lazzeri, will face some competition in the battle for the second base berth when Dr. Eddie Farrell joins the club at St. Petersburg. Farrell, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Dental School, who saw previous big league service with the Giants and Braves, will endeavor to extract a regular job from the Yankee infield.

Another pair of brothers will try to crash the big leagues together this season. Fritz Knoethe, a third baseman, goes up to the Braves from Seattle while George, a shortstop, was drafted by the Phillies from the New Orleans Club. Brothers in the big leagues have been scarce, with Lloyd and Paul Waner of the Pirates the most famous, although there were Jesse and Virgil Barnes, pitchers for the Giants, and Bob and Emil Meusel, who did outfield chores for the Yankees and Giants, respectively. Harry and Stanley Coveleskie, famed pitchers for Cleveland, and Luke and Joe Sewell, who also made good with the Indians. Rick Ferrell, of the Browns, is rapidly approaching the stardom as a catcher that Wesley Ferrell enjoys as a pitcher with the Indians.

Kenney in Upset Win In 3-Cushion Cue Play

Chicago, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Gus Copulus, of Eugene, Ore., one of the four players favored to win the title, was defeated by Len Kenney, Chicago, 50 to 32 in 47 innings, in the world's championship three-cushion billiard tournament tonight. The loss, his third in eight games, dropped Copulos from a tie for third in the standings to fourth place.

The loss dropped Copulas from a third-place tie to fourth in the standing.

Kenney, who turned back Jake Schaefer last week, played the same careful game that has marked his work all during the tournament. It was his fifth victory in ten starts.

G. C. "Caseys" Score On Baltimore Court

The local Knights of Columbus basket ball team advanced another step in its quest for the Southern championship of the order by defeating Santa Maria Council, of Baltimore, by a score of 27-22 yesterday. The game, which was played in the Monumental City, preceded the dedication of the new Santa Maria Home, and a crowd of approximately 5,000 fans was on hand to witness the fray. The play of Jim Proctor and Johnny Ahearn was outstanding for the Capital City Caseys.

College Fives Risk Win Streaks

American U., G. W., Maryland Busy This Week.

Teams Have Won 7, 8 and 7 in a Row, Respectively.

THREE Capital collegiate basket ball teams seek to extend winning streaks this week. American, unbeaten in seven games, meets Randolph-Macon and Elon tomorrow and Friday nights, respectively; George Washington, winner of eight straight and undefeated, plays William and Mary Thursday at Williamsburg, while Maryland, victorious in its last seven contests after two earlier setbacks, engages Catholic U. Wednesday and North Carolina U. on Saturday.

Mid-year examinations curtailed American's court activity last week, the Methodist quintet not practicing until Friday. However, Coach Walter Young expects his charges to continue their triumphant march during which they have beaten Randolph-Macon once. Elon is something of an unknown quantity.

G. W. Figures to Defeat William-Mary.

Barring the unforeseen, George Washington should add William and Mary to its list of victims. The giant Colonials have averaged 44¼ points per game thus far and possesses in Wick Parrack and Forrest Burgess two of the keenest-eyed goal tossers in this section of the country. Parrack has scored 113 points in eight games while his running mate has totaled 93. They rank one-two in the individual scoring race among Capital collegians.

Maryland anticipates close competition from Catholic U., which has shown flashes of power this season. The C. U. floormen always offer stout resistance to a College Park team. If the Marylanders clear the Cardinal hurdle they strike flush into rugged opposition again on Saturday when North Carolina invades Ritchie Coliseum.

Twelve games in all are scheduled this week for Capital colleges with nine slated for home consumption. Georgetown entertains Western Maryland Thursday night and Gallaudet plays host to Temple College of Pharmacy, which it previously defeated on Saturday night.

Two Washington Collegiate Conference contests are on the program with Strayer College figuring in both. Benjamin Franklin provides the opposition for Strayer tomorrow night at Central High and Bliss does likewise Friday at Silver Spring.

In the scoring battle, Parrack and Burgess are trailed by Wilbur Jensen of Gallaudet, and Ed White, of Catholic, who are tied for third place with 87 points each. Tommy Carolan, dependable Georgetown guard, is fourth with 82 points, and Rufus Vincent, Maryland's sophomore star, follows in fifth place with 70.

RING SEASON OPENS FOR COLLEGES

Columbus-W. and J. Match 1 of 3 Here This Week.

COLLEGE boxing comes into its own in the Capital area this week with Columbus, Catholic and Maryland Universities opening their respective home schedules in matches against formidable opposition. It is the first time in the history of local intercollegiate athletics that as many as three institutions have sponsored the ring sport the same year.

Columbus, coached by Dick O'Connell and boasting a District of Columbia A. A. U. champion in Mickey O'Connor, middleweight, makes its debut Thursday night at the Strand Theater in a series of seven bouts with representatives of Washington and Jefferson College. Catholic, which has one of its strongest teams in years, meets City College of New York Friday night in Brookland Gymnasium, and Maryland, engaging in the sport for a second year, entertains Washington and Lee Saturday night in Ritchie Coliseum. These matches also will consist of seven bouts in weight classes ranging from 115 to heavyweight.

Athletic Cards Necessary At 2 Matches.

Owing to the local law forbidding the charging of admission to boxing bouts, admittance to the Columbus and Catholic matches will be granted only to members of the athletic associations of those institutions. Maryland, however, being beyond the Capital limits, invites the general public at a charge of $1 per person.

Besides O'Connor, who is a terrific right-hand puncher, Columbus will use against W. and J. the following: Eddie Marmel, bantamweight; Harry Allen, featherweight; Leo Covaleskie, lightweight; Johnny Russo, welterweight; Gus Mirman, light-heavyweight, and Francis Jahn, heavyweight.

The Catholic U. aggregation, coached by Eddie Lafond, himself a former Cardinal boxer, will line up as follows: Joe Miro, bantamweight; Johnny DePasquale or Bill Calabrese, featherweight; Basil Maravalias or Harry DiGiacomo, lightweight; Frank Stines, welterweight; John Stapleton or Jim Lyons, middleweight; Dan Pyne or Tom Gearty, light-heavyweight, and Bingo Flynn or Phil Gross, heavyweight.

Decker and Robbins May Compete.

Coach Billy Whipp, of Maryland, may present a revamped array against Washington and Lee if Jim Decker and Bill Robbins, veterans of last year's team who recently return to school, are in the proper condition to compete. Decker, a bantamweight, may replace Bob Rueling, who fought in Maryland's recent match with V. M. I., while Robbins, a heavyweight, possibly will supplant George Norris. In the other classes will be Frank Maneri, featherweight; Frank Iseman, lightweight; Bernard Keener, welterweight; Jim Loughran, middleweight, and Fred Nordenholz, light-heavy.

DECISION TO AGLIANO.

New Orleans, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Tony Agliano, of New York, won an unpopular decision today over Lou Avery, of Oklahoma City, in a 10-round lightweight bout. Agliano weighed 130¾, Avery 135¼.

Brown Faces Gallagher Tonight

Future of Heavies in This Section Hinges on Nursery Bout.

Capital Fighter Down to 201; Attractive Preliminaries.

By JACK ESPEY.

TWO heavyweight fighters with aspirations to go places in the ring industry collide tonight when Marty Gallagher, Irish pride of Foggy Bottom, and Natie Brown, Philadelphia Hebrew, bombard each other with leather in the Day Nursery's eight-round feature bout in Portner's Arena. A semifinal of eight rounds, a six and two fours, complete the bill, which opens at 8:30 o'clock.

The fans will see a Gallagher different than the overweight plodder who narrowly escaped a beating two weeks ago at the hands of hard-hitting Herman Weiner. The current Gallagher, weighing 201, is not only in better physical condition, but is more alive mentally, as well. He is keenly aware that he must make an impressive showing in order to seize opportunities concerning bouts with Bill Stribling and Charlie Retzlaff, the Duluth slugger.

Marty Seeks Bout With Retzlaff.

If Marty wins he probably will be matched with Retzlaff at Portner's in two or three weeks. The Minnesota mauler is in the East and is willing to appear on a Day Nursery card. Stribling has been sounded out on the same score, but Marty would prefer the Retzlaff bout, as it will offer him a chance to avenge a knockout suffered at Cleveland last summer on the world championship card.

Brown, who is under the management of Billy McCarney and Joe Jacobs, fistiana's most publicized men in their line, is scheduled to meet Tony Galento next Monday night in Pittsburgh. So to protect his chances of slicing a big "gate" a week hence, he must toss all his ammunition into tonight's battle. He is under a weight handicap of about 15 pounds.

Early this month Brown fought Reds Barry to a draw at Portner's and left many fans with the suspicion that he could have done better. His record seems to bear that out.

Brown Beat Jones Twice.

The Philadelphian has to his credit two victories over Billy Jones, one of the best light heavies in the country, and he has stayed the limit with Larry Johnson who knocked out Gallagher about a year ago.

The supporting card seems attractive. Lew Raymond, Baltimore's promising junior welter, meets Sammy Braunstein, rugged Marine, in the semifinal of eight rounds, while Patsy Lewis, Baltimore southpaw, tangles with Jimmy McKenna, of this city, in the six-round main preliminary. Two fours offer Billy Esinger vs. Jack Lamar and Marino Marini vs. Soldier Clark, all of whom are lightweights.

Ladies with escorts will be admitted free to all but ringside seats.

Mate Is Top Weight In "Met" Handicap

New York, Jan. 31 (U.P.).—Weights for the $5,000 added Metropolitan Handicap, mile fixture to be decided at Belmont Park's spring meeting, were announced today. The race is for 3-year-olds and upward, and includes many famous equine names in its long list of winners.

Top weight of 128 pounds is assigned to A. C. Bostwick's Mate, while C. V. Whitney's Equipoise is handicapped next at 124 pounds. Flying Heels is rated next with 123, while Hi-Jack and Mr. Sponge are assigned imposts of 122 pounds. The others range downward to Integrity, which gets in under 90 pounds.

BATTERY A WINS.

Battery A took the measure of Battery B by a score of 18-6 in a Coast Artillery League game yesterday. Corridon, with four field goals and two foul shots to his credit, led the winners in scoring.

TEXAS OPEN CROWN TO CLARK

Sarazen, Moreland in Tie for 2d, Stroke Behind Victor.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Clarence Clark, professional from Bloomfield, N. J., won the Texas open golf tournament today with a scintillating 69 for a total score of 287. He replaced Abe Espinosa, of Chicago, as champion.

At the start of the tournament Clark was just a playing professional among many prominent stars. At the close of the first 36 holes his 144 made some of the boys point him out at the lunch counter. On the first eighteen today he slipped into the shadows again with a 74, but came right back into the limelight with a 34-35—69 on the last 18 of the 72 holes. First prize was $600.

Clark Needs Par to Pass Sarazan.

Clark needed to finish even par to take the lead from Gene Sarazen, who had finished early with 288. He got par at the seventeenth and needed a par three at the final hole. His tee shot blazed from tee to green and stopped within 12 feet of the cup. He sent it cupward with his putter, but it stopped on the lip, giving him a sure three and the championship.

Tied for second place were Gene Sarazen, New York professional, and Gus Moreland, Dallas amateur and Texas State champion, with cards of 288. On the first 18 today Sarazen finished with a 72, 1 over, although he wasn't putting so good. He shot a par 71 on the final for a 72-hole card of 145—143—288.

Moreland shot the best individual score of the day when he finished the last 18 holes in 67 strokes.

Jockey Dainty Dies In Automobile Crash

Belleville, Ontario, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—F. (Buddy) Dainty, 23-year-old jockey, known to Ontario race fans as the "long-shot rider," was killed last night in an automobile crash.

Dainty was first string rider for George Hardy sr.'s Harbor Stable and also had ridden frequently on United States tracks.

Gridmen Selected For August Game

Booth Among East Players Picked for Olympic Demonstration.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Twenty-six Yale, Harvard and Princeton seniors have been chosen to play in a demonstration football game against a team selected from three California institutions during the Olympic meet in Los Angeles next summer.

Tad Jones, former Yale head coach, today announced the personnel of the group, chosen after conferences with Coach Eddie Casey of Harvard, Dr. Marvin Stevens, of Yale, and Thurston Davies, of Princeton.

The Eastern team will oppose on August 10 a squad picked by Howard Jones, the former Yale mentor's brother, from seniors at the University of Southern California, Stanford University and the University of California.

Two of the "Big Three" 1931 captains are expected to accompany the Eastern Team. Barry Wood, Harvard's all-American captain, declined an invitation because of studies he plans to take during the summer.

Albie Booth, diminutive Yale backfield star, who is in a sanatorium recovering from a lung infection, has been advised he can be in uniform and probably will play, but undoubtedly will not see heavy duty in the game. William Yeckley, Princeton captain, also has been invited.

CATCHER TO BEAUMONT.

Beaumont, Tex., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—John Pasek, catcher with Allentown, of the Eastern League, last season, has been optioned by the Detroit Tigers to the Beaumont Exporters, it was announced here tonight. Pasek, a right-handed hitter, batted .312 in 108 games, 26 of which he played in right field.

HEAVIES TOP CARD FOR WEEK

Uzcudun and Schaaf to Clash Friday in N. Y. Garden.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (A.P.)—Heavyweights once again dominate the national boxing program this week. At Madison Square Garden, New York, on Friday, Paulino Uzcudun, rugged Spaniard, tackles Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, generally regarded as the best of the younger heavyweights. The bout, at 15 rounds, is another in the series of heavyweight eliminations designed to bring about naming of an alternate for the championship duel between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey here June 16.

At Boston on Friday, Charley Retzlaff, young Duluth heavyweight, takes on Jack McCarthy of Boston in a 10-rounder. Out in the far west chief interest attaches to the return to the ring after a long layoff of young Corbett, Fresno welterweight.

Corbett, who has been out of action as a result of a broken thumb, meets David Velasco of Mexico City, in a 10-rounder at San Francisco Friday night.

Millrose Meet Draws 18 Champions Tonight

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The Millrose games, first of the season's important indoor meets in the metropolitan district, is the magnet that will attract one of the greatest fields of track stars ever to compete under one roof to Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Entered in the Millrose program of 28 events, including the classic Wanamaker mile, are eighteen national A. A. U. indoor and outdoor champions, three national champions of Canada, one national champion of Hungary, one British Empire title holder, three intercollegiate A. A. A. A. champions and five national collegiate A. A. champions.

In the group of star athletes who will match strides on the Garden's new eleven-lap track and in the jumping pits are eleven who hold world or American records. The lure of the approaching Olympics at Los Angeles has been largely responsible for the bumper entry list.

Indians and Tigers Seek Veteran

Morgan Is Sought by Nats; Reserves Are Needed Here.

Harris Wants Former Teammate; Sports Writers Frolic.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

PRESIDENT CLARK GRIFFITH, of the Nationals, left for New York yesterday, where he will attend today's major league schedule meeting. As the matter of approving the date-list is merely an idle gesture—for the schedule is already printed and distributed to press services for release in tomorrow's newspapers—and little other business is done, it is safe to assume that the Nat owner is making the trip in the hope that he may do a little player-dickering.

It is known that the Washington club owner is seeking the services of utility talent for use in the infield and behind the bat, while it is believed that he would like to dispose of First Baseman Joe Judge, either for cash or players. And, as the National League is meeting in New York tomorrow, Griffith no doubt sees in these gatherings of the magnates his last chance this spring of finding them all together with plenty of time to talk deals.

Gives Way to Kuhel.

Regarding Judge, the popular veteran who has performed here for fifteen seasons, the general translation of the handwriting on the wall is that he is through as a National. The rookie, Joe Kuhel, was given the right of way over the old-timer last season and apparently is set as a 1932 regular. Judge not only is too high-salaried a player to be kept as a utility player, but, because of his age, he probably would find it difficult to keep on edge for emergency use if not used regularly.

As far as is known, no National League clubs have made overtures for Judge, but both Bucky Harris, of the Tigers, and Roger Peckinpaugh, of the Indians, have admitted that they could use the veteran and are understood to have broached the subject of a deal with Griffith. Dale Alexander is a joke as a first baseman and Harris tried to convert him into a fly-chaser last season and probably would try to finish the job if he could land a first-sacker of Judge's ability.

The Indians likewise have given up on Ed Morgan and have even gone so far as to announce that this heavy hitter, but poor fielder, is on the auction block. They are depending on young Bob Connatser to replace him, but are far from sure that he will fill the bill. He is the youngster who performed sensationally with the New Orleans club last year. He is 25 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighs 170 pounds and hit close to .350 in the minors, but how he will fare against major league pitching remains to be seen, hence, the Tribe's interest in Judge.

Indians Balk on Morgan Deal.

There have been several unconfirmed rumors that Griffith has offered Judge for Morgan, but that the Indians consider this too high a price. From a Washington standpoint, there is no doubt but what this would be a good trade. Morgan is a better hitter than Judge, bats right-handed, and would come in mighty handy as a relief fly-chaser and pinch-batter. He played in the outfield for Cleveland until called on to play first when Lew Fonseca was hurt two seasons ago.

Griffith admits that he needs two seasoned players—even if they are slipping veterans—to protect his infield and back-stopping departments. Aside from Judge, Johnny Kerr is the only infield reserve and another is essential to help him out, while Roy Spencer is the only experienced catcher available, excluding Coach Ed (Patsy) Gharrity, who is believed to be too seasoned. Cliff Bolton will be retained and last Thursday a youngster who answers to the name of Howard Maple was bought from the Bloomington Club, of the Three-Eye League. He shows promise as a catcher but is only a year or two away from the sandlots and hardly could be expected to step right into a major league line-up.

Baseball Writers Frolic.

The Nat owner attended last night's ninth annual dinner of the New York Baseball Writers' Chapter, at which were Commissioner Kennesaw Mountain Landis, William Harridge and John Heydler, presidents of the two major leagues, and representatives from practically every club in the big leagues. At this annual affair, the magnates enjoy seeing themselves and some of their actions burlesqued by the scribes, who put on a pocket edition of the Gridiron Club dinner held here each year.

The writers voted two annual awards—to Wilbert Robinson, deposed manager of the Brooklyn Club, for "outstanding service," and to Lou Gehrig, Yankee first-baseman, as the "player of the year."

Registration in 3 Classes For A. A. U. Basket Ball Tourney Closes Tonight

BY midnight tonight, all players in the 130-pound, 145-pound and unlimited classes, who intend to compete in the A. A. U. basket ball tournament, sponsored by The Post, must have their registration papers filled out and in the hands of Charles M. Fyfe, chairman of the registration committee. Mr. Fyfe will be at his office in the Boys Club, Third and C streets northwest, all day today and until late tonight.

Those who participated in the tournament last season, and whose membership in the A. A. U. does not expire until the latter part of this month, are urged to join for the ensuing year as soon as possible. This will protect the teams from losing players, through the lack of foresight on the latter's part, while the championships are being decided.

Members of girls teams and the smaller boys teams have until February 23, in which to file their applications for A. A. U. membership, but these are urged to fall in line as soon as possible in order to lighten the tasks of officials handling the affair.

Approximately 50 teams of all descriptions and sizes have already signified their intention of entering the tourney. This does not include the teams competing in various leagues who will be in line when play is commenced. This number will be augmented as February 23 approaches, as this is the closing date for team entries in all classes.

The tournament annually affords the amateur teams of the city an opportunity to play basket ball as it is played by the college teams, under ideal conditions. The spacious Tech High School gym will be the scene of the contests, and officials of the approved board will handle all games.

Registrations close at midnight tonight for 130, 145 and unlimted men, and February 23 for other classes. Entries for all teams close February 23.

German Olympic Captain Breaks Arm As Sled Spills

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Jan. 31 (A. P.).—Capt. Werner Zahn, World War aviation ace and head of the German bobsleigh team, suffered a fracture of the left arm today in a crash on the treacherous bob run as the sleigh teams of eight nations defied a blizzard to attempt practice for the winter Olympic games.

With the dawn, the teams of the United States, Austria, Belgium, France, Italy, Roumania, Switzerland and Germany, took to the treacherous run down the steep sides of Mount Hoevenberg despite a blinding snowatorm and a temperature 5 degrees above zero.

Among the first teams to challenge the 25 curves and banks was Zahn and his three-man crew. Heading into the most difficult turn, a double bank known as Zigzag, the German sled was traveling at an estimated speed of 60 miles an hour. Zahn, the steersman, headed into the bank to the right a bit too high, came out of it staggering, hit the bend to the left too high, and shot up and over the top of the wall, set at a 90-degree angle.

Zahn's sled broke down a portion of the wall and sailed 100 feet through the air, the four riders clinging desperately to the bob, before it smashed to splinters against a tree amid thick underbrush down the mountain slope.

Chevigny, Coach of Great Notre Dame Backs, Quits

SOUTH BEND, Ind, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Jack Chevigny, tutor of the Epoch-making backfields of Notre Dame football teams for the last three seasons, has resigned.

In announcing his resignation last night Chevigny, himself a star blocking halfback at Notre Dame in the seasons of 1926-27-28, said that he was considering offers from several universities. He gave no reason for resigning. Recently he visited at the University of Iowa, where the position of head grid coach is open, but he declined to name the source of any of his offers.

There was no comment from the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. S., president of Notre Dame, or from other officials.

Though his years on the varsity were not marked by the conspicuous team success that the last three Irish squads enjoyed, Chevigny was outstanding as a player, and as a coach was given much credit for the development of such stars as Carideo, Schwartz, Elder, Brill, Mullins and Savoldi, who played important roles in the all-victorious campaigns of 1929 and 1930.

He began coaching under the late Knute Rockne in the fall of 1929, and when Rockne died was designated "junior coach" to work with senior cocah Heartly "Hunk" Anderson in developing last fall's Irish team.

Several former Notre Dame players are expected to apply for Chevigny's job, but the most likely is believed to be Marchmont Schwartz, two-time all-American halfback. Schwartz will not be graduated from the Notre Dame law school for another year and could coach while finishing his course, as he is ineligible for further competition.

15 NEW RECORDS MADE ON EASTERN ALLEYS THIS SEASON

Majority Set By Capital Bowlers

8 Men's, 7 Women's Marks Established; 2 to Barnes.

Raised Gutters Help; Evelyn Ream's 408 Is Brilliant.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

THE largest item in the expense account of George Isemann, secretary of the National Duckpin Congress, this year promises to be postage, for the raised gutters and sharp eyes of the bowlers have kept him busy mailing new records to newspapers, alley managers and individuals almost from the start of the season. Eight new records have been established by men and seven by women.

The first new mark was reported from Baltimore, where Wesley Askew and Ray Barnes demolished the five-game doubles mark with a score of 1,312. A week later, rolling the second block of their ten-game match with Ollie Pacini and Reds Megaw, the pair added the ten-game record to their collection with a new score of 2,556.

Blue Ribbons Set Record.

In the latter part of December, Frank Barber's Connecticut Blue Ribbon Team rolled a five-game score of 3,177 in winning a match with the National Pale Drys in this city. Nick Tronsky, anchor man of the visitors and one of the country's leading duckpin bowlers, smashed the fifteen-game mark with a score of 1,979. He bettered this by 24 pins in a return engagement with the Pale Drys at Willimantic, Conn., last Friday. In this latter match the Blue Ribbons copped the ten-game record with 3,177 pins.

Ray Barnes reappeared in the role of a record-breaker on January 2, when he won the national sweepstakes at Baltimore with a total of 1,372. The final record for men was made by John Drenner, jr., of Baltimore, who toppled 719 pins in five games in the Evening Sun tournament at Baltimore.

The latest records for women include the ten-game count of 2,128 rolled by Mary Galloway and Helen Spencer in a doubles match with Lorraine Gulli and Billie Butler. The King Pin Team broke the five-game team record with a new mark of 2,636 in the latter part of December.

10-Game Record Added.

To this the team added the ten-game record a week later, running the total to 5,184 in the final block of a match with the Tinytown Girls Team, of Richmond, Va. This score included a ten-game individual score of 1,133, made by Lorraine Gulli.

Evelyn Ream broke another individual record when she rolled a brilliant 408 set while competing with the Deal's Service Team in the Ladies' District League on January 6.

The latest women's records are the 15, 20 and 25 game records of Mr. Catherine Quigley, 1,547, 2,105 and 2,611, respectively, which she rolled in the first women's marathon staged at Convention Hall last Saturday.

Fredericksburg Elks Tamed by Howitzers

The Howitzer Giants disposed of the Fredericksburg Elks with little difficulty yesterday, winning by a score of 42 to 11 in a one-sided game played in the Kensington Armory.

All of the Giants broke into the scoring column, with McCann, Price and Swift bearing the brunt of the point getting. The visitors made only three field goals during the entire game and were unable to cope with the rapid fire attack of the Giants.

LAWRENCE TIBBETT, film star and barytone with the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, follows the old Yogi custom of standing on his head when he wants to clear his brain for quick thinking. By bringing blood to the vocal cords, singing is made easier. Wise men of India are supposed to have been the first to discover the benefits of this practice.

Tibbett makes a habit of standing on his head in the wings for several minutes before going on the stage for concert and grand opera work, and in the studio he follows the same tactics.

—Hialeah Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 31.—MABLA, scratched from the feature at Hialeah Park Saturday, will be favorite in the feature tomorrow, an allowance race for 3-year-olds and upward at 5½ furlongs. This On Watch filly of Mrs. George W. Loft beat Hellanthus in her last start, and has so much early speed at the short distance that it is improbable anything in the field tomorrow can approach her.

SINGLE STAR will come closest. She also is very fast and has been winning races right along. In her last start she beat Memories Dear in 1:12 flat. LULLABY II is coming around to best form and should hold the others safe.

FIRST RACE—HAMILTON should repeat. He was good enough to beat Parnell Bound a week ago in 1:12 1-5 and has only five pounds additional impost in this. BOB'S PLAY turned in a smart performance to beat Athol Thursday and should be the contender here. SAN PRESTO can do better than his last race shows and has the best chance for the third money.

SECOND RACE—STRAIGHT JACKET looks like a winner in this field. He was beaten in near-record time for the 2-furlong dash. MEANY, driving the pace of Lucille K. on Thursday, finished second, and should be no farther away. RENOVAH, if never runs to his works, will figure.

THIRD RACE—This appears to be a tight fit between TOMBEREAU and CLEAN PLAY. TOMBEREAU won his last start in 1:11 4-5, has shown much consistency at this track, and should win back. CLEAN PLAY which won his last from PLEASE will hold the balance of the field safe. JUDGE DIRENZO, after a rest of several weeks, may improve.

FOURTH RACE—BACCIOCCO, after winning four races consecutively before losing, is well placed. THE HEATHEN has not struck his winning stride at Miami, but may prove a hard horse to beat, for he was worked fast and has been running with fast company. DOUBLE HEART, winner of two races recently, will figure prominently and should be third.

SIXTH RACE—THE GEN has not been running to his best form, but is selected, this being nearer his best distance. Lightly weighted, it seems his best chance recently to win. GAY BIRD is rated the contender on his second to Prince Tokalon. MERIDIAN QUEEN, at top form, should be third. Throw out her last race.

SEVENTH RACE—FAIR BILLOWS will have SPAN FAIR to beat. He has beaten this horse twice and should do so again, but SPAN FAIR is strictly the contender. FAIR BILLOWS was third to Trombone, last out, but previously had beaten Don Tasker easily. SPAN FAIR is better now than he has been this winter. LUCKY RACKET has speed and should hold the money safe.

SINGLE POINT COSTS VICS DECISION

Philadelphia Turners Nose Out D. C. Five by a 30-29 Score.

LED by Ed Becker, chunky speed merchant, who tossed the ball into the basket from all angles, the Columbia Turners, of Philadelphia, nosed out Vic's Sport Shop by a 30-29 score in a swift-moving, thrill-packed game at the Silver Spring Armory yesterday.

The local hopefuls entered the fray with visions of emerging with their sixth victory of the season, but from the start it was apparent that the Quakers had other ideas concerning the outcome. The teams battled neck and neck during the first half, which ended with the score at 12-all.

The Sport Shop forged ahead of its opponent at the start of the second half on baskets by "Cowboy" Hayes and Joe Sweeney, but this lead was wiped out within a few minutes when Becker eased two shots through the net in rapid succession. From then on it was a point-for-point battle, with neither team ever ahead by more than three points.

Teams Deadlocked At 29-All.

Only at one stage of the fray, late in the game, did Vic's get a chance to obtain a comfortable lead. Dick Streeks made good on a charity toss to send the score to 27-24, but Bill Umboltz, Columbia guard, adjusted matters for his team with a brace of two-pointers, and a moment later Becker boosted the score to 29-27 on a foul shot.

Hayes knotted the count when he dribbled a few yards, and ran a few more into the basket to sink a snowbird, but another free toss by Starke put the visitors on top with the deciding point. The opportunity of winning the game was given Walter Morris, Vic's guard, in the last few seconds of play, but his shot rimmed the basket and rolled off.

Hayes, Vic's center, displayed a 100 per cent improvement over his last performance. The "Cowboy" was like a finger in the eye of the opposing team all afternoon, and had the remainder of the team been as aggressive as he was the final count might have been in the home club's favor.

Bill Wood Proves Ability To Paddle Several Canoes

BILL WOOD.

SOME twelve years ago Bill Wood proved that he could do two things at once. Bill was running a paddle wheel stand at Chevy Chase Lake and doing a lot of thinking at the same time. While the 10-cents-a-chance game was profitable, it was in Bill's mind that the real profits were accumulating.

He rid himself of a few ideas to Meyer Davis and the next year he took over the management of "the Lake." But Bill did not stop at this. He decided that he could successfully operate the Lake and a bowling alley or two on the side. Davis concurred with him on the idea and plans were at once made for the construction of a duckpin establishment.

King Pin First Venture.

On December 15, 1923, the King Pin alleys were opened with Wood at the helm. The project was successful from the start and more establishments were opened. King Pin No. 2 followed two years later, and on September 15, 1928, Lucky Strike, the largest of all under Wood's direction, was thrown open.

In the meantime additional responsibilities in the way of the Swanee ballroom and Willow Grove Park were heaped upon Bill's shoulders. The park, which is in Philadelphia, covers 120 acres of ground and is considered the largest amusement park in the world. Bill handled all, and did it well.

Wood has a magnetic personality and is one of the most popular men connected with duckpins, as his recent election to the presidency of the Alley Operators Association will attest. His friends are legion, and those who come in contact with him in daily life swear by him.

He is numbered among the students of psychology and has used the art to good advantage in dealing with the public. Continually beset by disgruntled competitors in sweepstakes and tournaments, Bill has never failed to iron out the difficulty without injuring the feelings of the persons concerned.

Bill Smiles His Way.

Some bowlers complain that the pin boy is neglecting to use the "spotter" in setting the pins, this man's partner has failed to put in an appearance, still another does not want to bowl on the alley he has been assigned to. Wood courteously, and with no little diplomacy, satisfies all.

Bowling has grown by leaps and bounds since Wood first came into the game. Competition has increased tenfold and is still on the upward trend, but Bill continues to grow with it. It is our guess that J. William Wood will be a leading figure in the game for many years to come.

Rockville Soccer Team in Shutout

Gaithersburg Booters Are Blanked, 5 to 0, as Steinberg Stars.

Maintaining its winning pace of the week before, Rockville's soccer team held scoreless the Gaithersburg booters yesterday, chalking up another victory in the Capital City Soccer League, 5 to 0.

Steinberg led the Rockville offense that had overwhelmed Brandywine the Sunday previous, accounting for three of his team's goals. Carr and Harris produced the other Rockville points.

Rockville unleashed a terrific bombardment on the Gaithersburg net early in the game and compiled a 2-to-0 advantage by intermission. The eventual winners then came back with even greater forc and drove through the Gaithersburg defense three times before calling it a day.

Fate and a lusty boot stepped in to favor Columbia Heights in its game with Brandywine at the latter's field. Somebody kicked the ball so hard that it exploded, and when Brandywine, the home team, was unable to produce another ball, the referee awarded the contest to Columbia Heights.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 181

THE main bridge into Anacostia from Washington in the middle eighties is shown in the above photograph. The concrete and steel Eleventh street bridge over the Eastern Branch has replaced this rickety old structure.

On the tragic night of April 14, 1865, when Abraham Lincoln was shot while attending a show in the old Ford's Theater, the assassin, John Wilkes Booth, escaped from the city into Maryland over this old wooden bridge. Booth later was ferried across the Potomac into Virginia, where he was shot and killed while hiding in a barn on a farm, according to some historians.

Note the old dirt road that is now Eleventh street. The store on the right is standing on what is now part of the navy yard grounds. This picture was taken between 1850 and 1865.

CHEST UNITS INTENT ON REACHING GOAL IN 3-DAY WINDUP DRIVE

Prominent Speakers Will Be Heard in Radio Pleas for Help Tonight.

17 PER CENT OF QUOTA IS YET TO BE OBTAINED

Number of Donors Increase Gifts to Aid Success of Relief Work.

Radio listeners will have a chance tonight at 8 o'clock to hear a group of prominent speakers over Station WRC address the people of Washington on the critical situation faced by the Community Chest, which has extended its drive until Wednesday in hope of attaining its $2,601,000 goal. The program, lasting for 30 minutes, will also include several musical selections, it was announced.

Besides a special speaker yet to be announced, the following are to make brief addresses: Bishop William F. McDowell, of the Methodist Church; the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Baltimore, and Dr. Abram Simon, rabbi of the Washington Hebrew Congregation.

The program will be presented by the Community Chest tonight through the kindness of Mrs. Charles Brooks Smith, radio travel chairman, in charge of a series of concerts given weekly by the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs. The Eastern High School Glee Club, with Miss Louise Wood directing, which was scheduled to appear on the Federation of Music Clubs program tonight, will postpone its concert until February 22, it was announced.

Success Held Vital.

Approximately 17,000 people are dependent upon the results obtained by the 4,000 volunteer Community Chest workers between now and Wednesday night.

These figures, according to Community Chest officials, are predicated on the fact that the Chest serves approximately 100,000 people each year; that only 83 per cent of the 1932 goal of $2,601,000 has been obtained so far; that each percentage point stands for 1,000 people, and that the 17 per cent yet to be obtained represents the care of 17,000 people.

"This means," said Campaign Chairman Edward F. Colladay yesterday, "that hundreds of little children, hundreds of sick and injured, hundreds of aged and infirm, and hundreds of jobless bread winners will lack the help that Chest organizations could give, unless we obtain this remaining 17 per cent of our quota. It means that the Chest organizations will not be able to function as adequately as they should and will endanger our proud boast that 'no person need go hungry in Washington.' It means that Washington will have failed to meet its greatest peace-time emergency, a situation I hold unthinkable.

Pleased at Continuation.

"That is the dark side of the picture," the chairman continued. "The other side is that 4,000 devoted Washingtonians, giving their services without stint and without any compensation other than a sense of duty well performed, were combing the city yesterday and Saturday afternoon, seeking additional funds for the Chest. From various parts of the city have come expressions of satisfaction at the continuation of the campaign until Wednesday night, as many of the workers had not had sufficient time to completely cover their territory.

"In addition to the efforts of this devoted group of public spirited citizens, the campaign committee has been further encouraged by the receipt of numerous checks for additional gifts from people who, althoug they had already contributed, had not realized the seriousness of the situation and expressed that realization by increased gifts."

The Community Chest "army" left the report meeting at the Willard Hotel Saturday faced with the necessity of raising $543,570.81 if the Chest goal is to be reached by Wednesday, to which date the drive has been extended. This means that these various units must report an average of slightly in excess of $181,000 per day, starting with today's meeting.

Drive Is Intensified.

Golf clubs were laid aside, automobile trips abandoned and only attendance at church allowed to interfere with the work of the Chest "army" yesterday. In all the churches of the city of all creeds and denominations, pleas for the success of the Chest campaign were made. Beautiful weather permitted wide solicitation on the part of each worker and most of them took advantage of it, remaining busy all day and well into last night, according to reports received at campaign headquarters in the Willard Hotel.

At headquarters also were gathered the leaders of the various units, together with members of the Chest executive committee, planning out the strategy of the next three days' campaign, in a battle to bring the Chest "over the top" in the allotted time.

"We are facing a terrific task," Elwood Street, director of the Chest, said, "but if the 4,000 volunteer workers continue to put forth the same efforts that they have expended so far, and continue to receive the same kindly reception that has so far been accorded them, there is a chance that we will make our goal by Wednesday night. Surely the splendid example set by the Government departments will inspire the rest of Washington to do its share toward meeting the human welfare needs of the most beautiful city in the world. I can not help but feel that Washington will rise to meet this emergency."

The ten teams of the Metropolitan Unit which have raised the highest percentage of their quotas during the first week of the Chest campaign are reported as follows:

Leading Teams.

Team 2243, Mrs. J. V. Brownell, captain, $6,828.50, 251.74 per cent of quota; team 2343, Charles Krey, captain, $417, 135.36 per cent of quota; team 2344, Dr. Raymond Hutchinson, captain, $1,266, 133.82 per cent of quota; team 2251, Maurice Maser, captain, $1,772.44, 124.43 per cent of quota; team 2362, William Hanson, captain, $1,858.50, 112.21 per cent of quota; team 2363, Frank M. Dent, captain, $803.50, 107.83 per cent of quota; team 2324, J. F. Carlson, captain, $655.50, 104.28 per cent of quota; team 2252, Miss Leah Levin, captain, $1,056.35, 87.65 per cent of quota; team 2351, James A. Farrel, captain, $2,833.75, 74.73 per cent of quota, and team 2341, Roy J. Klockinbrink, captain, $848.85, 71.50 of quota.

The ten sections of the Group Solicitation Unit which have raised the highest percentage of their quotas to date follow:

Section 1066, C. R. Kurtz, chief, $4,820, 218.69 per cent; section 1030, S. L. Heckinger, chief, $4,628.05, 123.81 per cent of quota; section 1064, T. J. Groom, chief, $1,641.50, 122.04 per cent of quota; section 1032, J. E. Anderson, chief, $17,122.66, 116.34 per cent of quota; section 1013, D. L. Luxford, chief, $3,455.83, 105.59 per cent of quota; section 1065, L. P. McLachlen, chief, $5,815, 95.34 per cent of quota; section 1016, Charles A. Stott, chief, $7,482, 94.91 per cent of quota; section 1062, W. J. Waller, chief, $2,540.40, 87.60 per cent of quota; section 1037, B. A. Harlan, chief, $5,256.78, 79.08 per cent of quota; section 1045, Robert Dugan, chief, $1,286, 74.33 per cent of quota.

NEW CAR AWARDED DISTRICT EMPLOYE

6,000 Sunday Visitors See New Models Displayed at Auto Show.

"It's hard to believe," H. H. Wisehart, law student and employe of the District auditor's office, said last night, when he was informed by The Post that he had just been awarded a new automobile at the twelfth annual show of the Washington Automotive Trade Association.

Mr. Wisehart will drive a new Chevrolet as a result of his good fortune, brought about by attendance at the Washington Auditorium where sleek new 1932 models of the finest in motor vehicles shine upon the display floor. Mr. Wisehart, who lives at 2121 New York avenue northwest, formerly owned an automobile of the same make, but had not driven a car in several years.

"Well, you have another Chevrolet now," he was informed. "I'm certainly glad to hear it, but it's still hard to believe," he returned.

A new Plymouth tudor sedan will be awarded tonight to some visitor to the auto show.

The attendance at the show yesterday was 6,000, according to Fred Haller, president of the Automotive Trade Association. He said that attendance for Sunday was 15 per cent ahead of the same day last year, and some 1,000 ahead of Saturday's attendance. Dealeres are also reporting more sales than last year, Mr. Haller said.

Immaculata Seminary Ends Three-Day Retreat

Hours of silence, meditation, prayer and attendance at several daily sermons was the program of the student body of Immaculata Seminary during three days ended yesterday. The students were on solemn spiritual retreat, an event which the Sisters of Providence of St. Mary-of-the-Woods, one of the leading orders of teaching nuns in the church, provide annually. The Rev. John F. Cox, S. J., of St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia, conducted all the exercises.

Baptists Consider Salient Problems

425 Delegates Hold All-Day Session; Efficiency Secretary Speaks.

Problems of the community, church and Sunday school were considered by more than 425 members of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches at an all-day conference yesterday at the Raleigh Hotel.

F. A. Agar, church efficiency secretary of the Northern Baptist Convention, spoke throughout the day. He presented problems of all phases of community and church work, and then invited open discussion, during which he answered questions. W. W. Everett, moderator of the association, presided.

The church officers concluded with the conviction that they have a clear picture of the problems facing them during the coming year. The experience obtained from Mr. Agar's studies can be applied to local conditions to a great extent, the officers said.

Children Witness Holy Name Show

Minstrel Will Be Repeated Tonight, Tomorrow and Wednesday.

A special performance of the annual minstrel show of the Holy Name Society of the Holy Trinity Church for the children of the parish was presented yesterday afternoon at the Trinity auditorium. The show will be repeated tonight, tomorrow night and Wednesday at 8:15 o'clock. The minstrel was produced and staged under direction of John C. Gartland, president of the society.

The show featured four comedians, Barney Puck, Tommy Murray, Billy Kelly and Jack Lynch.

Meeting Called to Plan For Children's Festival

The dance directors of the Community Center Department, will meet tomorrow evening, at 7 o'clock in Central High Community Center to arrange details for the children's festival of Washington on March 19, at Central Center, in which children in the dance and drama groups of all community centers in divisions 1 to 9 will participate.

The children's festival, an annual event of the early spring, will this year take the form of a dance dramapantomime, "Rip Van Winkle," arranged from Washington Irving's famous legend, by Miss Bess Davis Schreiner. The legend will be played in two parts, with music under the direction of Mrs. Edith H. Hunter, and Mrs. Gertrude Nash; and with stage settings nd lighting under the direction of Harold Snyder.

One-Act Play Tourney Entrant Time Extended

The proverbial "three days of grace"—only in this case, it will be five additional days—will be extended to the drama clubs and groups in the District of Columbia and in nearby Maryland and Virginia, for entrance to the 1932 one-act play tournament sponsored by the Community Center Department, with the cooperation of the Drama Guild, of Washington. The dates of the tournament are February 27 to March 15.

The period of registration for this annual tournament was originally announced to close today, but the committee, following several requests for more time by prospective contestants, to hold the registration period to the contest open until February 5. The announcement of the total number of entrants will be made on Saturday.

Embassy Sponsors Visit by Escudero

Noted Spanish Dancer to Appear at National Theater on February 16.

Washington is to be the first American city outside New York to see the noted Spanish gypsy, Vicente Escudero, who comes here directly after his fifth appearance in New York, and will be sponsored by the Spanish Embassy and entertained at the embassy while here.

It was not until this year that Escudero could be persuaded to overcome the gypsy fear of crossing the ocean and come to America for the first time. He had his debut in New York January 17. His second appearance was January 24 and three more dates have been announced for New York. They are February 10, 12 and 14. He comes to Washington February 15 and will appear at the National Theater Tuesday, February 16, at 4:40 p. m.

Escudero is a young and vigorous man, yet he is already a tradition in Spain. Every Spanish person in Washington knows of his great artistry and the Pan-American representatives and citizens of all the Latin-American countries are evincing great interest in Escudero's first appearance here. Escudero is more than a dancer—he is an exponent of the real Spanish gypsy nature. A Washington committee sponsoring him includes Miss Bess Davis Schreiner, Mrs. Helen Fetter Cook and Lewis Barrington.

Drug Store Robber Gets $30.

A colored man entered the drug store at Seventh and Rhode Island avenue yesterday afternoon and removed $30 from the cash register, which he opened while the proprietor, Dr. Frank Simpson, was busy in the rear of the store. The intruder later was seen running up a nearby alley by passersby.

CAFRITZ REELECTED JEWISH GROUP HEAD

Community Center Audience Hears Appeal for Chest; Schwartz Pleases.

A special appeal for support of the Community Chest, and presentation of dramatizations by Maurice Schwartz, noted Jewish actor, featured the annual meeting and election of officers of the Jewish Community Center last night. The meeting marked the sixth anniversary of occupation of the new building at Sixteenth and Q streets northwest.

Morris Cafritz was reelected president; Morris Gewirz, first vice president; E. I. Kaufmann, second vice president; Morris Garfinkle, third vice president; Harry Viner, treasurer; Benjamin Ourisman, associate treasurer; Abe Shefferman, recording secretary, and Moe Offenberg, corresponding secretary.

The following new board members were chosen: Mrs. Harry Bernton, Judge Nathan Cayton, Leopold Freudberg and Jack Shulman. The other board members are William Bush, Isodore Hershfield, Mrs. Adolph Kahn, Mrs. Isodore Kahn, John Korman, Mrs. James Lansburgh, Nathan Plotnivk, Mrs. Sarah Roberts, Edward Rosenblum, J. B. Shapiro, Harry Sherby and Joseph A. Wilner.

In their annual reports, the officers stressed the need for support of the Community Chest which has rendered considerable aid to Jewish institutions of the District, they pointed out. Welfare conditions in Washington at the present time are such as to require support greater than ever before, it was pointed out. The reports also revealed that 300 jobs have been obtained through the employment bureau of the center.

Mr. Gewirz presented the executive committee report, David Weiner, the educational; Mr. Rosenblum, the athletic; Simon Hirshman, memorial, and Maurice Bisgyer, the executive director's.

Mr. Schwartz gave a scene from "If I Were You," in which he has just completed playing in New York; a scene from "The Merchant of Venice," and several humorous and dramatic Jewish offerings. He was enthusiastically received by a large audience.

KingWeightPusher Here After 6,000-Mile Hike

Claimant to the title of world's champion weight pusher of the world, Albert Smith, 24-year-old walking enthusiast, rested yesterday in Washington after his 6,000-mile walk, pushing a 500-pound motorcycle from Seattle to New York City.

The trip was made in 13 months, and Smith is now wearing the eleventh pair of shoes since the beginning of his hike. The former champion won the title by pushing a 200 pound wheelbarrow across the country to win a $10,000 bet.

Plane From Pittsburgh Travels at 282 M. P. H.

Flying at approximately 4.7 miles a minute, a speed that is believed to set a new world record for commercial type planes, a Continental Airways plane with four passengers aboard yesterday averaged 282 miles per hour between Pittsburgh and Washington, a distance of 192 miles.

Piloted by Russell Mossman, the plane left Pittsburgh at 1:34 p. m. and arrived in Washington at 2:15 p. m. The scheduled time is 75 minutes. The plane was aided by high winds, approaching at times a velocity of 80 miles per hour, the pilot said.

CAPPER GIVES RIGHT OF WAY TO TROLLEY MERGER MEASURES

District Committee Will Begin New Hearings on Wednesday.

SPEEDY ACTION HOPED FOR BY ITS CHAIRMAN

Black Says Subcommittee in House Plans to Report Bill Favorably.

Legislation merging Washington's street car and bus lines will be given the right of way on the District calendar, Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, said yesterday.

The committee will begin hearings on the joint resolution, authorizing the merger, at 2 p. m. tomorrow with Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, as the first witness.

"The legislation providing for the consolidation of the city's transit properties," Senator Capper said, "is the most important measure before the District committee. The issue has been before Congress in one form or another for many years, and I would like to see it definitely settled at this session. And I can see no reason why it should not be.

Resolution Lacks Terms.

"It is obvious that there must be a merger if Washington's tangled transportation problem is ever to be straightened out. No question has been raised about this. There can be no doubt that great economy in operation and better service to the car-riding public would result, together with other benefits, and I think it should be effected as quickly as possible."

Senator Capper pointed out that the joint resolution which was sponsored by the Public Utilities Commission gives only the sanction of Congress to the merger, and does not provide the terms for the unification agreement which, he said, would have to be worked out by the Utilities Commission and the transit companies and have the final approval of the utilities body.

The senator asserted that he understood all the objectionable features of the old merger legislation had been eliminated by the Public Utilities Commission in drafting the new measure, and that while he was not prepared to speak for the other members of the committee, he said that he did not think any objection to its enactment would develop in either the committee or the Senate.

Black Finds No Objection.

Representative Loring M. Black, of New York, chairman of the utilities subcommittee of the House District committee, which last week heard Gen. Patrick discuss the provisions of the proposed merger legislation, said yesterday that no further hearings would be held on it and that the subcommittee would report the bill favorably to the full committee probably at its next meeting.

"Our hearing was given the fullest publicity and no voice was raised in opposition to the measure," Representative Black said. "The subcommittee was concerned chiefly with the labor question involved in the proposed merger, and the provisions for issuing the stock of the new corporation that will be formed under it.

"Gen. Patrick answered both these questions satisfactorily. He said that it was his opinion that the consolidation would give employment to more and not fewer men, and that the Public Utilities Commission is empowered to take any steps necessary to regulate or restrict the issuance of stock of the new company to safeguard public interest."

Three Appointed To National Panel

District Accountants Are Added as Arbitrators of Trade Disputes.

Durand W. Springer, William Gordon Buchanan, member of the staff of Georgetown University, and C. Vaughan Darby, District of Columbia accountants, have been appointed to serve on the national panel of arbitrators of the American Arbitration Association, according to an announcement made in New York by Lucius R. Eastman, president, adding three more accountants to the group of business and professional men now serving on the District of Columbia panel maintained by the association.

All of these men are enlisted to serve, without compensation, in business disputes arising in this locality which are submitted to the American Arbitration Association for arbitration.

Mr. Springer is the secretary of the American Society of Certified Public Accountants, and Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Darby are the District of Columbia representatives of the society.

All Routes Lead to Egypt, Legation Attache Declares

Declaring that all routes lead to or through Egypt today, including air routes, since that country lies in the center of the world's three oldest continents, "thus forming a natural bridge linking them to one another," Aly Ismail Bey, first secretary of the Egyptian Legation, pictured the sharp contrasts and a few amazing comparisons existing between the modern and ancient Egypt in an illustrated address last night at the diplomatic Sunday evening salon of the Bureau of Commercial Economics, held at the Shoreham Hotel. The salon was held in honor of his excellency, the Minister from Egypt, Sesostris Sidarouss Pasha.

Citing some of the marvels of Egypt which have remained unchanged through the centuries, Aly Bey declared that in the famous Temple of Der Behari, many of the paintings are as fresh today as they were when left by the painter's brush.

"But Egypt's great cotton industry—her principal source of wealth today," he pointed out, "is a part of modern Egypt. We owe the introduction of cotton cultivation to the king who founded our modern Egypt—his majesty King Mohamed Aly, the great-grandfather of our present monarch, King Fuad I."

The civilization of the ancient people of the Nile was cultivated to so high a degree, the speaker declared, that many of their customs and their methods are still in use today, having never been improved upon. "For instance, when sometime ago, a famous papyrus was discovered in Egypt explaining how the ancients treated fractures of the skull, the surgeon in chief of your Johns Hopkins University read the translated work in stupefaction, declaring that modern science has discovered no method which materially improves upon it."

Tomorrow Groundhog Day; Shadow Legend Attacked

U. S. Scientist Asserts Woodchuck Has No "Inside Dope."

Tomorrow will be Candlemas Day, more popularly known perhaps as ground-hog day. There is no significant news in the fact that it occurs at this time. It just naturally turns up once a year the same as Christmas bills, New Year resolutions and the income tax jitters. Tomorrow, then, being what it is, the ground hog is supposed to spring out of the ground, fresh and invigorated by a winter's sleep, and indicate by his shadow, or lack of one, what kind of weather we are going to have for—40 days, isn't it?

Of course, the persons who take stock in this sort of thing probably still have an abiding faith in Wall street predictions, but even so the ground hog has his followers. It remained for the good, old reliable Department of Agriculture, the farmers' dearest friend and severest critic, to shatter the faith the ground hog's supporters have held high all these years.

And from the way its bulletin reads, the department is fully prepared to put up a long and bitter debate about the whole matter if anyone threatens to get argumentative.

The ground hog, the department says, in blunt, harsh and unfeeling terms, doesn't even get up that early. February 2 is to him just like 4 a. m. to a ten-hour sleeper. Arthur B. Howell, of the Bureau of Biology, who knows so much about the private life of ground hogs that he must have been peeping, asserts that every sensible ground hog is sound asleep when February 2 strikes on the calendar. (And of course no one could have any faith in a giddy ground hog rounder that stayed out until that hour of the morn—we mean, year.)

"The popular notion of the ground hog as an indicator of weather is a superstition that today has only a whimsical foundation," the unfeeling Mr. Howell coldly asserts. He continues, tearing our hearts to shreds:

"The origin of the superstition is unknown, though there are various explanations. It may have been imported from Europe, where there is a similar long-standing superstition about the significance of the hedgehog's appearance on Candlemas Day; early settlers may have transferred this belief to the ground hog.

"If there were a day on which the ground hog—or woodchuck—forejudges the winter's duration, it could not be February 2 anywhere in the United States. Actual records indicate that the sleeper does not rouse himself until the latter half of February and often not until the early days of March."

The convention will be concluded at 8 o'clock Friday evening with a joint public installation of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Woman's Relief Corps.

Woman, 31, Is Treated At Hospital for Poison

Bernice Whalen, 31 years old, of 911 L street northwest, was admitted to Emergency Hospital last night for treatment as the result of swallowing a quantity of poison.

Fire rescue apparatus was summoned by other occupants of the house and the woman was given first aid before being taken to the hospital, where physicians said her condition was not serious.

Circus Interests To Protest Taxes

Motorized Owners Meet Today at Invitation of Fans' Society.

Protesting increased taxes and license restrictions, the Motorized Circus Owners will meet at the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today to organize for the preservation of what they term "America's first amusement."

The circus owners are here at the invitation of the James E. Cooper Top of the Circus Fans Association. The latter is an organization of some 600 business and professional men created to save the circus. Among members in Washington are Senators Watson, Moses and Neeley. The association boasts that it works on behalf of the circus and pays its own way.

Senator Watson is expected to address the circus owners at their annual dinner at Harvey's restaurant tonight, when a number of circus performers appearing at local theaters will be present. One circus owner has arrived with two pet lions who will be seated with the guests of honor.

The Washington committee consists of Harry A. Allen, chairman of the James E. Cooper Top (named after James E. Cooper who gave the first elephant to the Washington Zoo); Marshall L. King, Dr. E. C. Schneider, Frank Portillo, Hicklin Yates and Melvin D. Hilbreth. A trip to Mt. Vernon this afternoon will conclude the business session.

LEADERSHIP URGED AS NEED BY PASTOR

Dr. Montgomery Cites Need of Voice to Call U. S. Back to Prayer.

"Let us listen for the voice that will call this generation to its present day task and lead on to our final destiny," said Dr. James Shera Montgomery, preaching yesterday morning at the Mount Vernon Seminary Chapel, "Oh, for a voice, a far-reaching voice, that will penetrate the conscience of our citizenship," he went on.

"All over our land there are many Rachels weeping for their children. We need no mouthing in empty phrases, but a voice, country-round voice. Would that the incense of prayer would rise from the altars all over our land, praying for a revival of seriousness, of earnestness and reverence in the American home which is the center of gravity of our national life," Dr. Montgomery said.

"Frivolities, self-indulgence and ease are claiming inordinate attention and even parenthood is itching for a career of thoughtlessness and human folly. Who are setting the standards for our social order? Who are writing the fiction that appeals to the coarse and the low-flying? Who are they who are intoxicating the young with questionable amusements and the empty follies and are leading the way? Bunch the whole list and our answer is, the middle-aged and even those of longer years.

"A voice, a real voice, is needed, not an echo, though many prefer the latter. It speaks of a surface life pleased with a rattle and tickled with a straw. To be an echo is about the last thing an honest-to-goodness man aspires to be. A shadow or a reflector. It is mighty easy to classify them; they go in one pigeonhole, they are at home anywhere.

"Oh, for a voice, a persuasive, a masterful voice in the wilderness to appeal to our family life to preserve it and possibly keep it from cracking, a voice to warn society of the peril of clans, cliques and classes, a voice to head off the world from entering any further up a blind alley, a voice calling from all our sanctuaries and echoing the message of the Great Teacher, the Prince of Peace," Dr. Montgomery concluded.

Virginia Woman Injured In Capital Auto Collision

Mrs. Clara Washburn, 36 years old, of Alexandria, Va., was injured yesterday when an automobile operated by her husband, Lester A. Washburn, collied with another car driven by Joseph Mintor, 20 years old, colored, of 927 N street northwest. The accident happened at Connecticut avenue and Q street northwest.

Mrs. Washburn is in an undetermined condition in Emergency Hospital. She is under treatment for a fracture of the right shoulder, bruises and shock. Mintor was charged with reckless driving and operating without a permit. He was arrested by Patrolman F. T. Winfield.

Two Hurt When Auto Overturns in Crash

Two persons were slightly injured yesterday afternoon when an automobile overturned in a collision at Tenth street and Maryland avenue southwest.

The automobile of Grant Forbes, 63 years old, of Alexandria, Va., proceeding north on Tenth street southwest, overturned in the accident. Mrs Forbes was badly shaken up. Alden M. Brill, 28 years old, of 601 Sixth street southwest, who was driving the other machine west on Maryland avenue, suffered a cut lip.

Stolen Auto Found Damaged.

The badly damaged automobile of Elmer W. Honabach, of 2307 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was found on Ridge Road northwest yesterday by Seventh Precinct police. Honabach had previously reported it stolen Saturday night.

PREACHER BLAMES MAN'S NEGLECT OF GOD FOR EVIL DAYS

Dr. Brodie Occupies Pulpit at Union Service in Chevy Chase.

LESSON OF DEPRESSION IS DRAWN FROM BIBLE

Mankind's Use of Wealth Is Declared to Be Robbery of Diety.

"Our boasted greatness collapsed, God smote us and opened our eyes and here we sit on the ash heap of our folly," declared the Rev. Andrew Melrose Brodie yesterday at a union service of the Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian Churches at the Chevy Chase Baptist Church.

Dr. Brodie was preaching on the subject, "Will a Man Rob God?" his topic being taken from the eighth verse of the third chapter of the book of Malachi, and the text from the tenth verse of the sixth chapter of the first book of Timothy, "The love of money is the root of all evil."

"Fear hath seized us and we suffer in the midst of plenty, 7,000,000 out of work and 20,000,000 men, women and children going to bed supperless," he went on.

How God Is Wronged.

"Wy did God call this people into being? Why did He give us these vast resources, this untold wealth? That we might have beautiful homes, ride around in automobiles, revel in pleasure and squander our substance in riotous living? Certainly not. God gave us wealth and leadership that we might serve by carrying the good news to those sitting in darkness and the shadow of death. But we have failed Him.

"In hoarding and squandering our wealth we have wronged ourselves, injured others by withholding needed comfort and help and, worst of all, we have robbed God.

"In a dark hour in our Nation's history we stamped on our coins 'In God We Trust.' It would be more in keeping with our conduct if we stamped on our coins, 'In Gold We Trust.'

"Sentence Is Passed on Race."

"In speaking of the Romans at the height of their prosperity and power, Paul said, 'They are filled with all kinds of evils, envy, strife, hatred, murder and covetousness.' You see Paul claims covetousness, which we seem to think such a trifling thing, belongs among those heinous sins, murder and adultery.

"Sentence has been passed upon us. Possibly the great God in His infinite mercy will suspend the sentence. He surely will if we repent and change our mind about Him and change our attitude toward our fellows of whatever color, race or tongue. For we are our brother's keeper.

"Let us again listen to the voice of God: 'Come, now, let us reason together.' 'Though your sins be as scarlet they shall be as white as snow.' 'A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things he possesseth.' 'Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse and prove me now and see if I will not pour you out a blessing such as there is no room to contain.' 'Give and it shall be given unto you.' 'Ask and ye shall receive.'

Value of Love's Offerings.

"God is not seeking yours, but you. It is fellowship and love that he wants.

"Before marriage the young man deeply in love with the maiden of his choice delights to send 'love's offering' in the shape of flowers or candy. It is not so much the flowers or candy, but the ardent love that prompted the gift, that the woman appreciates. If the young man is wise he will continue the love gifts after marriage. Many a man, after marriage, to his eternal loss, has forgotten to say the sweet words he once uttered, forgotten love's offering.

"When we bring to the Lord our love offerings, when we bring in all the tithes, there will be joy in Heaven, our own hearts will be glad and our spiritual lives will grow apace. Then prosperity and peace shall return to our land and the glorious Gospel of the blessed God shall be carried to earth's remotest bounds," Dr. Brodie concluded.
